

The Fairest

In the land are the recipients of our flowers. Festal occasions are particularly in our line and our bride's bouquets are the most beautiful made. Our designs for funerals are also in the best taste. We do not pack the flowers into impossible shapes, but allow them to stand in airy natural beauty, as if they had just sprung into place.

BROCKVILLE CHEESE BOARD.
The registrations were the largest this year being 3000 colored and 2000 white. The attendance of members was also large. In the absence of the president and vice-presidents M. K. Everts occupied the chair.

Before commencing the sale of cheese the chairman introduced Mr. Bryce of Montreal, one of the largest dairy exporters of that city and invited him to address the meeting.

Mr. Bryce said that it had been many years since he had purchased dairy produce in the Brockville district, though he used to buy here before the formation of the present board. He would like to buy again but had been repeatedly told that there was no use in coming to the board in Brockville because generally the cheese is all pledged to certain buyers before the opening of the board. He had determined however, to come and see for himself if this state of affairs really exists. If it does not he would be pleased to buy cheese on this board and would attend every Thursday for that purpose. He explained that on the Cowansville board parties registering placed themselves under penalty to sell only on the board, and there the buyers had to make a substantial deposit to enable the sellers to satisfy themselves as to the financial standing of the buyers.

Mr. Everts then read a letter from James Alexander of Montreal urging that the weight of cheese should be stenciled upon the boxes, and also urging that cheese should not be shipped too green.

Mr. Everts said that when a committee from this board recently met a committee from the Butter and Cheese Association of Montreal the latter committee complained of too many green cheese having been shipped last season, and the two committees agreed that no cheese ought to be shipped until it is at least ten days old.

At the close of Mr. Everts remarks the sale of cheese commenced, the first bid being 8½c, which was instantly raised by Mr. Bryce to 9c. A moment later 9 1-10c was offered, then 9½c, which was quickly followed by an offer of 9 3-16c by Mr. Bisell and then 9½c, offered by Mr. Bryce, who on being given the call said that he would take a thousand or more boxes at this price. On this first call the only factory offering to sell was Warburton offering 60 boxes. Again and again the cheese were put up for sale and every time Mr. Bryce's bid of 9½c was the highest. On his second and third calls the sellers let their offerings go and other buyers also offered the same price for cheese.

LIBERAL MEETING.
There was a big liberal meeting at Nelson's Grove, near Lyn, last Thursday. Premier Ross, and Mr. Pattullo, M. P. P., Woodstock, were present. The chair was occupied by J. A. MacKenzie, who read an address from the liberal association, of which he is president. An address from the electors of the liberal government, of which he is president, was also read. Mr. Pattullo made a speech in which he eulogized the present administration and outlined the future policy of the liberal government. He was followed by Mr. Ross who was received with great enthusiasm. Mr. Ross called attention to honorable and progressive administration of his government in the past and said their policy would always be along those lines. It was, he said, the intention of his government to develop the resources of New Ontario and to perfect the system of education in the province of Ontario. George P. Graham, M. P. P., was the last speaker. He also outlined the past and future policy of the liberal government, and asked the electors of Lyn to vote for him, and support a good honest progressive government.

KILLING MUSTARD.
Last summer D. W. Doherty of the O. A. C. carried on some experiments in the spraying of mustard. He made up two preparations for the purpose one consisted of 6 lbs. of copper sulphate and 6 lbs. iron sulphate; dissolved in 40 gallons of water; the other consisted of 13 lbs. of copper sulphate dissolved in the same amount of water as in the previous case. The latter was found the more effective preparation of the two. A field of oats badly infested with mustard, situated near the College farm, was sprayed with the later mixture just when the weed was coming in bloom, and when the grain crop was eight to twelve inches high. A spraymotor with a four-nozzle attachment, was mounted on a cart drawn by a horse for the purpose of doing the work. Five days afterwards the mustard plants were nearly all dead, and in seven days were done for. And still the crop was not injured in any way either by the spraying or by the passage of the horse and cart through the field. In four days, in fact, all traces of the animal and vehicle had disappeared. The cost of the material used for spraying an acre was 80c., and an hour was required to do the work. "The time at which the work is done is," said Dr. Doherty, "a matter of prime importance. The spraying should take place just as the mustard is coming in bloom; if the work is delayed more of the material is required to perform the service required."

Scene at a Lynching.
William Campbell, a negro, was lynched at ten o'clock at night by a mob of four hundred persons in Oklahoma, who broke down the jail, took the black to the scene of his crime and hanged him to a telegraph pole. While en route to the place of execution the negro sang "Nearer my God to Thee," and other hymns. The crime for which Campbell was hanged was the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff George Smith. The negro was using abusive language to several boys, when William Fisher, a whiteman, interfered. A fight followed in which the negro drew two pistols. Smith tried to arrest him, whereupon the negro took deliberate aim and shot the officer through the right temple. The negro then began to back away holding the two pistols at the crowd. He backed into the arms of Banker Joseph McLennan, who grabbed his arms and twisted them till the pistols dropped. McLennan then dragged him to the sheriff's office. The mob hastily formed, battered down the jail door with crowbars and secured the prisoner. Campbell's last words were: "I am going home to glory."

Canadians have suffered so greatly by the company promoters, who promised to make them rich if they would purchase low-priced shares in mining prospects, that they are not likely to bite at the same bait again, at least just immediately. As there is no chance for catching the Canadian people in this way any more, to any great extent, the bait has been changed and the ignorant is now invited to make itself millionaires by purchasing twenty-five cent shares in immensely rich oil fields' properties—on paper. This temptation comes from the United States, where they are not in the habit of giving fortunes for a song, or immense oil fields for a bagatelle—even to poor, benighted Canadians.
