"August Flower"

What Is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

A certain judge down in Alabama says that when the young lawyers spout law at him all day until they don't know on which side they are arguing and he doesn't either, he listens to them patiently and ', takes the matter under advisement." Then he goes home, states the case to his wife and she gives her opinion, which he announces as his own the next morning in open court. This judge says his wife doesn't know a line of law, but that she has the biggest stock of common sense of any woman in that part of the country.

Many people are not aware that it is the wrapper of the tobacco which gives the color to the plug, and are therefore often deceived by a handsome outside appearance. The wrapper is a single film or leaf wrapped around the plug and is never good smoking tobacco. It is cosily only because of its fine color. It the 'Myrtle Navy' brand the chief attention is paid to the 'filler', that is, the inside of the plug. It is this which determines the smoking quality of any tobacco. A tobacco can be made to look as well as the 'Myrtle Navy' without much trouble and expense, but it may at the same time be a very inferior article.

A beach may resist the sea for years, yet in a few hours it may be stripped bare to the solid rock: Shells may be covering the bottom a mile off shore, undisturbed by onshore gales; a storm, with wind and waves apparently much the same as usual, may sweep them all on shore. In other words, the will of old ocean in modifying shore lines is practically irresistible and his occasional devastation remediless.

The highest velocity ever given to a cannon ball is estimated at 1,626 feet per second, being equal to a mile in 3.2 seconds. The velocity of earth at the equtaor, due to its rotation on its axis, is 1,000 miles per hour, or a mile in 3.6 seconds. Therefore, if a cannon ball were fired due west, and could maintain its initial velocity, it would beat the sun in its apparent journey around the earth.

The Personal Equation In Temperance Work.

BY ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS WARD.

I once asked a woman of great loveliness in personal character and eminent success as an organizer in charitable work, some such question as this:

"But how much do you see of the wretched homes which you are trying to elevate? How much do you know of the individuals for whose sake all this great philanthropic machinery is kept in motion?"

"Oh," she said, "I can't enter into relations mith these people."

There are two kinds of philanthropists I think we find: Those who organize and those who individualize—the abstract temperaments and the concrete, perhaps we might call them. Each is necessary, both "work together" for good. Certain "causes" have temperaments like people and tend more than others in this or that direction.

It has sometimes seemed to me (if I may be pardoned a critical word about a movement with which I am so warmly in sympathy that I cannot be misunderstood) that the temperance work at this particular time needs strengthening in the personal direction. In the earlier days of the new reform clubs, in the white-heat of a sacred excitement that ran like prairie fire over the country, it was inevitable that we should concentrate ourselves more upon the individual struggle to save the individual drunkard It was not so much intemperance that we busied ourselves about as drunken Tom Dick or Harry. There were fewer committee meetings and more visits; less red tape and and more of the private confessional; less dependence upon conventions and more concentration upon conversions. We did not take the whole world for our vantage ground; we took the soul of James or Peter, and did not let him go until God blessed him.

The temperance work of one town in particular, of which I chanced to know something, was doubtless a fair sample of a hundred similar efforts. The organization fell to pieces, but the heart of all its loving struggle to save beat on. The club room was closed, but the beauty of holiness that its rude walls had sheltered and nurtured did not die in a neighborhood quarrel, nor was it buried for lack of funds. Men who had been the subjects of all those heartaches and prayers and secret tears and sacred expedients, did not live as if they had never known what it was to be thought about and cared for and toiled for by refined women with Christ in the soul. They could not. Now and then of course, some poor fellow fell back into the mire and stuck there—but he was the rare exception. All that exhaustion of spirit and body was not wasted. Those friendships formed between the sheltered and the tempted, were not thrown away. The welcome to Christain homes the seat in the parlor, the delicate touch of the white hand on the rough one, the kind word on the streets in passing, the secret conferences with the worn wife, the little loan when the emergency came that called for it, the hard work to find the new place for the new man, the ceaseless, patient, under "personal relation"—this will never be forgotten. This helped. This lasts.

Now, far be it from me to discourage the necessary skeleton of organization which stands behind all extended effort to help the world; or to deny the reporting of it in a paper like the UNION SIGNAL. But if I may be allowed to make a practical suggestion in open daylight, as the result of one woman's study of your columns and of some acquaintance with the needs of the temperance work, I should say: Fall back more often, more heavily upon the personal equation Tell us more of what you do, as well as how you do it. Give us Thomas, Richard and Henry. Tell us how this man was saved, and why that one was not. Tell us what sorts and condition of men come into the coffee rooms and what you say to them when they get there; who fill the reading rooms, and how you treat them. Give us the story of the personal woman saving the personal man. Nothing can be more sacred than such confidences; and all clews to identification of personal histories by neighbors should be honorably and cautiously avoided; but such facts can be made to read like fiction and hurt nobody's feelings, yet help us all.

