

Hockey Season Opens.FEILDANS WIN FIRST GAME.

The Feildans defeated the Terra Novas by 7 goals to 2 in the opening game of the hockey season, played in the Prince's Rink last night. Despite adverse weather conditions there were quite a large number of spectators present, many coming from the country to witness the first game. The ice was good and fast, and although the game was keenly contested, the quality of hockey played out was by no means good. There was an almost entire lack of combination, and even the individual play was by no means brilliant. This may probably be accounted for by lack of practice, but there was no excuse for the manner in which so many players failed to keep their places and support their team mates. This was a particularly noticeable feature of the game.

SPLENDID GOAL TENDING.

Perhaps the chief feature of the game was the splendid exhibition while goal-keeping put up by Nix. He again in harness in the goal, and showed that his as good as ever. He had some very difficult shots to attend to, but he dealt with them in his old style. Joe Rawlins was also good. He had more shots to contend with than Nix, and the manner in which he kept his goal clear won him much applause. For the winners, Winter, Tait, Alderdice and Hubert Rendell did well. Little Jim Alderdice succeeded in getting in some fine work, and Tait made some good individual runs, none of which, however, proved effective. Rendell used his weight and speed to good advantage in getting through, and near the end, scored after skating the length of the rink. Although the Terras were handicapped by the loss of several good men, they surprised the fans who were expecting a walk-over for last years champions. Canning was up to his old form, and worked hard right through the game. Clarke also did well, but he and the whole Terra Nova forward line should remember to keep their places. Several good opportunities to score were lost because there was no one in goal to receive a pass. Rob Stick played a good defence game and Max Churchill and Reid were in fairly good form.

SLOW AT FIRST.

For the greater part of the first period play was quite slow and not very interesting. In fact, not once during the first five minutes did Robby get a chance to try out his whistle. What play there was during the period was mainly individual, although now and then a little combination was seen. To Ewing fell the honour of scoring the first goal for the season. From the first goal of the Terras goal he put the puck past Rendell 13 minutes after the start. From this point play became faster and more interesting. Winter and Stick had a little mix-up in mid ice, and Robby thought a one minute rest would do them good. A few minutes later, Winter took the puck into the Terras territory and sent in a stiff shot which Rawlins just managed to clear. Canning retaliated with a run through, but he, too, was unable to score. When the period ended, the score was still 1-0 in favour of the Feildans.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The second period was a great improvement in every way. From the start play was fast, and the puck was carried from one end of the rink to the other in quick succession. A very nice bit of combined play on the part of Churchill and Canning, resulted in a goal for the Terras, minutes after the start. A few minutes later, both Rendell and Winter were penalised for two minutes each, and with only four men to oppose them the Terras worked hard but lost several good opportunities. Winter evidently benefited by his short rest, for 14 minutes from the start he beat Rawlins after a rink-length run. Four minutes later Ewing notched up the Feildans third goal from a wing shot, and one minute before the end, Alderdice scored from a pass from behind the goal by Rendell.

LAST PERIOD.

The last period started with a rush by the Feildans which resulted in Alderdice scoring after two minutes play. Shortly after this, a most curious sight was seen. Clarke brought the puck into the Feildan goal, and while he attempted to play the whole Feildan team, his own side kept well back and watched the fun. Later, several attempts by Canning were foiled through the failure of any other member of his team to be in position when he passed. Ten minutes from the start of the period, Reid beat Nix for the Terras second and last goal. Some very pretty combined work was got in by the Feildans towards the end of the period, and resulted in Payn scoring after twelve minutes play. The last goal was scored by Rendell after a run through, and on the very stroke of time.

The line-up was as follows:—

FEILDANS	Goal.	TERRA NOVAS
N. Hunt	Left Defence.	J. Rawlins
R. H. Tait	Right Defence.	R. Stick
E. Rendell	Right Defence.	Max Churchill

Looks Years Younger and Feels Fine

St. John's Woman Gains 15 Pounds And Troubles Of Many Years Standing Are Completely Overcome.

Circulation Was Poor And Face Was The Color Of Chalk. Now Brimful Of New Life And Strength.

"My wife is enthusiastic about Tanlac and she certainly ought to be, for she has been benefited in every way," said L. Constantine, well known railroad man living at 87 Hamilton St., St. John's, Nfld.
"For many years my wife had been in wretched health and was so weak and thin I was in constant fear that she would break down entirely. The circulation of her blood was poor and her face was just the color of chalk. I believe she was the most nervous person on earth and she got little rest either day or night."
"She is like a different woman now, however, and if anybody wants to hear Tanlac praised to the skies, they ought to come out to our house. She has gained fifteen pounds in weight and looks years younger. She says she never felt better in her life."
"Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere."

