Germany Has Added Nothing to Political Education of Mankind.

An exceedingly interesting historical address was given yesterday before the fessor G. M. Wrong, of Toronto Uni-versity. His subject was "Why Ger- will sit down to a good dinner in a many is at War." The historical events which have led up to the present state of affairs were gone into. The speaker believed the present war to be inevitable. Like other provinces in the Dominion Professor Wrong believed Ontario did not fully realize the present condition or the seriousness of it. He hoped the Canadian clubs thruout the land would be an influence in bright and cheerful room.

"Now, will you not do something to show your affection and sympathy for the Belgian girls and boys? Just think that most of them are refugees, outcasts—they have no more pardens to play in, or schools to attend. The girls and boys of St. Peter's School, Swinton, Manchester, England, have just sent me £5 for the Belgian Relief Fund, and their headmaster has written to tell me that the clubs thruout the land would be an influence in bringing home the true im-

Germany Organizes.

The daily life of the German people was touched upon. "It is with profound anguish that England finds herself at war with Germany," he said. Among Germany's most outstanding achievements was that of organization. He believed, however, that the Germans are lacking in creative abil-"I do not know of any field other ity. "I do not know of any field other than music where the Germans have given creative conceptions," he said.
"I think you will find that the gifts of given creative conceptions," he said. "I think you will find that the gifts of imagination have been denied. I do not believe German culture can claim creative force. The tragedy of Germany is this: the Germans have added nothing to the political education of mankind. The reason is clear. They attained unity within my memory That is the creation of our own times Political education was checked. Ger-many has never gone thru any profound political revolution."

Upper Class Rules. The speaker referred to the agitation in England of years ago. France had also learned the lesson. "My point is," he said, "that the political education of a people involves an upheaval Germany has not gone thru that. There are political institutions, but there is rule of the upper classes."

After pointing out that the points to ascertain are: What is the government composed of and what are they thinking about? he answered the second question by saying "I believe there are Course at the Margaret Eaton Studio on Monday evening at 8 o'clock by thinking about? he answered the second question by saying "I believe there are German statesmen who are convinced that Germany is in constant danger from her neighbors. Knowing that she has gained by war, she believes others will attack her. Modern Germany has come to realize that as a result of her national union she has failed to get the portion of the earth to which she feels entitled.
