CIVIC ADDRESS

The new civic board of works last evening dealt with quite a number of matters of interest. There has been some talk about town of late to the effect that Mr. Mayes might not have the dredging of the site of the new berth completed before July, and that there would not be time enough to finish the wharf and warehouses before next winter's trade began. It was even suggested by some that Mr. Mayes was at fault in the matter. The truth is that the city itself had the work stopped, and must be held responsible. A committee was appointed last evening by the board to arrange for the protection of Union street, so that dredging on the site of the wharf may be renewed. The committee should act promptly, as it will take a month to complete this part of the dredging. The question of timber for the 650-foot berth to which the Times alluded yesterday came up, but the board did nothing. It is assumed that the members hope for an early reply from Ottawa relative to the additional dredging required. The tenders for timber would then, no doubt, be called for. As this paper remarked yesterday, it is most important that the government be urged to give an early and favorable answer. It may be hoped that Ald. Christie's remarks last evening about the material placed on the streets in repair work during the last year or two will not be lost on the director, and the board as well. There is great need of immediate cleaning and repair of streets and sidewalks. The suggestion that men may be hired to get is probably not well founded. An advertisement would bring to light all the men needed.

The appointment of a committee to meet the N. B. Telephone Co. and discuss conduits opens up a very important question. It has been urged that the city should lay down public conduits, and not permit any company to have what might prove to be an exclusive privilege. This phase of the question will doubtless be fully considered, in the public interest. It may be hoped that necessary work on the street approaching the public library will be done well before the approach to that building should be made as attractive as the limited means available will permit.

The motion of Ald. Willet, that the Dominion government be asked to repair the sink hole on the west side of its tracks above Mill street, should be heard at by the railway department. The conditions there are disgraceful, and the heavy traffic calls for improved facilities. The question of street corner signs is a perennial offering, and is always permitted to fade out of memory. It may be hoped the present council will see that street names are properly displayed. At present any person unfamiliar with all parts of the city must continually make enquiries to learn the names of streets. The board decided by a small majority to continue Director Cushing in office at an increased salary. The majority of the board are of opinion that with increased powers and more salary Mr. Cushing will administer the affairs of his department more effectively. If that is the decision of the full council, the director will have a fine opportunity to institute reforms.

On the whole, the meeting of the board was a business-like one, but much depends on the manner in which the various committees appointed attend to their duties. The citizens will await developments with no little interest.

AN IMPORTANT GAIN

It is expected that next month the Natural History Society will take possession of its new home, having an excellent opportunity to display its collections and room to add to them. This is something the city has long needed, and it will be of permanent value to the city, as well as an attractive feature in the tourist season. The society has not enough money to pay in full for the property, but that is a matter which time and public spirit will remedy. Possibly the city may be able to increase its grant a little, and perhaps the provincial government; but the citizens themselves will have to do the major portion of the work of placing the society on a sound financial basis.

The educational value of the work of the society and of its valuable collections cannot easily be over-estimated, although because of the difficulties of the past there has not been a due public appreciation of that value. When the society has a home of its own, attractive, with ample room and easy of access, the people generally will become more familiar with the work and will have a greater pride in the institution. It will be a fine supplement to public library, and not far removed

A BITTER FIGHT

Mr. Lloyd-George, radical, and president of the British board of trade, made a striking speech in parliament on Tuesday, declaring that clericalism is the great foe of democracy. The fight over the education bill is growing more bitter. In view of the discussion the following summary of the provisions of the bill will be found very interesting.