Let me suggest for the THE UNION SIGNAL a department of personal testimony, filled with the experiences of temperance women in saving, or in fixing to save drunken and wretched men. It might be made a thrilling, inspiring, and humbling column. The lives of your workers and readers must be crowded with practical incidents that would stir the country. Let us have them.

Literary Notes.

The Cosmolitan begins its thirteenth volume May issue, under the joint editor-ship of Mr. W. D. Howells and a table of contents which will attract attention.

James Russell Lowell, Frank R. Stockton, Theodore Roosevelt, Edmund Clarence Stedman, Henry James, Prof. H. H. Boysen, Hamlin Garland, John Hay. Sarah Orne Jewett, Prof. Langley of the Smithsonian. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, and W. D. Howells himself are among the contributors. The illustrations in this issue are by such well known artists as F. W. Kemball, Frederic Remington, F. S. Church, Walter Crane, William M. Chase, C. S. Reinhart, Dan Beard, George Wharton Edwards, Wilson de Meza, etc.

The sudden an unexpected death of Amelia B. Edwards recalls her last literary work, Pharaohs, Fellahs, and Explorers, which has met with such popular favor in this country and in England as to oblige the publishers, Messrs. Harper & Brothers, to but the book to press several times for new editions. The world of letters and of science has met a great loss in Miss Edwards' death, as she was regarded as a leading authority on Egyptology.

Sweet Maiden of Quoddy.

Sweet maiden of Passammaquoddy,
Shall we seek for communion of souls
Where the deep Mississipi meanders,
Or the distant Saskatchewan rolls?
Ah no! In New Brunswick we'll find it—
A sweetly sequestered nook—
Where the swift gliding Skoodoowabskooksis
Unites with the Skoodoowabskook.

Mediuxnakik's waters are bluer;
Nepisiguit's pools are more black;
More green is the bright Oromocto,
And browner the Petitcodiac,
But colors more radiant, in autumn,
I see when I'm casting my hook,
In the waves of the Skoodoowabskooksis
Or perhaps in the Skoodoowabskook.

Let others sing loudly of Salco,
Of Passadumkeag or Miscouche,
Of Kennebeccasis or Quaco,
Of Miramichi or Buctouche;
Or boast of the Tobique or Mispec,
The Musquash or dark Memramcook:
There's none like the Skoodoowabskooksis
Excepting the Skoodoowabskook!

Think not, though the Ma-ga-gua-da-vic,
Or Bocabec pleases the eye;
Though Chi-pat-nee-ti-cook is lovely,
That to either of these we will fly.
Nor, when in love's union we're plighted,
We'll build our log house by a brook
Which flows to the Skoodoowabskooksis
Where it joins with the Skoodoowabskook.

Then never of Waweig or Chamcook
I'll think having you in my arms;
We'll reck not of Digdeguash beauties,
We'll care not for Popelogan's charms,
But as emblems of union forever
Upon two fair rivers we'll look;
While you'll be the Skoodoowabskooksis
I'll be the Skoodoowabskook.

Miss Grove and Her Work.

Evangeline Grove
Stood at the stove
Preparing her Diamond Dyes,
Her mother looked on,
While fat brother John
Stood gazing with wondering eyes.

Now little Miss Grove
She dearly did love
A dress or a costume to dye:
And mother, she smiled
Whenever the child
Her skill to this work did apply.

This fine afternoon,
With stick and with spoon
The dye she was closely tending;
'Twas Fast Navy Blue,
So rich and so true,
O'er which she was eagerly bending.

Now into the pot
The gently did drop
A faded blue French wool serge dress;
'Twas boiled in the dye,
Rinced, and then put to dry,
And restored quite to usefulness.

WThe neighbors around,
Have all quickly found
hat wonders with dyes can be done:
And now they all use,
And never refuse
These dyes that stand washing and sun.

The moral taught here,
Should all women cheer,
It refers to economy rare;
The agents are small,
But useful to all
Are the Diamond Dyes fadeless and fair.

What's the use of feeling languid,
Mopy, dull and blue?
Clense the blood and give it vigor:
Make the old man new.
How? I'll tell you. To the drug store
Go this very day—
Buy a medicine to banish
All your ills away—
And that medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical discovery, the very best blood-purifier on earth. It builds up and strengthens the system because it cleanses the blood, and that's what the system must have to be strong and healthy. There's nothing that equals it. Absolutely sold on trial!
