The school, which is to be financed by the British Government, will be managed by a board representing the British navy, the British War Office and the Imperial Munitions Board, and the actory, financed entirelys by the Canadian Government, will be under the management of the Imperial Munitions Board.

It was to start off in a fitting manner the campaign to raise funds for the dependents of Britain's sallors that the Canadian Club of Hamilton, in conjunction with the Women's Canadian Club, held the dinner in the Royal Connaught Hotel here, and through the sale by auction of a cablegram that had been received from Sir David Beatty, Admiral of the Fleet, $325 was deposited as a nucleus for the fund. For the telegram expressing confidence in Hamilton's generosity Mr, H. S. Alexander of Wood, Vallance and Company, offered $25 whereupon the bidding, thus started, became brisk until Mr. Robert Hobson, president of the Canada Steet Company, set the price at $325 for which amount he handed over a cheque.

Non-Political

Non-political in every sense of the word, the gathering was representative of the commercial, manufacturing and military life of Hamilton, and both because of the presence of the Minister of Marine and the cause in which it was held, the meeting took on a decidedly nautical flavor. Sallor songs from "Pinafore" down to "Till Jack Comes Home Again," were rendered and to such a pitch of enthusiasm was the assembly roused that when the orchestra struck up "Rule Britannia" in the middle of the dinner the audience arose to its feet and gave vent to cheers. Mr. Hazen was tendered an cvation as he arose and stendered an cvation as he arose and gave vent to cheers. Mr. Hazen was tendered an cvation as he arose and gave vent to cheers. In the told of the Dominion's participation in the war, and how in the course of two years Canada had changed from a borrowing to a lending nation standing spensor for $200,000,000 to the Imperial Treasury for the purpose of financing war orders on this side of the Atlantic, he was listened to with rapt attention.

A Sacred War

Characterizing the European struggle as the most sacred war ever waged in the history of the world, a war for the protection of Canadian homes as well as for the maintenance of the Empire Mr. Hazen, who was introduced by Mr. J. P. Bell, president of the Hamilton Canadian Club, said that it was up to the Allies to decide whether the law of the jungle or those principles for which the Saviour died on the cross should prevail. Canadians, he said, scarcely realized that the Empire was at war. Their trade routes and commerce had been protected by the British navy. The fleet had made it possible for the Dominion to do business as usual, only a little more so, since the outbreak of war. Not a ship carrying Canadian soldiers and very few carrying munitions or products of the control of ness as usual, only a little more so, since the outbreak of war. Not a ship carrying Canadian soldiers and very few carrying munitions or products of Canadian fields, prairies or forests, had not reached its destination. Out of the harbor of St. John last year there went goods to the value of over $120,000,000 and from the port of Halifax goods valued at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 had been shipped. For all this, Mr. Hazen pointed out, the British navy had been responsible, and it was through the British Sail-ors' Relief Fund that due appreciation

Canada Will Do More

In the days since the Empire first became plunged in war Canada has contributed, said the Minister of Marine, something like $40,000,000. But, notwithstanding her generosity in the past, he expected that the people of the Dominion would have to do still more. The destinies of Canada, he went on, were being fought out on the battlefields of Europe. It would not be long if Germany ever gained the ascendancy before the fair Dominion would be peopled by Germans and Austrians and British liberties and democratic institutions would be fored to give way to Teutonic kultur and frightfulness.

Ightfulness, Continuing, Mr. Hazen pictured the outrast between the Canadian farm-r and his brother in France at the resent time. He told how Canadian AGENTS WANTED. t between the Canadian farm-his brother in France at the time. He told how. eanadian en were prospering today ed if unsatisfactory. Collette Mig