Complete popular control.
Some autonomy to some of the smaller areas.
No grants (after January 1, 1908) to non-provided (voluntary) schools.
Undenominational religious instruction at public charge, with the right to objecting parents to withhold children from such instruction.
No religious tests for teachers.
Local authorities to make what arrangements they can with owners of voluntary schools for their use five days a week, but to assume the whole maintenance.
Special facilities for religious education in such schools will be granted.
In the country:
If on handing over the school the owners stipulate that the majority (not stated) of the parents demand it.
Two days a week.
Outside teachers to be employed.
In the towns:
On the demand of four-fifths of the parents and after public inquiry.
Five days a week.
Teachers belonging to the schools may be employed to give religious instruction.
Such facilities not to be given in the ordinary provided schools.
Owners of voluntary schools not under a trust compelling their use for education are left free agents; as to those under such trust who do not come to terms with the authorities, a commission of three to determine the matter.
An additional Government grant of £1,000,000 representing a capital of between £20,000,000 and £25,000,000.
National Education Council of Wales to administer the same educational policy as in England.

It would be most unfortunate if the purse-proud attitude of President Roosevelt should prevent the money voted by the Canadian parliament from reaching the suffering people of San Francisco. This appears to be a case where international courtesy might be waived in the face of an international emergency, and the money sent forward. There are suffering Canadians in San Francisco.

The decision of the Neptune Rowing Club to make Millville its racing headquarters, and to provide a racing crew this year, shows a marked revival of energy in that organization, and will further emphasize the importance of street railway extension to Millville. The citizens would welcome a revival of aquatic sport in a city that has so fine a record of former achievements.

The municipal council yesterday gave fitting recognition to the value of the work of the Evangeline Home and Maternity Hospital conducted by the Salvation Army. Its records show that it is a most valuable institution, meeting a need that is not otherwise provided for in this city.

The spectacle of Bernhardt appearing in a beer saloon concert hall in the west smacks of the pioneer days. But the theatrical trust cannot prevent the people from going to see the "divine Sarah." Her reminiscences of this American tour should make interesting reading.

The most favorable reports of log-driving conditions continue to come from the headwaters of the St. John. It is a long way from the more remote streams to the boom at Fredericton, but the chances for successful driving appear to be excellent.

The assembling of the new Russian parliament, bringing to St. Petersburg all sorts and conditions of men, has awakened new fears for the safety of the czar. An ex-governor was assassinated in one of the provinces yesterday.

The Telegraph yesterday made an effort to count the number of holes in some of the streets and sidewalks in the city. It would have been much easier to count the number of blocks where there are no holes. As a mathematical proposition it would be infinitely less formidable.

The retiring warden of the municipality said yesterday that the present morgue on King street, east was a disgrace to the community. He told the truth, but the morgue remains there.

The municipal council makes a grave mistake when it pursues a niggardly policy with regard to the board of health. The board should be fully equipped with appliances and funds for its important work.

Plumbers in Cincinnati have accepted the proposition that the Saturday half-holiday should go into effect on July 1, 1907, and that the existing wage scale remain in force until May 11, 1908. The scale of $4 per day has been granted.

SACKVILLE, N. B., May 7.—The remains of the unfortunate man, Nestor Lorette, who was drowned off Parroboro bridge on Monday last, were brought to Sackville last night for interment. Deceased who was 25 years old and unmarried, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lorette of Sackville. Besides his aged parents he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson are spending some time in Middle Sackville, the home of Mr. Thompson's brother, J. Anderson. Mr. Thompson is visiting Sackville for the first time in 25 years.

The Enterprise Foundry Co. will erect a large brick building, three stories high, 100 feet long, which will be used for a warehouse. They also intend erecting offices.

The Murray Islands building this summer. Prof. Crowell, of Mt. Allison, is also talking of a new house. Mary Melanson is erecting a two-story house on his lot on Br d'as street. J. B. Ayer is making extensive repairs on his house on Weldon street, now occupied by Mr. Harper. The Tribune contemplate building on Main street, and there is a possibility of the government giving Sackville a new station and freight sheds.

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society. Mrs. Thos Hart and Mrs. Ford Macleady were appointed delegates to the district convention, which is to be held at Point du Beu some time in June.

A portrait of the late Rev. John Lathern, who for many years was chairman of the Board of Regents of the University of Mt. Allison, is being prepared by an artist in Boston, and will be placed either in Lathern Hall or in Memorial Chapel.

