

"FORCE"

"OR" is a little word but gigantic in possibilities. Success, happiness, practically all of the good things of life, depend on good health. Most of the failures, the woes of life, rest their origin and continuance in bad health. The possibilities represented by the OR in "Good Health on Bad Health" certainly are gigantic, aren't they? Proper food more than any one other thing represents the difference between good health or bad health.

Any physician will tell you that a proper mixture of the whole of the wheat and barley malt is preeminently a proper food, one that builds normally, tones evenly, nourishes sufficiently, every organ of the body. "FORCE" is composed of the whole of the wheat and barley malt scientifically combined in the form of a delicate, crisp flake. It cannot lose its good qualities in faulty cooking, for it is ready to be put on the table when it reaches the house. There's another OR worth considering—a hot kitchen fire on a hot summer day OR no kitchen fire.

GREAT SALT LAKE.

This Remarkable Body of Water Will Vanish Within Fifty Years. Within fifty years from the present time the Great Salt Lake of Utah, the most remarkable body of water of its kind in the world, will have ceased to exist. It will have dried up, and its place will be occupied by an unattractive desert, save perhaps for a few irrigated farms.

Such, at all events, is the opinion of geologists. Professor W. J. McGee of Washington remarked in conversation the other day that half a century was an outside estimate for the survival of the lake. He was inclined to think that it would be dried up twenty-five years from now. Already its waters show signs of receding from the shores, and causes are in operation which lessen to a great extent the supplies furnished to this curious inland sea by streams.

The lake is about seventy-five miles long by half that in greatest breadth, being in shape somewhat irregular, and is rather shallow. There may be places where it has a depth of as much as a hundred feet, but over most of its area it is less than fifty feet deep. The reason why it is so salt is simply that it has no outlet save through evaporation, and the streams during ages past have been carrying salt into it.

The contributing streams are now beginning to be utilized on a large scale for irrigating purposes, and thus the customary water supply is being withheld to some extent from the lake. Before long immense reservoirs will be constructed in the mountains to hold the storm waters during the rainy season in order that they may be conserved and poured out over the fields in the dry time. Operations of this kind conducted so extensively must lower the level of the lake quite fast.

When the lake is gone, much of the land thus made dry will be unavailable for agriculture owing to its containing so large a percentage of salts of various kinds deposited from the water in the course of many centuries. But it may be supposed that certain areas where the lake was comparatively shallow will be suitable for farming. Thus there will be some direct gain.

Dried Coffee Beans.
In Germany it is not permissible to adulterate coffee. A wholesale grocer was recently tried in Hamburg, the charge against him being that he had adulterated a large quantity of Brazilian coffee, with the object of selling it as Porto Rico coffee. His counsel admitted that he had changed the original color of the coffee, but pointed out that he had made the change before the coffee was roasted, and as the experts who had been summoned expressed the opinion that it was perfectly lawful to adulterate beans, though entirely unlawful to adulterate roasted coffee, the court promptly ordered a verdict of not guilty.

In this case the adulteration consisted in making the beans of a greenish blue color and in pressing fine flour between the clefts. The rosy hue which characterizes Brazilian coffee was thus obliterated.

According to the experts, beans of coffee have been artificially colored in Hamburg for the last forty years, and if the practice is to be stopped, though they insist that the public is not duped, since it is not the color which gives quality to coffee, suits will have to be instituted against all the grocers of the city.

Theater Supper Parties.
"No, we don't encourage supper parties," said the manager of the continuous performance theater, "but we are powerless to prevent them. They come early in the afternoon and camp out until the last turn at night. See the fat woman going in with the basket and the three kids? Well, she's a regular. In that basket you will probably find a lot of ham sandwiches, some pickles, an orange apiece and perhaps a tumbler of jelly. About 6 o'clock they will consume this provender and be prepared to enjoy the evening performance, despite the fact that they have already seen it in the afternoon. 'Chasers' have no effect upon the supper parties. A bum song and dance team will go on and do their worst to drive out the sitters in order to make room for the evening audience, but it's like pouring water on a duck's back. The people who stay for supper will stand for anything."

The World's Best Timekeeper.
This is said to be the electric clock in the basement of the Berlin observatory, which was installed by Professor Forster in 1865. It is inclosed in an airtight glass cylinder and has frequently run for periods of two or three months with an average daily deviation of only 15-1000 of a second. Yet astronomers are not satisfied even with this, and efforts are continually made to secure ideal conditions for a clock by keeping it not only in an airtight case, but in an underground vault where neither changes of temperature nor barometric pressure shall ever affect it.

The Croton Dam.
New York's Croton dam, the largest ever undertaken by man, is 200 feet thick at the bottom, 300 feet high from the base of the foundation, 150 feet high above the ground and 1,000 feet long. It is located three miles from Peekskill, the top of the dam being 216 feet above tidewater and 100 feet above the reservoir in Central park. The storage capacity is 30,000,000 gallons. Work has been in progress eight years and will continue three years longer. The estimated cost of the dam was $4,150,573, but $1,000,000 additional will be required.

Seefest on the Gridiron.
Sitting on the balcony of the Anglo-American club, Brussels, a Yankee and an Englishman spent a lazy afternoon gazing each other on racial and national follies and traits. The conversation veered into dogs. "Yours," he construed the Englishman, "drawed the Britisher, 'Amal, a deuced nothing so much as a gridiron, a deuced big gridiron, don'tcher know?" "And yours," was the quick come back from the American, "reminds me forcibly of a beefsteak—a darned big beefsteak, but not so big that we can't cook it on our gridiron!"

