A Few of La Mode's Favorites

Swagger Top Coats—to Delight All Womankind

Alluring Weaves and Designs Which Make the Wearing Thereof Immensely Pleasurable.

BLITHELY INDIFFERENT to the breezes that blow will be Milady who possesses a top coat this season, for what they lack in the width of skirt is more than made up in the breadth of collar. Of fabrics, pom-pon, velours and broadcloths are favorites, appearing in the most delightful shades.

Bright green pom-pon cloth in soft weave is used on a coat with a decidedly French front, having wide revers of self and broad collar of seal rat, huge buttons and two slash pockets on front, with silk arrows. Its sleeves are pointed at elbow and wrist, confined between with band and button. It is beautifully lined with Japanese silk. Price, $95.00.

Of military design is a cosy taupe pom-pon, with inverted pleats in back, raglan sleeves, broad collar and throat tab, and two huge pockets buttoned down, encircled with self belt. It is lined with taupe satin. Price, $67.50.

Beet-root pom-pon is used in an interesting coat, which has particularly nice back bearing box pleats and wide belt, with two buckles. It has cape collar of self, two huge pockets, and is trimmed with large colored bone buttons. Price, $27.50.

Burgundy velours forms a most attractive coat, with rows of cording across back and shirred on skirt, which falls in graceful ripples. The front has self belt and buckle, broad collar, which fastens closely or remains open. Lined with Burgundy satin. Price, $46.00.

With tight bodice and raglan sleeves is a charming model, being belted at back, with skirt shirred on. The sides and front have narrow belt, buttons and pockets, both convenient and pleasing. It is fashioned of beet-root pom-pon. Price, $37.50.

The crush collar, which crosses in front and buttons on either side, leaving points over chest, is the most important feature of this coat. Otherwise it is rather plain, with wide belt of self, slash pockets and bone buttons. It is beautifully lined with figured silk, and is made of brown, taupe, beetroot, plum and pom-pon. Price, $32.50. —Third Floor, James Street.

Misses' Suits, the Personification of Girlish Charm

Velours, Broadcloth, Pom-pon and Gabardine in Subtle Weaves — Of These Are the New Suits Fashioned.

SERIOUSLY PURSUING the career of her choice, or on pleasure bent, young Miss Toronto will find much to interest her in the matter of correct apparel. But a few of many charming suits we mention here.

Navy Point twill in soft weave forms a modish suit, with its long coat having pointed velvet collar, slim bodice, on to which the coat skirt is shirred under double belt, and loose, button-trimmed panels, emphasizing the slenderness of its wearer. It is lined with grey satin, and has skirt with fullness under self belt. Price, $57.50.

Many social occasions there are calling for just such a suit as this of taupe velours. Its broad collar is of rich Hudson seal (seal rat), its tailored back having inverted pleat from waistline and belts which commence on either side and continue their way to front. Skirt is deeply yoked, with fullness in back. Price, $72.50.

Distinctly of tailored design is a model of smoke grey broadcloth, the coat having flaring skirt, velvet insets on collar and deep revers. Skirt has fullness across back and yoke front. Price, $65.00.

A trim business or sports model is one of brown "Silverton." It has coat with broad belt, to which loose pockets are attached, broad, fancy collar, and its only trimming are rows of bone buttons. Skirt has two loose pockets to match those on coat. Price, $62.50.

Burgundy gabardine with delightful Burgundy buttons—they have their appeal in a charming suit, the coat of which has box-pleated back, belted across, vest effect in front and slash pockets. Suit has panel front, with belted sides and back. Price, $52.50. —Third Floor, Yonge St.

The Mode in Women's Suits

Charming Affairs Resulting From the Ingeniousness of American Designers.

SLIM SKIRTS and LONG COATS—the two prominent features of women's Autumn suits. But designers have never exerted themselves that suits should appear so entirely different as at present. Unique trimmings go far towards making them distinctive.

A striking model of grey "Silverton" with long coat has crush collar which fastens closely at throat and has a buckle on either side. A belt which graces the back is also buckled. Price, $106.00.

Of subtle broadcloth in that rich shade of Java brown is a bewitching suit having narrow pleatings horizontally across hips, from which fall loose box pleats, the back is plain and Kolinsky on collar, revers cuffs and base of skirt enrich it to an amazing degree. The skirt is similar to coat, with narrow and box pleatings on hip. Price, $115.00.

