

Your grocer has a treat for you!
It's Kellogg's
TOASTED
CORN
FLAKES

Daily Hints
For the Cook

RAISIN CAKE.
Two eggs, one cup sugar, half cup butter, one cup raisins, half cup milk, one teaspoon cream of tartar, half teaspoon soda, not quite half teaspoon all kinds of spice, a little salt, two cups flour.

GOOSEBERRY JELLY.
Use no water, beat berries through and press to extract all juice. Strain and measure, allowing pound for pint of sugar and juice. Boil ten minutes and place in glass.

PERFECT PIE CRUST.
Three-quarters cup of lard, one saucer of flour (just dip an ordinary saucer into flour and take up all that it holds heaping), quarter teaspoon salt, half cup ice water or less. Cut the lard into the flour with a silver knife, leaving it lumpy. Stir the water in a little here and there and mix it just rough. Put in jobbox until needed. Twenty-four hours improves it.

What Mrs. S. Says

"Words are useless to express the wonderful magic of White Swan Yeast. Bread! Why we have never had such luxury on our table before!" Sold in packages of six for $5. Free sample sent by White Swan Spices & Cereals, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Real
Package

"See this bundle under my arm!
"Spice you can guess what's in the sack!" asked a middle-aged man of a friend, as the two emerged from a fruit store the other evening. "Four or five months ago if you had met me at this time of night I would have been carrying a package, all right, but it would not have been in a paper sack, and I would not have given a dollar a wagon load for the kind of stuff I'm totting up to my room in the hotel at this time.

"It's fruit that I'm carrying now, apples, and I'll devour the whole package before Monday morning. Of course, apples are retailing at orange prices, but at this that package is cheaper than a load I would have lugged home a few months ago.

"What's the answer? Nothing but Neal Institute. I got disgusted with myself one day and went up to that concern, and in less than a week I was at home with an appetite that did not call for red liquor. It wanted real meat and bread, fruits and vegetables. Say, I've got an appetite like a healthy schoolboy just in from a Marathon hike. The Neal Institute did the trick!"

Copy from Ottawa Journal.

46 Crown Street
Phone 1685
B. L. STEVENS, Mgr.

LA MARQUISE
de FONTENAY

Trouble in Bavarian House of Lords Over Suspension of Law Against Jesuits - The "Kid" McCoy Case
(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company)

LA MARQUISE
de FONTENAY

The House of Lords at Munich was the scene, the other day, of a particularly violent quarrel between the regent's grandsons, Prince George of Bavaria, and his kinsman Count Hans Toerring, who as chief of a mediated house (one formerly exercising petty sovereign powers) was able to marry Duchess Sophie, of Bavaria, on a footing of equality.

The dispute was in connection with the action of the new premier in issuing, with the sanction of the regent and of his own fellow members of the cabinet, a circular to all national, provincial and municipal officials, directing them to refrain from any further application of the federal law of the German Empire against the Jesuits. This law was enacted by the Reichstag at Berlin forty years ago, at the instance of Bismarck, in the early stages of his "Cultur-Kampf" against the Catholic church. It provides for the expulsion of the Jesuit Order from the empire, and in spite of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

The "Cultur-Kampf," however, has long been ended by the defeat of the iron Chancellor. He himself is now in his grave, and the federal law against the order has to such an extent fallen into desuetude that individual Jesuits go about their business even in Prussia, utterly unmolested.

The new administration at Munich decided some weeks ago to suspend the expulsion law, so far as it concerns Bavaria (which is the most Catholic state of the empire, more than three-quarters of the population belonging to that faith), and in place of much popular opposition in Bavaria, was finally proclaimed in that state by the pro-Bismarck administration then in office.

"She'll Understand"
by RUTH CAMERON

A RETURNED vacationist was writing a half dozen thank notes to as many friends who had contributed towards making her vacation successful. She did not have time to write the notes all at once, so she glanced over the list and said: "I'll leave Elaine's until next week. Of course she did more for me than anyone, but she's such an old friend that she'll understand and forgive me. I must surely write Mrs. R. and Mrs. S. tonight or they'll think I'm terribly negligent."

Now, what a typical decision?

And is it not rather a queer philosophy which makes the majority of us inclined to treat those we love the most with the least consideration and courtesy?

