Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The subject of Higher Education has been discussed in the papers year after year, and now a new phase of the question is receiving the attention of our educationalists. We, of the everyday class, are disposed to look upon it as something unnecessary and we have sympathy for the child that has to wrestle with the many intricate subjects which this type of education embraces, because for the most part many of the scholars who go through the ordeal are never afforded an opportunity in after life to benefit materially by the cramming which in their school days they struggled to digest. People who can pay for such education for their children are certainly at liberty to do so, if they feel like it, but the Government should consider the matter well before deciding to expend any further money to enlarge on the present fact.
We have many young men and women in this country who had to leave school early, because their assistance in the support of their homes demanded that they go to work at an early age, and it is only after getting out in the world that the boy or girl with the scant education realizes what great drawbacks they have to struggle under, and it is only then that their appetites become sharpened for more knowledge to help them in the struggle of life. This, Mr. Editor, is a class that should receive assistance from the Government, and this could be accomplished by starting night-schools all over the island. As most of the young men and women who would attend these schools would be employed at trades and situations they would be able to pay a small sum to help defray the expense of such schools, and therefore once the schools were set a-going the cost to the Government would be comparatively small. Our people are quick to learn and with the proper facilities and good teachers, whom I don't think would be difficult to secure, we would in a few years have thousands of young men and women who to-day are fumbling along in semi-darkness full fledged scholars capable of participating in the endless blessings to which such an education leads.
I am, Sir, very respectfully, Yours truly,
R. J. P.

Typhoid Fever.

During the past summer and up till recently typhoid fever has been prevalent at different periods at St.
John's, several who contracted it were very ill and but for the skillful treatment of Dr. Lynch would not have survived. The case of the outbreak is attributed by most of the people to the pollution of the water in the wells, several of which are situated near stables where deleterious matter is likely to become mixed with the water.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Nov. 1st, 1912.

Now that the worst part of the fall is rapidly approaching, those who are subject to winter cough and bronchial troubles should be more than careful of their health. Some protection from colds and coughs can undoubtedly be secured by the timely use of some good builder for the system—something that will increase the staying and resistant powers, and so enable the body to throw off the effects that are apt to spring from long continued spells of damp weather. Such a tonic is Morrola, a combination of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and other standard tonics in the form of an elegant and palatable elixir. The use of a bottle of Morrola may help you over the fall without any further trouble.

Violent Prisoner.

At 6.45 p.m. yesterday a seaman of the Sirius who had too much liquid cargo stowed below fell through the window of Mr. A. H. Murray's office in Bowring's Cove, and when Inspector Collins went to his aid he attacked that officer. The Inspector, however, is able to take care of himself, and soon received assistance from other officers who after a tough battle handcuffed the bluejacket and escorted him to the station.

Advanced Woman.

The less a woman's like a man, the more adorable is she; when she forsakes the old time plan she sends a wire-edged palm through me. To mix up in this suffrage game destroys reserve and grace and pride. I've never seen a suffrage dame who wasn't bold and saucy-eyed.
Let men resort to campaign tricks and make the worn out welkin throb;
a woman talking politics would make the gods throw up their job. I've watched the downward course of girls who once were radiant and rare, with azure eyes and golden curls and smiles as sunny as their hair. They wore a wreath that never fades—the love of all their fellows here, while they were modest, joyous maids, contented with their proper sphere; but when they filled the air with shrieks, demanding this and that, men passed them up as dizzy freaks who didn't know where they were at. And soon they lost their gracious charm, their once sweet eyes grew bold and hard, their voices hoarse from calls to all arms; they looked like yeomen of the guard. And any dame who fills her mind with politics, and makes a din, and tries to work the mannish grind, will soon have lilacs on her chin. The suffrage women, night and morn, still flaunt their banners in the breeze. God help the children yet unborn, if they have mothers such as these!

VERY OFTEN IT IS WIS- ER TO SPEND TEN DOLLARS THAN TO SAVE FIVE.

When a woman begins saying, "I have been a good wife to him," she had better look less to her morals and more to her clothes. When your husband begins staying out nights, don't go and get an old lawyer; go and get a new hat. And make it alarmingly pretty.

This is one half of the story of foolish sayings. Here is the other half.

Every woman who has to care for others forgets to care for herself. And she soon ceases to be able to care for anybody. There are more faded metaphors in petticoats than there are in books.

This robbing Peter to pay Paul is a foolish expedient. Happiness is the greatest part of health. Amusement is as necessary as food.

If you haven't new clothes you won't go out. If you don't go out you won't be happy. When you cease to be happy you begin to get sick.

Your husband has his choice right now, of buying new clothes for his own wife or for the doctor's wife.

When you can buy several years of happiness with just a few dollars of cash it seems like a wise expenditure.
Now, suppose you make up your mind this instant that you are going to make yourself just as attractive as your pocketbook will allow.

Suppose you turn to the advertising in this paper now and pick out that nice, warm, attractive coat for the winter. And look at some of the hats and dresses and stockings and boots at the same time. Flush yourself up with the joy of living and so the limit for once. Suppose you de-spend more than you ought to. Life is to be lived, not looked at.

Turn to the advertising in this paper now. Pick out the most attractive things you find within the limit of your spending capacity. Picture to yourself how you are going to look in these things. Picture how you are going to appear to other people. It doesn't make any difference whether you are sixteen or sixty—you want to be attractive just the same.

Look over every advertisement large and small. Some little advertisement here may have just the thing you want. And you will come back with a smile on your face that won't wear off.

And remember this always:—A bright red petticoat is far more easily forgotten than a grey face.

Explosives Found In Vault Of Union

Indianapolis, Oct. 26.—An alarm clock, gun shoes, nitro-glycerine cans, tags from dynamite packages and whips were produced before the jury at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today and identified by Martin J. Hyland, Chief of Police of Indianapolis, as having been taken from the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers on the night that J. J. McNamara was arrested.
All the exhibits were piled in heaps on the floor before the jury.

Chief Hyland testified that on the night of April 22, 1911, when Mc-Namara, Secretary of the Union, was arrested, President Frank M. Ryan, and other of the defendants were present. The witness said Ryan, on advice of his attorney, had protested against a search of the Union's vaults before a warrant was procured. Out of a vault in the basement of the office building, the witness testified, four packages containing sticks of dynamite fuse and other articles were taken.