Inherited the Business.
"O'm descended from Brian Born, ma'am, O'd hove ye know," declared the haughty Mrs. Fitz Clancy, "is that all inside?" replied Mrs. Casey, the humble lady of the corner fruit stand. "Faith, O'm a descendant of Eve the first apple woman!"

Alive, Yet Half Dead.
Feeling miserable. This is the condition of thousands of growing boys and women. Can't eat enough to be truly alive. Digest so little of what they do eat, as to scarcely know what life really means. Miserable? Of course. Eat more, digest more, then feel stronger, the buoyancy, the strength, the hopefulness of youth. Simply done if you'll just Ferrozene, the wonderful blood maker, nerve strength and brain vigor. A. L. McColl, druggist, knows all about it. Call and ask him about it.

A man is lacking in diplomacy who tries to guess a woman's age.

All great work consists of small deeds.

A man talks about owning his business. But as a matter of fact his business owns him. His whole life is regulated by the demands of the business. The time at which he rises, his breakfast hour, the time given to meals, are all determined by business obligations. He rushes through lunch because he "can't spare the time from business" to eat leisurely. He won't take a rest because he is needed at the store or office. He is in fact an absolute slave to business. The result which follows this slavery are to be seen on every hand. Men dyspeptic, irritable, nervous, with drawn faces, and hollow eyes, sit at the desk or stand behind the counter until they collapse in a fit of sickness, or are taken away by heart failure. Those who cannot escape the exactions of business will find a friend in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, increases the action of the blood-making glands, increasing the vitality and physical vigor. It makes men strong and prevents those business break-downs which so often terminate fatally.

The most liberal creed is the one that takes in the greatest need.

JEALOUSY AND PRIDE.

Through One Writer's Spectacles These Two Appear as Virtues.

There is a little jealousy in all persons and especially in all women. It springs from deep love, which always desires to be first in the affection of the one beloved. A lover, whether man or maid, who is not susceptible to occasional twinges of jealousy is not truly in love.

While jealousy, considered with reference to its origin, is not an ignominious emotion, it is frequently absurd in its outbreaks. A father is sometimes upset with jealousy because he imagines that his wife loves the children more than she loves him. Mothers are frequently jealous of the husbands or wives of their daughters or sons. Wives become jealous of the sisters or mothers of their husbands. No one is immune against the little green bacilli of jealousy.

Generally the tears or frowns of jealousy are swept away with a few kind words and a caress, but there are some unhappy persons whose jealousy is chronic and who make themselves ridiculous and annoying by their fits and storms of jealous passion. The jealousy of such persons is beyond reason. Indeed, it is a form of dementia which begets every sort of violence. Pride is the strongest controller of jealousy. The theologians reckon pride among the seven deadly sins, but as a matter of fact pride is at the bottom of much of the virtuous action in the world. Pride is the root of most bravery, fortitude, courtesy, magnanimity, humility and industry. Pride is the essential spirit of thorough breeding, and in spite of being enumerated among the deadly sins pride is not connected with turpitude.

ONE MAN'S FINE CONCEIT.

Massing of Men, He Says, Means Strength of Women, Bonnets.

"It's an odd thing about women," remarked Jones to his wife as he settled himself for a special effort. "We admire you intensely in the individual. We adore you when taken singly, but it's a strange, sad fact that when a few hundred of you get together you lose distinction. A multitude of rare women brought together in one building for a common cause are far from venerable. Look at Sorsis. The club is undoubtedly made up of ideal mothers and wives, but one resolutely refuses to find it anything else than a convocation of bonnets. Earnest, intense women recruit the ranks of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, but its mass meetings only amuse the rest of the world. An exclusively feminine tea was never an object of envy to those who pass it by."

"And what of you men?" suggested Mrs. Jones. "Are you all so much finer in a crowd?" "Undoubtedly," replied Jones. "It isn't open to dispute that a 'gang' of men is at all times convincing. If it is only a mob with a rope looking up a criminal, the sight does not lack impressiveness. The imagination plays about a 'smoker' and speculates as to the quality of the cigars and the world's work has been done by men in mass for a purpose. Unless to us is strength, the novelists have always remained below when the door of the banquet hall was opened for the filing out of the ladies."

Small Things That Count.
It is said that Cesar chose his generals according to the length of their forefingers in comparison with that of their second fingers. No man whose forefinger was over one-eighth of an inch shorter than his middle finger had a ghost of a show. Men with very short forefingers are supposed to be effeminate. I believe it is so. Napoleon's generals were selected by their noses. Cromwell believed that bowlegged men made the best soldiers. Washington preferred men with high cheek bones. Receding foreheads were the rule among his generals. Alexander the Great judged men by their teeth, those having very large canines being preferred as commanders.

Life in New York.
Nobody living outside New York knows how difficult it has become in that city for people of moderate means to bring up their children in the love of genuine things. It is still done by many, but with increasing effort and only by dint of a strong will and an inheritance of the truest graces of life—simplicity, the domestic affections and the love of nature and one's kind. It is to the cultivation of these graces that we must look for a rescue from the artificiality and the vulgarity of the pitiable circle in every American city known as "the smart set."—Century.

Worse For the Politicians.
"Do you think that sugar is unwholesome for children?" asked the anxious parent. "Well," answered the physician, "my observation is that it isn't likely to do children nearly as much harm as it does politicians."

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most bees have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, was to him who touches the bees. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and overwhelm your face. No living being except they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, associate immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.