For strangers and for the most formal acquaintances we keep our finest clothes, our best-manners and our most careful courtesies. Our close friends must put up with our second or third best. And as for our very nearest and dearest, — why anything at all will do for them.

A neighbor was expecting a simultaneous visit from two women. One woman is her dearest and oldest friend; the other is a comparative stranger whom she has met but half a dozen times and may never see again. Now my neighbor has two guest rooms. That is, one is a genuine guest room, a large beautiful chamber, daintily furnished and appointed; the other is a little hall room, a cube between a sewing room and a nursery, which is occasionally cleaned up and turned into a guest room when circumstances demand it.

Now, what do you think of the woman who is to be given to the stranger? You know the answer. The dearest friend is to be tucked away in that hybrid nursery-sewing room, because "she'll understand," and the unluckiest stranger is to be installed in the luxurious room.

"Well, what on earth would you do?" I can hear some indignant reader exclaim. "Surely you wouldn't put that strange woman into the little room and let her think you didn't have anything better to offer?"

Calm yourself my friend while I freely admit that I would probably do just as my neighbor is going to. Being human and a woman I suppose I should feel the impulse to do so. But that only means that I am illogical, not that that would be logical.

Friends are wonderful things, probably the most wonderful things in all the world. While acquaintances, at best, are only potential friendships. To let a stranger be that "she'll understand" is a very feeble justification for slighting our friends, and one that may easily be overworked.

OLD-TIME REMEDY
DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair — Dandruff Quickly Removed

For generations Sage and Sulphur have been used for hair and scalp troubles. Almost everyone knows the value of such a combination for keeping the hair a good even color, for curing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. Years ago the only way to get a Hair Tonic of this kind was to supply her nation with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

An ideal preparation of this sort is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for promoting the growth of the hair. Years ago the only way to get a Hair Tonic of this kind was to supply her nation with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

Don't neglect your hair if it is full of dandruff. Losing its color or coming out. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you. Druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

Agent, Wasson's, 100 King Street.

SHIPPING

ALMANAC FOR ST. JOHN, AUG. 20.
A.M. — 5.24
High Tide..... 5.24 Low Tide..... 11.38
Sun Rises..... 5.38 Sun Sets..... 7.17
The time used is Atlantic standard.

PORT OF ST. JOHN.
Arrived Yesterday:
Schr Governor Cobb, 1886, Allan, W G Lee, mds and pass, and sid.
Schr Sarah J. Davis (Am), 149, Peterson, Boston, W Malcolm Mackay, bal.
Schr Ann Louisa Lockwood, Tillison, Elizabethport, A W Adams, 478 tons coal, City Pw Co Sailed Yesterday.

CANADIAN PORTS.
Quebec, Aug. 19-Ard, strs Pretorian, Glasgow, Lake Erie, London, Montreal, Aug. 19-Ard, strs Cassandra, Glasgow, Tunisian, Liverpool, Mount Temple, London and Antwerp; Devon, Middlebury, Canada, Liverpool.

FOREIGN PORTS.
New York, Aug. 19-Ard, schr Leonard Parker, St John (N B).
Vinnyard Haven, Aug 19-Ard, schr Calabra, Fort Reading for St John (N B); Machias, Me, Aug 19-Ard, schr Silver Spray, Alma (N B).
Salem, Aug 19-Ard, schr Henry D May, Port Reading for Yarmouth (N B).
New York, Aug 19-Ard, schr Lucille, Yarmouth (N B); Sarah A Reed, Calais (Me); Horace M Bickford, Halifax.
Calais, Me, Aug 19-Ard, schr Moonlight, New York.
Sunderstown, R I, Aug 19-Ard, schr Edward H Bliss, Halifax; Battle Dam, St John (N B); George B Perkins, do; John Bracewell from St John (N B) for New York.

P. E. I. CHEESE PRICES.
The P. E. I. Cheese Board met in Charlottetown on Friday with a fair attendance of shippers. The following factories boarded cheese: New Perth, 150; New Glasgow, 230; Stanley Bridge, 200; Kensington, 375; Cornwall, 80; Lakeville, 70; Red House, 60; Red Point, 65. All but New Glasgow sold at 12-15-16.

