

On the next day, the 15th, we met a small congregation in the Church at Malbaie, to whom I made an Address, and from whom I received subscriptions amounting to $14.50. The Missionary here led me to expect that it would be considerably increased. It might I think be doubled. In justice however to the people at Malbaie, it must be stated that they are engaged upon a Parsonage, which when finished will be a comfortable and commodious dwelling for their minister. Just the shell of the house seemed to be up; none of the interior work done. If the work be prosecuted it may be habitable by spring. The Missionary here seemed to be much discouraged, perhaps too much so. But it is a hard field, and the people do not seem to appreciate their privileges as they ought.

In the afternoon I was conveyed by the Rev. Mr. DeMouilpied, to the ferry at the Bar-a-choir, where he left me. On the other side, I was met by young Mr. Vibert, who conveyed me to the corner of the Beach, and from thence another kind friend, Mr. Mabe, conveyed me to Percé, where we arrived late at night.

On the next day (Wednesday the 16th,) in company with the Rev. Mr. Crosse, and a member of his family, I went to the Parsonage and Church at Cape Cove. Here (notwithstanding due notice of the meeting had been given) we met only three persons who subscribed $2.80. These persons however took lists and promised to exert themselves in the Mission, which I was told was one of the best on the coast. They have a very comfortable and commodious new Parsonage house nearly completed here, $50 dollars more would perhaps finish it, and make it habitable. I am sorry to say that, for some cause or other the state of this Mission does not seem to be a healthy one. In the afternoon we returned to Percé, where, in one of the rooms belonging to the Messrs. Robin's establishment, we held a meeting and your Secretary