The Main streets building this week. The instrument cost $1,400 and will be set up at once.

SACKVILLE, May 7.—The lecture given in Bethel Hall, Friday evening by Dr. A. D. Smith, was exceptional in its interest and instructive, and much enjoyed by the audience. The subject of his lecture was "An Evening with an Ancient Gossip." Prof. Tweedie occupied the chair, and at the close a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer. This is the last lecture in the university course.

On Saturday evening a musical recital was given in Bethel Hall, Miss Frances M. Harper, of Sackville, and Miss Helen L. Pickup, of Grandville, were the soloists, and Miss Margaret R. Keever, of Albert, N. B., the pianist. The recital was a most successful one, and the audience was highly pleased with the performance. Misses Harper and Pickup did excellently, both displaying the highest quality of talent. Miss Keever proved herself a skillful organist, displaying a fine quality of tone.

Miss Jennie Fawcett, of Upper Sackville, has been spending the winter in St. John, and arrived home last week.

The marriage of Miss Isabella McQuinn and Clarence Griffin, both of Sackville, was solemnized at the Baptist parsonage on Monday, May 7, by Rev. J. N. Turner, officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin will reside at Middle Sackville.

Rev. W. Gault, of Amherst, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday morning, and preached a strong temperance sermon to a large congregation. The evening a platform meeting was held, presided over by Dr. Edgar, and attended by Rev. Geo. Steel, and Principal Palmer took part.

Prof. and Mrs. Geo. Wilson expect to leave Sackville for their home in St. John, where they will visit Mr. Wilson's parents, who reside at Wolverhampton, Staffordshire, England.

The students of the Household Science Department gave another dinner on Thursday to six invited guests. The dinner was a two-dollar one, and was prepared by Miss Clara Turner, daughter of Rev. Edwin Turner, who will graduate this spring, and who has already secured a position as teacher of household science in the Co-located school at Sackville.

Rev. F. G. McIntosh, of the Presbyterian church here, has secured a very valuable opportunity for the purpose of continuing his studies.

ADVERTISE

(Maritime Merchant.)

The subject we have just been discussing seems to dovetail very naturally into the general question of encouraging development and the best means of going about it. To begin with, we cannot help thinking that there is a very good analogy between the merchant who has nice goods to sell and wishes to interest people who are looking for nice goods, and the country that has nice opportunities to sell and wishes to interest people who are looking for nice opportunities. The merchant who has nice goods to sell immediately makes his case known—that is, he advertises, and we notice that countries that have things to sell about them do the same thing. The fact that other merchants are clamoring for trade is one of the strongest reasons why any given country or community should advertise at his disposal. So also the fact that other countries and other communities are clamoring for patronage is one of the very strongest reasons why any given country or community should advertise at his disposal. The merchant who has nice things to sell cannot expect to sell them when other dealers are virtually going out into the street with their wares in by the collar and compelling them to buy. How much more can we expect to interest people in our country without telling them about it? If we have a good story to tell, we must tell it; and if we can tell a better story than other communities, we will get the business. Towns or sections of country possessed of the anxiety to develop, may learn of the enterprising merchant or of the enterprising community. Consider Ottawa, which city has recently appropriated $1,500 for advertising the city and has appointed a publicity department manager whose duties will consist in obtaining and using all information that will be of use in negotiations with manufacturers who may be looking for a place to locate. Consider also Regina, which has decided to have a publicity commissioner and to appropriate $5,000 for maintaining a publicity department if the townpeople will contribute a like sum. And these are only examples which have come under our observation of late. We could tell of hundreds of places, if we had time and space, which in this systematic way seek to create progress by compulsion, all of which would make it more evident that in order to succeed we must let the world know what we have. Who could be expected to discover us when the attention of the world is being drawn away? The publicity and sales department is something that must be organized in every ambitious community, just as it is now in every progressive mercantile business.