Constipation
is an enemy within the camp. It will undermine the strongest constitution and rob the most vigorous health. It leads to indigestion, biliousness, impure blood, bad complexion, sick headaches and is one of the most frequent causes of appendicitis. To neglect it is to neglect your health. Dr. Morse's Constipation Pills positively cure Constipation. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe. Preserve your health by taking

Dr. Morse's
Indian Root Pills

August Furniture Sale
Closes End of which means the closing of the Largest and Lowest Cut Price
Sale ever held in our establishment. Look over your furniture wants, see just what article you need to help, beautify your home. Then come to us for your selection, it will most certainly pay you, and pay you well.

Then come to us for your selection, it will most certainly pay you, and pay you well.

J. MARCUS, 30 DOCK STREET

A RECONCILIATION AT BLENHEIM?

BLENHEIM PALACE.

ARRANGEMENTS IN ST. JOHN: WHAT THE PLAYHOUSES OFFER

The enthusiasm which pervaded the atmosphere yesterday found vent in Nickel going along with the other forms of merriment and holiday-making. The Carleton street picture house was crowded afternoon and evening. It was a very fine programme that was paraded, too. Miss Gertrude DeRoy met her old friends again when she stepped upon the stage each show, and was heartily welcomed. Her bit-house number, Oh Merry Heavens (Funiculi, Funicula), was most prettily sung and evidenced that this young lady has added dramatic action to her rich soprano, making a pleasing combination. Tom Walker sang a fine ballad entitled Forgotten, and he, too, responded to the demand for more. Pictorially the Nickel's bill was rich and extraordinary in subject-matter. Charles King's pathetic poem, The Sands of Dee, was exquisitely incarnated by the Biograph's plays and the Vitaphone Company, featuring the well-known character Marshall F. Wilder, put on a "seventh floor back" sort of sunbath story called Professor Optimo. It was one of those heart-casers. Bannister Merwin's first story of the "Mary" series appearing in the Ladies World was put on by Edison—a photo literary innovation. Wednesday-Thursday the Nickel has Vitagraph's three-reel financial and diplomatic sensation, The Money Kings, and on Friday-Saturday Rider Haggard's Jess, a Boer war story in three reels. Wednesday and Thursday a photographic reproduction of the children and crowd at the park reception to the duke will be given all boys and girls.

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH

The growing prominence of the Duke of Marlborough in political and other public affairs has again renewed the hope that the Duchess, formerly Miss Constance Vanderbilt, of New York, and her distinguished husband may become reconciled and renew the social activities at Blenheim Palace.

RIGHT OF WOMEN TO VOTE. It has hitherto been the intention of the government to take this reform in two stages. It is now proposed to push the two projects through simultaneously, so that the question of woman suffrage will be bound up with the abolishing of certain privileges of the Upper House and the democratization of the manner of its election. At first sight it would appear that the chances for women must be lessened by this conjunction. The women, however, have a firm friend in Herr Bernstein, who professes himself convinced that the political equality of men and women is essential to true progress. The whole question is to come up for discussion in the autumn session.

A LITTLE BOY WITH A PAINED EXPRESSION of contentment sat on a public seat. "Are you unwell?" some one asked. "No." "Have you lost anything?" "Never had anything to lose." "What is the matter with you, then?" "I'm sitting on a wasp." "Good gracious! Why on earth don't you get up?" "I'm thinking that maybe I'm hurting the wasp as much as he's hurting me."

He's Manager of the Browns

George Stovall, recent recruit to the company of major league managers, a Coca-Cola enthusiast—

DANISH PREMIER COMMITTED TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Adopted as Part of Government Programme—Bound Up With Reforms in Upper House

Copenhagen, Aug. 19—Herr Berntsen, the Danish Premier, has made a pronouncement which has aroused the greatest interest throughout Denmark, and particularly among those in sympathy with the women's movement. On his advent to power he definitely adopted woman suffrage as part of the Government programme. To accomplish this, however, an amendment to the constitution is required. Two points are involved, one is the manner of election to the Upper House, and the other the widening of the franchise for the House of Commons, including the lowering of the voting age from thirty to twenty-five, and the recognition of the

Are you fan, athlete, player?
You'll say the same once you try this wholesome and delicious beverage.

Demand the Genuine—
REFUSE SUBSTITUTES
THE COCA-COLA CO.
TORONTO, ONT.

Whenever you see an Arrow think of Coca-Cola.