MARGUERITE'S WEEKLY CHAT.

Asking and Demanding.

Asking and Demanding.

Sometimes it seems as if we could not teach the small child in whom we are interested to say "Please." That little word seems to stick in the throat and it is only after reproofs and reminders that the "Please" slips out naturally.

With grown-ups it is at times as if that early training had been neglected. Not only do people forget to say "Please" when asking for something which is really a favor but, still worse manners, they go away without the "Thank you" which is surely due the one who has granted the courtesy.

Waiting for a car in a drug store once the proprietor said that he thought only about one person in a hundred ever asked for that privilege or thanked him for allowing it. I saw some girls go into an office, ask if they might use the telephone and go out without a word to those in the office.

Sometimes one hears both children and their elders (who should know better) speak to servants as you would not speak to a dog. The blame is instantly placed on their parents who surely should have taught them better manners for it is true that the higher the position the more gracious the manner towards others. It is only in fairy stories that kings and queens order. We know that the low-voiced requests of the real aristocracy are the more readily granted and their servants consider it a privilege to wait on them. It is of course a matter of thoughtlessness this forgetfulness and that brings us back to the root of the matter, it is the lack of putting oneself in the other fellow's place. "How should you like it yourself?" is, the question we fail to ask ourselves and vet it is the question by which we should measure our rule of conduct through life. See it "Please" and "Thank you" will not help to make life edsler for some one. It will repay you in the different atmosphere which it will create for you to live in. But it must not be put on, it must come from the heart. You must realize that others have their rights and you must be duly grateful for all that is done for you, even the smal

The regular meeting of St. John W.
C. T. U. was held in Orange hall with a good attendance of members. The president was in the chair.

Reports of committees were received and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Christie and Mrs. Davis for their splendid work in securing advertisements for the year book. A circular letter was read from Provincial President, also an excellent paper written by Miss Lydia Duncan of Campbellton entitled "The Value of Press Work."

White ribbon women have always observed the noontide hour of prayer for divine blessing on their work, and since the League of Honor was organized we have united with them in prayer for the men who are fighting the battles of the Empire. It was resolved that we will resume our half hour of prayer at the close of each meeting for the boys who have gone out from us and for all who are in danger by sea and land; also for the Empire that a spiritual awakening may come to the homeland and our beloved country.

Much regret was expressed for the loss of our beloved country, who has been identified with temperance work in this city for a quarter of a century. She was president of the W. C. T. U. of St. John (North) for 22 years and county president for nine years.

of St. John (North) for 22 years and county president for nine years.

To the little band of white ribbon women who were privileged to work with her, her place will be hard to fill. Not soon will they forget the faithful woman whom they loved and respected as a leader, whom they have known as a devoted wife, a tender mother, a kind and generous friend, a large-hearted, tactful, lovable woman who was always ready to listen to the tale of suffering and lend a helping hand to the needy. Truly of her it may be said:

"She hived life bravely!

Her presence brightened all the day; Str Though so much sorrow crossed her path, that swept all bitterness away.

She lived life nobly!
For by her generous self-denial,
Others wer taught to see the light that makes men strive for what is right.
And meet life bravely with a smile.

JENNY WREN'S SALE.

At Trinity school house yesterday there were evidences that not one Jenny Wren but many had been bustly at work. There were tables laden with the very latest things in doil's fashions and these could be bought for very reasonable prices. Some woolen goods, such as miniature jackets, caps, sweaters and scarves, were particularly admired and people were thinking of some little people to whom they could present the dainty woolles, Hats trimmed in a very Frenchy way were there, also with up-to-date striped hat-box and hat-stand complete. A pluk silk bonnet belonging to a doll once the property of a St. John lady who has grand-children of her own, was much admired. Many nicely dressed dolls were sold. The sale was held in the interests of the Chelsea War Relief, an English organization doing much effective work in caring for Belgian children. The tables were presided over by Mrs. H. Lawrence, Mrs. E. R. Taylor, Mrs. F. B. Ellis and
