prosecutions for election offences, and what were they? Some poor unfortunate fellows who fell before the temptation of these scalawags who bribed them to sell their votes. But the real criminals, the men who planned, organized and carried out all this wickedness, where are they? Not a man of them has been arrested. Wildfong and Cummings are said to have been placed upon their trial on July 15, 1901, at Berlin, on the charge, I quote from the Liberal hand-book, "Build Up Ontario," "laid under s.c. 50 of the Criminal Code," that Don't be too fat; don't puff and blow; don't endanger your life with a lot of excess fat, and, furthermore, don't ruin your stomach with a lot of useless drugs and patent medicines. Is it not extraordinary that these men should escape after the findings of two judges at the election trial? Then look at the position of Affairs in Westelgin. Have they been dismissed from their comployment or are they at this moment engaged in the same kind of work at the cost and charge of their former employers? I charge, to the lasting disgrace of the leaders of the Liberal party in Ontario, both provincial and Federal, they are still comployed, still pursue the even atenor of their wayward career, arroyant and displent; secure evidently from Crown prosecution, active and aggressive in well-founded security under the protecting aggis of the justice departments of both Federal and provinceal authority, to the everlasting disgrace of the leaders of the leaders of the leaders of the leaders of the contino with particularity to the statements of both Federal and provinceal authority, to the everlasting disgrace of the leaders of the Liberal party in Ontario, both provincial and Federal, they are still complete the county of the justice departments of both Federal and provincial authority, to the everlasting disgrace of the leaders of the Liberal party in Ontario, both provincial authority, to the everlasting disgrace of the leaders of gence of the electorate for Ministers and for The Globe and the other Liberal newspapers to make any pretence that these things have not been brought home under the very noses of the ministry and their newspaper organs? What have they descensed to? Is there any lower depth to which they may descend? These same men who have been previously held responsible, in the courts, after ample trial and argument on both sides, for the saturnalla of corruption which has taken place, are still in charge, and the electorate and the honest members of the Liberal party are asket to bethe electorate and the honest members of the Liberal party are asked to believe that a change has taken place. Gentlemen, the leopard does not change its spots. The truth is the government and every member of it is in the grip and at the mercy of the men who have so recently disgraced the Liberal party and made many an honest Liberal hang his head in shame. The government dare not discharge from their ranks of workers a single one of these men. They dare not prosecute them, and as long as the honest members of this great party permit their affairs to be run by the present occupants of the ministerial chairs so their affairs to be run by the present occupants of the ministerial chairs so long will they have to put up with the shame and disgrace which has already been visited on them with a heavy hand. Let The Globe or any other paper controvert this position if they can. The word "Liberal" under the guidance of those who now control the party has entirely lost and changed its meaning, and the most moderate and the more estimable of its followers have good ground of complaint against those who have prostituted their fair name.

Here then is public crime laid at the Johnston says: their fair name.

Here then is public crime laid at the door of the government, aye, carried into the very council chamber, and what has The Globe to say about it?

what has The Globe to say about it?

Now, let me pass to the next branch of my subject. The Globe says in the extract I have already referred to that no serious neglect of duty can be charged upon the government. I controvert that statement strongly. I say the government have been criminally remiss in their duty in regard to the pro-

A. To some papers, yes.
Q. To what papers?
A. I hardly remember—the poll book for one—I think that is all.

A. Yes.

In view also of the inference one might draw from the statement in Mr. Johnston's opinion, that "a man may use any fictitious name he pleases." that the name "Marshall B. Johnson' was, in fact, a fictitious name, it would perhaps be well to refer to the fact that the real Marshall B. Johnson was present before the commissioners and gave evidence. His evidence is to be found in the official records at pages 581-3.

He says further:

I have carefully read and considered all the evidence bearing on these two points, taken before the Royal Commission appointed to enquire into this and other kindred matters and also the three aftidavits alleged to have been made by Pritchett before William L. Carpenter, the judge of the Third Judicial Circuit in the State of Michigan. Ten years of suffering from treacherous kidney disease is of itself a heavy record of sickness and agony for one frail woman. When we add to kidney suffering, nervousness, sleeplessness and continued overwork in the home it makes a condition of life that draws forth our tenderest and deepest symmethics. that Pritchett did not, under the assumed name of Marshall B. Johnson. make any written application to the returning officer for his appointment as deputy, and did not take the oath of office; neither did he sign any statements in the poll book as to the result of the poll, under and required by section 112, sub-section 7, and section 118 of the Optario Election Act; nor did he
