Attempted to Carry Out a Converging

Advance in the Dark-Descriptive Account From the Headquarters of Sir John French.

LONDON, Sept. 29.-The official Press Bureau issued last night a descriptive account of the operation of the British force in France and the French armies in municated by an eye-witness pre-sent at the headquarters of Field Marshal Sir John French. This account supplements that issued Sept. 24 from general headquar-

"September 25, 1914.—For four days there has been a comparative lull all along our front. This has been accompanied by a spell of fine weather, though the nights are now much colder. One can-not have everything, however, and one evil result of the sunshine has been the release of flies which were torpid during the wet

"Advantage has been taken of "Advantage has been taken of the arrival of reinforcements to relieve by fresh troops the men who have been on the firing line for some time. Several units, therefore, have received their baptism of fire during the week. "Since the last letter left general headquarters evidence has been received which points to the fact that during counter-attacks on the night of Sunday, the 20th. the German infantry fired into each other as the result of an attempt to carry out the dangerous expedient of a converging advance in the dark. "Opposite one portion of our position a considerable massing of hostile forces was observed before dark, and some hours later a furious fusillade was heard in front of our lines, though no bullets came over our trenches.

"This narrative begins with Sept. 21, and covers only two days. On Monday, the 21st. there was but little rain, and the weather took a turn for the better, which has been maintained. The action was practically confined to the artillery, our guns at one point shelling and driving away the enemy, who were endeavoring to construct a redoubt. The Germans, for their part, expended a large number of shells in a long range bombardment of a village.

"Reconnoitring parties sent out during the night of 21-22 discovered some deserted trenches, and in them, or near them in the woods, over 10 dead and wound were picked up. A number of rifles, ammunition and equipment were also found. There were other signs that portions of the enemy's forces had withdrawn for some distance. "Tuesday, 22, was also fine, with less wind, and was one of the most uneventful days that has has passed since we reached the Aisne—uneventful, that is, for the British. There was less artillery work on either side, the Germans, nevertheless, giving another village a taste of the 'Jack Johnsons.'

"The spot thus honored was "Espionage plays so large a part in the conduct of the war by the Germans that it is difficult to avoid further reference to the subject. They have evidently never have forgotten the saying of Frederick the Great: "When Marshal Soubise goes to war he is followed by a hundred cooks;

when I take the field I am preceded by a hundred spies."

"Indeed, until about twenty years ago, there was a paragraph in their field service regulations directing that the service of 'protection in the field'—e.g. outposts and advance guards—should al-ways be supplemented by a system

Though such instructions are of espionage. no longer made public, the Ger-mans, as is well known still carry them into effect. Apart from the more elaborate arrangements which were made in peace time for obtaining information by paid agents, some of the meth-ods which are being employed for the collection or conveyance of intelligence are as follows:
"Men in plain clothes signal to the German lines from points in the hands of the enemy by means of colored lights at night and puffs of smoke from chimneys by day. Pseudo laborers working in the fields between the armies have been detected conveying inormation and persons in clothes have acted as advance scouts to the German cavalry when advancing.

"German officers and soldiers in plain clothes. or in French or British uniforms. have remained in localities evacuated by the Germans in order to furnish them mans in order to furnish them with intelligence.

"One spy of this kind was found by our troops hidden in a church tower. His presence was only discovered through the erratic movements of the hands of the church clock which he was using as a signal to his friends by means of an improvised semaphore code. Had this man not been seized it is probable he would have signalled to the German artillery at the time of their arrival the exact location of the headuarters and staff. A high explosive shell would then have mysteriously dropped on the building.

"Women spies have also been caught; secret agents haev been found at the railroads observing entrainments and detrainments. It is a simple matter for spies to mix up with the refugees moving about to their homes; difficult for our troops, who speak neither French nor German, to detect "The French have found it necessary to search villages and casual wayfarers on the roads for carrier pigeons. Amongst the precautions taken by us to guard against spying is the publication of the following notice, printed in French and posted up:

"(1) Motor cars and bicycles not carrying soldiers in uniforms may not circulate on the roads.

"(2) The inhabitants may not leave the localities where they re-

"Events have moved so uickly during the last two months that anything connected with the mo-bilization of the British expeditionary force is now ancient his-tory. Nevertheless, the following extract of a German order is evidence of the mystification of the enemy, and is a tribute to the value of the secrecy well and ally maintained at the time in WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—Wheat opened easier on weaker Liverpool cables, but firmed up later on good buying by exporters and fair general demand for cash wheat. Oats held fairly steady.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET. MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—The situation in grain here today showed no improvement from last week. The enquiries received from abroad were few in number and lower in price. Much the same thing occurred in flour. The demand for cheese was also light and the receipts of butter, which were large, lowered prices for all grades.

Receipts of eggs continued small and prices firm. The only buying of hay that is going on appears to be for government account. Provisions were quiet.
