It is not strange that some of the leading American newspapers are wondering how it is possible to publish so large and so excellent a paper as the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is for one dollar a year. It must be the enormous circulation of the Family Herald and Weekly Star that enables its publishers to issue it at the dred and twenty-eight full columns and by actual count what each subscriber to it gets in one year is equal to the contents of fifty bound volumes, each volume having two hundred and fifty pages, and such valuable matter, Every line that goes into the Family Herald and Weekly Star must cost money, for its publishers seem to act as if they would have none but the best.
