IS THE LAW SACRED? There is nothing in the life of the citizen so sacred as the law.

There is nothing that so speedily weakens the State and makes for anarchy as disregard of the law.

There is nothing so demoralizing to judges and officers of the law as that the law should be distorted or made non-efficient by retroactive legislation.

Mr. Hardy is striking a blow at the sacredness of the law. Certain men ran for the Legislature and many citizens supported them, and whatever rights these candidates and citizens had under the existing law Mr. Hardy proposes to ignore.

He proposes that the Legislature shall interpret the law, and he proposes to nullify the law by the votes of men who are litigants and who fear the force of the law. He is adding men who are in wrongful possession—at least in question—to a man who acquires a title to land and he acquires a title to a seat in the Legislature by law; Mr. Hardy proposes to make a disputed title good without going to the courts.

We prefer to leave the title to the law and to the judges and not to in-

THE TORONTO WORLD ONE CENT MORNING PAPER.

No. 52 YONGE STREET, Toronto.

THE GOVERNMENT'S PHRENSY.

From whatever point of view the Hardy coup is regarded, there is nothing but disaster ahead of its author. Hardy has bottled himself up just as effectually as Cervantes bottled up his fleet in Santiago harbor. If Mr. Whitney will only have patience and keep his guns pointed on the enemy he will soon sink the Hardy outfit in ten fathoms of water. Mr. Hardy has already exhausted one possibility in regard to the constable vote. That possibility was to legalize the vote and thereby ensure the election of the eight interested members. Two other courses remain: he can either order those elections to be held over again, in which the constable vote would, if allowed, decide the election in favor of a Conservative candidate. Or he can leave the question entirely to the courts. The latter course would involve the abandonment by the Premier of legislation of any kind in regard to the constable vote. It would involve a complete back-down on the part of Mr. Hardy. It is a possibility which the Government must have, at this stage, decided to pursue. It will instruct the courts to unseat such Conservative candidates as have been legally elected by the constable vote. Of the two courses open to Mr. Hardy, we have no hesitation whatever in saying that this course, if pursued, will prove the more disastrous to the Government. As far as the Conservative party is concerned it matters little which policy the trickster decides on. It is suicide whichever way he turns. Let the Opposition keep him where he is. Hardy will soon appear supremely ridiculous as well as disheveled. Let the Opposition keep him where he is until the country at large appreciates the situation. The longer Hardy is kept in the bottle the worse will be his plight.

Suppose the trickster should be successful in his scheme to deprive certain Conservative candidates of the seats they are legally entitled to. What then? Hardy will have to leave the opposing Liberal candidates to the tender mercies of an unengaged electorate. What are the people going to do with a candidate who is a party to depriving his rival of a seat to which he is legally entitled? Hardy might as well expose these unfortunates to a pack of wolves. They will be devoured beyond recognition. The people can condone political sins but they will never forgive the coward who attacks his antagonist unfairly, or who hits his enemy below the belt. Hardy's constable candidates will have to go to the country as political prisoners. Nothing will save them from the fate that awaits the coward and the traitor.

Mr. Hall of West York and his seven unfortunate confederates ought to decide on a policy of their own in regard to this matter. If they are wise they will not let Hardy sacrifice them. We can understand their supporting Hardy in his original proposal. If that proposal had been carried into effect, the eight victims would be solidly entrenched in their seats. But having gone back on his first proposal, Hardy places the eight constable members in an altogether new and unenviable position. He proposes to sacrifice them to the wolves.

Why don't these eight members insist on Hardy's finding some other means of keeping them aloft? If no such means are available, will it not be better for the victims to retire honorably and retain the respect of the electors whose votes they will one day again be soliciting? Let them remember that it is they and not Hardy who is master of the situation just now.

However, this matter is their own affair. The Opposition can afford to take things philosophically, knowing as it does that whichever way Hardy turns suicide is ahead of him. But that is no reason why the Opposition should help to extricate him from the mess in which he finds himself. Again we advise the Opposition to keep Hardy just where they have him. Let him try in his own fat. Keep him on the ragged edge. At this very moment he is at his wit's end to frame his Constable bill. We would not be surprised to find him retreating to where he was before he called the Legislature together. No one can prophesy what Hardy will do in 24 hours. He may linger on a month or three months. But he can't last longer than that if the Opposition will keep the cork in the bottle and prevent his escape.

CONSIGNMENT OF S.S. MILWAUKEE Arrived in a Patriotic Condition. London, Aug. 11.—(Telegram Cable.)—Twenty-two tons of Canadian bacon which arrived by the steamship Milwaukee has been declared wet, green and putrid. A portion of the bacon will probably be saved by smoking, but such must be passed by a medical practitioner before it can be offered for sale.