Navy broadcloth forms a lovely model embroidered in black silk on cuffs, belt and coat skirt, it has narrow bodice and rippling skirt, crushed self collar and belt. Price, $60.00.

Brown velvet and Alaska sable (skunk)—is it not a fascinating combination? And equally well does it appear. The coat has long points at sides, the points boasting fur trimming, which is also on collar and cuffs. Its skirt is slim and plain. Price, $50.00.

Hudson seal (seal rat) is used on a unique suit which has pockets, collar and cuffs of fur and is of Burgundy velours. It has broad self belt, and its short skirt has fullness under belt and two slash pockets. Price, $50.00.

Taupe velours—that popular material—is used on a suit which enjoys the beauty of a seal rat collar, buttons closely at throat, has under broad self belt and smaller points from breast pocket to belt. The coat is, perforce, long and slender, with skirt to match having two slash pockets. Price, $50.00. —Third Floor, James St.

Furs Luxurious and Smart

Fascinating Sets and Coats Elected by Fashion as Leaders in the Realm of Furs.

BROAD CAPES, ANIMAL SCARVES which gracefully drape the shoulders; delightful collars and collarettes—all are approved in the matter of neckpieces, while muffs happily dote on melon and ball shapes. Fox and wolf, in supreme indifference to natural shades, may be had in divers colors and designs, Alaska sable and nutria beaver finding favor, too. Hudson seal is popular in coats, adorned at times with sable, lynx, beaver or Kolinsky.

A superb set of rich pointed fox has huge animal effect neckpiece, paws broadly spreading over either shoulder, crepe de Chine binding and lining, and large muff in "cane" shape adorned with tails, crepe de Chine trills and wrist ring. Price, $190.00.

A separate neckpiece of unusual elegance is one of rich Yukon pointed fox. Again the flat animal effect is used, and it is lined and frilled with Java brown crepe de Chine. $95.00.

Brown fox forms another smart neckpiece in flat animal shape, lined and adorned with crepe de Chine. $50.00.

Charming Ermine and Mink Pieces for Those Whose Preference Lies There.

A fascinating collarette of ermine is adorned with tails on fronts, has slightly rolling collar, and is lined with broadcloth silk. Price, $46.50.

A smart ball muff which matches has shirred satin wrist frills and white bone ring. Price, $36.50.

A gorgeous cape of rich mink which nicely matches is $50.00.

Belted at waistline, with skirt shirred on, is a beautiful coat of Hudson seal (seal rat). It has huge collar, cuffs and deep band of opossum. Price, $275.00.

Alaska sable (skunk) is used to adorn an admirable coat of seal rat, fashioning its entire cape collar. Its skirt is slightly rounded at hips, narrow at base. Smartly lined with striped silk. Price, $275.00.

Another coat of seal rat has collar and cuffs of Kolinsky mink, skirt frilled on at waistline, and falling gracefully close to sides. Price, $275.00. —Third Floor, Yonge St.

Alluring Afternoon Gowns of Softest Silks and Satins

In Accord With Fashion's Dictates Are Gowns Which of Material and Design Emphasize the Slim Silhouette.

IT IS DEMANDED of woman this season that she be clothed in materials which are soft and clinging. A wide choice is she given in the matter of weaves and designs, but all show the tendency towards straight lines. Pleats there are, of course, and gathers galore, but whether they grace bodice or skirt they are flat affairs, made to fall in simple lines.

Fashioned of crepe meteor is a pleasing frock in balsam green with its ever-present tunio showing silk thread embroidery of a lighter green. It has self sash and its bodice is softly pleated with broad collar and sleeves of Georgette crepe. Price, $45.00.

Box pleated from yoke to hip is a nice model of grey crepe de Chine. At hip there is a row of hemstitching to which skirt is plainly attached, finding its adornment in deep tucks. The bodice has a dainty collar of fine organdy with pleated frills.

A skirt of another model has straight panels of self, and pleated insets of Georgette crepe. Its bodice, fastening down side, has embroidered design of silver thread wrought on front and cuffs, and deep-collar of cream satin. A nice touch is given by bead embroidery at throat and on sleeves. Price, $47.50.

Of peacock satin is a swagger model with "chemise" bodice, having burnt orange crepe sleeves, and smart touches of bright silk embroidery at throat and hips. Price, $49.50. —Third Floor, James Street.
