PROGRAMME OF THIRD WEEK.

FIRST SOLEMN PONTIFICAL MASS CELEBRATED ON SUNDAY—SOCIAL HAPPENINGS.

The first solemn Pontifical Mass which it has been the good fortune of St. John's members to attend in their own chapel as a choir choir, was celebrated Sunday morning, July 15th. Many things tended to make it one of the most memorable and most impressive ceremonies ever held at Chiff Haven. The enlarged chapel, with its new sanctuary, the exceptionally fine sacred music and notable sermon, and the presence of the Rt. Rev. T. M. Burke, Bishop of Albany, and several distinguished priests, all added toward making it a remarkable event.

The preacher of the day was Mgr. James F. Loughlin, D. D. of Philadelphia, first vice president of the school. He took for his subject "The Sacred Heart of Jesus," which he treated in a most beautiful and impressive manner.

The musical programme, which in every way surpassed that usually heard in many of our large churches throughout the country, especially deserves commendation.

Monday morning's lectures began promptly at 9:30 with the work in "As You Like It," under the direction of Dr. James J. Walsh. The course is well largely attended despite the extreme heat, and the lectures and discussions are quite as attractive and as learned as those on the heavy tragedy of Hamlet.

At 10:30, the course on "The Study of Language," was commenced. The lecturer, Dr. George McVillie Belling, is associate professor in the Greek Language and Literature, and assistant professor in Comparative Philology and Sanskrit in the Catholic University at Washington. Dr. Belling received his Ph. D. from John Hopkins, and was about the same time elected a Fellow of that University.

Because of their erudition and their scholarship, these lectures promise to be extremely valuable. Under their scope lies a large field of learning, out of which Dr. Belling has carefully selected that material which is best suited for his purpose, and has cast it into such a form, as to present it clearly to the minds of his listeners.

The second week's work in study of Dante's Inferno was continued at 11:45 by Dr. Mahony. This and Dr. Walsh's course are largely attended by New York teachers who are anxious to secure certificates which will insure their promotion.

The Hon. Martin Glynn, of Albany, Member of Congress, and the scheduled lecturer for Monday and Tuesday evenings of this week, telegraphed on Monday that he would be unable to keep his appointment on account of illness, the doctor forbidding him to leave his home.

The students at Chiff Haven, however, were not allowed to suffer from disappointment as Dr. J. J. Walsh Monday night was asked to give a talk on his experiences in his travels through Russia. The lecturer gave a very picturesque and sympathetic account of his journey through Russia, and evinced some new but thoroughly impartial views on the character of the people and the government.

Tuesday night Mr. Glynn's place was ably filled by Dr. John Talbot Smith who delivered a forcible and thoughtful lecture on "A Popular Disease," which treated in detail the non-religious aspect of most phases of modern life.

Sunday evening a reception was given to Bishop Burke at the New York cottage. In his honor a musical program of unusual excellence was rendered. Several other features of the social life have been most attractive. The Curtis Pine Villa entertained twice, once at an observance and once at a musical. There was also a dance at the Champlain Club.

The attendance has been very large this week. The grounds are rapidly filling up and it is expected that rooms will be at a premium in a very few days.

True Economy

The difference of cost between a good and a poor baking powder would not amount for a family's supply to one dollar a year. The poor powder would cost many times this in doctors' bills.

Royal Baking Powder may cost a little more per can, but it insures perfect, wholesome food. In fact, it is more economical in the end, because it goes further in leavening and never spoils the food.

Royal Baking Powder used always in making the biscuit and cake saves both health and money.

You cannot, if you value good health, afford to use cheap, low-grade, alum baking powders. They are apt to spoil the food; they do endanger the health. All physicians will tell you that alum in food is poisonous.

Herold Priest at Water Front Fire.

Amongst the many touching and inspiring spectacles witnessed during the great conflagration at the North German Lloyd steamship docks in Hoboken on a late Saturday was that of a priest standing on the deck of the Walden, giving absolution to the frantic men whose heads protruded from the port holes of the steamer, dying in view of those who were powerless to aid them.

The priest was Rev. John Brogan, of the mission of Our Lady of the Rosary, in State street, New York. Father Brogan related the following story of his experience:

"It was about 9 o'clock, while I was walking along the Battery wall, that I saw the floating lighters burning as they came down the river. Father Henry, who is rector of the mission, had told me earlier in the evening of their being a fire in Hoboken.

"As I neared the pier of the first New York saviour-bringing in the injured. They were laid on the floor of the fire house, and many of these were unconscious. I sent at once to the mission and had the holy oils and breads sent over. The church allows conditional absolution, and I did not stop to ascertain where were our faith to carry thirty before they were absorbed to the hospital. Then I learned from the dress of the gravity of the fire. A dressmaker provided me with a rubber coat, and I went to the scene aboard the tug Mutual, with Captain Roberts.

"We went first to the Seale. By the time we arrived at her side she was slowly sinking. I saw many heads and faces looking out of the port holes. They were 'oo far away from me to be reached. They understood, many of them, and I praised God that He brought me there, for it did seem as though I had brought consolation to some of them. Death they knew was certain. They knew there was no hope of escape. They did not become frenzied. They seemed resigned to die, and spent the last moments in praying with me. Oh, it was terrible to think that, with so many about, help could not be got to them!

"One man I saw looked out of the second port hole. He was ten feet away from those who could get nearest him. He was a young man, apparently 37 years of age, and wore a blue jumper. He was evidently one of the crew. I spoke to him and blessed him, giving him absolution. He understood, for he closed his eyes and bowed his head. I will never forget the look on that man's face. It was one of resignation, calmity, and appeal.

"Back of him we could see the flames rising and raging so hotly. Each minute that elapsed brought the water up higher nearer to him. He came up slowly and surged about his face. He struggled terribly to keep his head out of the port hole. The water covered his head twice. One last look of appeal and he sank. We saw him no more.

Delinquent Subscribers.

(Catholic Register.)

The Subscriber to Catholic Newspapers presents some peculiarities that will not bear the light of justice, or honesty. The field is an admirable one for the work of the Society for Psychological Research. Year after year the debt in favor of the Catholic publication is allowed to run on and accumulate with but little apparent effort to settle on the part of the latter and with a supreme indifference born of carelessness that does not tend to lighten the heart of the publisher nor yet enable him to continue his good work of disseminating Catholic literature and views through the country. Every subscriber knows as well as the publisher that his subscription is due on such a date and he ought in all honesty and good Catholic sense, the proper way to go about it is to send your dollar on the day on which your subscription ends, if you do not wish to continue the paper, the business way of handling the case is to drop a card to the Editor telling him so. If a paper goes into your house you are supposed to pay for it and to do so as promptly as you would meet a note on the day it is due. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Father Phelan, editor of the Western Watchman of St. Louis, writing from Paris, notes some very beautiful religious customs among the Catholic people of France. "Another beautiful custom," he says, "is the election of a Rosier. This is the girl in the parish who has been the most edifying during the previous twelve months. This is not merely a matter of honor, there is a sum of money allotted to her, in some instances reaching 1,000 francs. At a meeting last Sunday in one of the suburbs of Paris the fortunate girl was the daughter of a washerwoman. She had been gentle and modest to all, and specially kind and helpful to her mother. The meeting was held in the public square. The maire made a speech. The curé came out with the rosiers and rosieres boys in procession and conducted the happy girl into the church, where she was solemnly crowned. The ceremony ended with Benediction.