Petersen-Tate Contract Abandoned. In reply to a question asked by Mr. Hogan in the House of Commons to-day, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain stated that the Petersen-Tate contract had been abandoned. The British Government, he said, had not been asked to co-operate with the Dominion. A contract would be made with the Canadian, not the British Government.

Mr. Chamberlain also said that until the Imperial Government received definite proposals from all the colonies, no further steps would be taken in the matter of the Pacific cable.

forested litigants. Of course if each man is free to make his title good, he can follow Mr. Hardy's example. But if a man has to prove his title to land before the judges, why not to a seat in Parliament in the same way?

We can understand Mr. Hardy and his fellow ministers trying to evade the interpretation of the law; but how can the ordinary members of the Legislature afford to take the risk? They must go to the people again, in all probability within a few months—it may be weeks—and the people will not tolerate men who are in favor of those who are in court to prove disputed title, voting themselves to the bench to settle the issue. The man of the disputed title before the court is surely not the court. If disputed titles are to be tried by the parties whose title is disputed, why not offences against the criminal code by those charged with crime?

BRAIN FAG. A well-known editor tells how Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured him of his nineteenth century nerve trouble.

"Brain fag" is a new disease. Our forefathers did not have it. To them the terrible strain on the nervous forces that falls to the lot of business, professional or literary men of the present day was unknown.

Nervous prostration is the goal to which more than fifty per cent. of the brain workers are hurrying. How can it be avoided? How can this new disease be cured? We will allow Mr. J. W. Hey, the genial and able editor and publisher of the Atlas and Graphic to answer. He says, "I was suffering from nervousness and impoverishment of the blood and commenced the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, believing from what I had heard and read of them that they were an excellent remedy. My faith in them was rewarded very speedily. They vitalized my blood, strengthened my nerves and restored me to perfect health. I do not consider they have an equal for nervousness, brain fag or nervous prostration produced by overwork."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills always do good. They cure palpitation, faint and dizzy spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, anxiety, after effects of grippe, weakness, debility, etc. Sold by druggists at 50c, box or three boxes for $1.25. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

LAXATIVE PILLS cure Biliousness, Stomach, Water Brash, Liver Troubles, Constipation, and Impure Blood. Price 25c, all druggists.

SGHEUER'S WHOLESALE & RETAIL JEWELLERS

Tale of Jones' Shoes...

Jones was puzzled! His old shoes were worn out and he wanted new ones.

But he had to consult his notions, his cramped toes, and his "all and sundry corns."

His last pair had been easy enough—didn't fit very well it's true, and lost their shape early in the game, but to Jones, they had one big merit—they didn't hurt his feet.

Of course they were a size larger than they need have been, for Jones was a careless, comfort loving chap.

He wanted a pair "just like the last ones" so he hunted around the shoe stores for them, but couldn't find them, and was nonplussed.

"Bless me, I paid $6.00 for these shoes, surely I can get a fit for that," he cogitated ruefully.

In the paper he had read that there are as many shapes of "Slater Shoes" as there are forms of feet.

"Must be a raft of shapes," he reflected, as he studied his own. "But I'll see for myself."

"Yes, Mr. Jones," the salesman said, "your foot after all is not of an uncommon type. No one man, has a monopoly of any such type. Most people have a bad nail, a corny toe, or a misshapen joint. The Slater Shoe makers, have studied feet and classified them as a zoologist does other animal curiosities. Then they made shoes to fit these real every day feet—not merely to fit ideal feet. For instance this's the Slater Shoe to fit your kind of feet."

Jones remarked that it looked smaller than his regulars.

But he tried it on. There was no pinch, no squeeze, only a sense of comfortable support where the shoe ought to fit close, and ease where the joints needed room. No crowding of toes, nor cramping of instep—no uneven pressure, only a sort of "foot friendliness" all over the shoe.

"It's all right isn't it, Mr. Jones," said the salesman. Now, we'll rubber stamp the date of purchase on the lining for mutual reference in case anything should go wrong with the shoe.

Come and have them shined free when you're passing. Good day Mr. Jones."

All genuine "Slater Shoes" are Goodyear Welted and stamped on the soles with Makers' name and price, $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

WILL THERE BE A "SCRAP"? Danish Government Spends Money on Defences of Copenhagen.

Copenhagen, Aug. 11.—A sensation has been caused by the sudden measures that are being taken to place the sea forts of Copenhagen in a state of military efficiency. It is supposed that these measures are due to fears of a conflict between Great Britain and Russia.

The official organ announces that the Government of Denmark has expended 500,000 kroner in ammunition, and awaits an additional grant by Parliament.
