WE ARE ASSISTED BY AN ENEMY

The Casket a weekly sheet published at Antigon-ish, Nova Scotia, and edited by a bigot whose dimun-live brain is aflame with fanaticism, has hurled ana-thema against the editor of the Miners' Magazine, be-cause he dared to defend Socialism against the hire-lings of Capitalism, who, behind the mask of religion, yomit their vituperation against the doctrines of a movement that proclaims death to industrial weather.

Casket is appropriately named, because it is to progressive thought as was the cave man as dead to progressive thought as was the cave man to the laws of gravitation. The editor of the Miners' Magazine has been branded by The Casket as an 'ignoramus'" "brutal" and "reckless' because he had the audacity to de-clare in an editorial some time ago that" clerical condemnation does not prove anything. The editor of The Magazine in his early youth was susceptible to supersition, and swallowed without mastication all the hoary supersition that was handed down from a barbaric age, but the sunlight of a twentieth century has streamed upon him, the same as other men, who have no desire to live in the graveyards of the past; and he refuses, like Dannel O'Connell, to take his politics from Rome or his ideas on economics from the pharisaical fanatic who edits The Casket at Antigonish.

It appears in a Socialist paper published in a Western State, to which we referred about a month ago. DIABETES

Is one of the most cruel maladies of which man-kind is subject, the many complications arising from time to time making life seem almost un-bearable. For many diseases, medical, scientific, and physiological knowledge and experience, gained from years of deep research, has achieved remarkable results, but, up to now, little has been discovered of practical value in the treat-ment and cure of Diabetes. In fact, people have begun to look upon the disease as well-nigh incurable. Even in the medical profession can be found doctors who are of the same opinion, regarding sceptically any claim to ameliorate or improve the condition or a diabetic patient. This interesting person asks us to tell him the causes of sin and crime. We could tell him the causes of his sins; at least of those which stand out most prominently in his writings; but perhaps he will answer for himself. Like all the other Socialist quacks, he attributes sin and crime to the method of ownership of property and the means of production, which they choose to call "capitalism." Capitalists do not hold; altogether, nearly so much property as poor people do. The quacks, therefore sometimes include all property-owners in the term "capital." have you, indeed, found in Colorado some twentieth century sunshine, which outshines the sunshine of faith, truth, courage, and patriotism which shone on the land of your forefathers in the days when the great O'Neill's of a former time were winning fame and honor? They fought for liberty, for truth and for religion: they were men. "Is a They fought for liberty, for truth and for religion; they were men. 'Tis a pity that any of their descendants should be donkeys. They fought for the poor, and they loved the Church which stood for the poor against oppres-sion, for the weak against the strong, for the true against the false, for seven centurise in Ireland. Have you ever property-owners in the term "capital." Sometimes they classify all who are not strictly capitalists as supporters and hangers-on of capitalists. Sometimes they do not bother trying fo be exact -this is their usual method - and just talk of a mysterious something which they call "capital," and let it go at that."

The sense of humor, the keen apprecia tion of the absurb, has saved Irishmer from much. If you haven't lost it, it may some day lead you to see the quackery of Socialism; to see the folly of throw-ing oil on a fire to put it out; to see the impossibility of reorganizing a world full of people without any more powerful machinery than material comforts; to realize that sin began when there were only two people in the world and all material arrangements were perfect; to realize that no material condition will do more than men permit it to do; and that the propensity to evil, pride deceit, envy, jealousy lust, anger covetousness, laziness,—all the evil forces which afflict the world, will not stop on account of any change of material conditions. in his primer school, that "casket," in the English language, means a recept-acle for jewels; and that " coffin," in the same language, means a receptacle for dead bodies; and that the use of the word "casket" for the work "coffin," is an Americanism, a bit of false English, introduced for the first time about thirty, years after this paper was estab-lished. There goes our ridiculous friend lished. There goes our ridiculous friend who poses as an editor, and a writer of English, head first and sprawling, on his first little attempt to make a clumsy

He predicted a state of affairs in the world to come to pass within a certain time. The time has come, and is past; but the conditions he predicted have not arrived; and Socialist writers are at this very moment, busy in refitare, at this very moment, busy in refi-ting his theories to the conditions which ting his theories to the contrast where a rived; for, Karl Marx's pre-diction, they see, is so far from being fulfilled, that it has vanished as a human