The entire stock of Boys' Overcoats and Suits are being sold this week at BISHOP'S for prices that do not cover the cost of the making.

Successor to Tamerlane.

THE KHAN OF KHIVA IN SORRY PLIGHT.

MOSCOW, (Associated Press).—Bobbed, ragged, starving and forgotten in the big concentration camp of Pokrowsky, a few miles distant from this city, is the fate of the Hevdar, Khan of Khiva, who, until a few months ago, was one of the richest of the Mohammedan rulers of Central Asia. As he is nearly 80 years old, he may die there. Hevdar, successor to Tamerlane the Great, and Genghis Khan, who ruled from China to Germany in the Middle Ages, is a pureblooded Uzbek Turk to whom the Sultan of Turkey is a mere modern upstart. He has been brought to his present plight through the revolution engineered by the Moscow Soviet in Russia. Hevdar, aided by Enver Pasha, recently denounced by Mustapha Kemal Pasha as the arch-traitor of Turkey. The treatment of the Khan of Khiva, not yet widely known by people of the Mohammedan world, is expected in time to widen the rift that has long threatened between the Russian-Soviet and the Mohammedans of India and the old Turkish dominions. The Russians have long been hated for their conquest of Khiva, Bokhara and the rest of the territory known for the past 60 years as Russian Turkestan.

Fought For Two Hundred Years.

For two centuries the Russians tried in vain to conquer these warlike people and only in 1873 was Khiva humbled and its Khans made subject princes of Russia. But they retained their religious influence and their vast wealth and when they came to the Russian Imperial court at Petrograd, their presents in gold and jewels surpassed easily the treasures of that gorgeous court. For the past two years the Soviet influence has been slowly tightening its hold on old Rus-slan Turkestan, under General Doutoff aided by 100,000 German war prisoners. First, a Soviet revolutionary committee was formed at Tashkent, after the approved Bolshevik manner, and later at Bokhara, and finally at Khiva. These committees in turn gave way to the formation of Soviet republics, as in Baku and Tiflis, at the point of the Red army's bayonet. The Emir of Bokhara was reduced to a figurehead, though still held as a possible religious successor to the Sultan of Turkey. Hevdar was unseated in his rule by the new order but when his advisers showed him how the palace walls were falling about him, he got together the choicest of his inherited jewels, his favorite wives, a large stock of his royal robes, together with 400 pounds, avoirdupois, of solid gold, ordered a train at Bokhara and started overland to reach it. At the depot in Bokhara, the Cheka, or secret police, swooped down upon him, robbed him of his wives, his jewels and gold, and made him prisoner, together with his 20-year-old son and heir apparent. Both were put aboard the train, under heavy guard, and sent to Moscow, to the old convent prison of Pokrowsky, where they have since been.

Great Ruler in Exile.

With heavy white beard, the Khan maintains his proud bearing and still looks the part of a great ruler in exile, silent and uncomplaining, after the manner of his people, he sometimes attends the concerts organized for the prisoners. In answer to his request the Soviet Khivis Mission for food, he was sent exactly one pound of bread. "It is the will of Allah," said the Khan when the bread came. His son has fared somewhat better. He does odd jobs, such as scrubbing floors, for the more fortunate prisoners whose friends send them food, and in this way keeps soul and body together.

HIS DIARY.

January 26th.—Up very betimes, and a great storm of wind and snow, whereby, all trains must needs stop moving. The weather, too, being most bitter cold, and all saying that yesterday was the coldest day ever known this winter. The temperature did fall to 10 degrees below zero, and all complain of the dearthness of coals. The proclamation is this day come out of the election of the Mayor and Councillors, and of the further prorogation of the Parliament. At noon, home, and there find my wife taking her singing lessons which I do not like at all, but was angry a bit, but have this content, that I do think she will come to sing pretty well, and to trill in time, which pleases me well. And, indeed, if she but sings as well as she does talk, then will she be of most marvellous voice. After lunch, to the Club, there to write some letters, and to play billiards. At night to the Prince's Rink, there the see the Feildans and Terra Novas to play at hockey, but the game not to my liking, nor is hockey near like it was in former years. Comes Sprague, and to tell me how he is vexed with Sarah, his cookmaid, who is a good drudging servant in everything else, and pleases him, but that she will be drunk and hath been so last night, and all this day, that she could not make clean the house. We to enjoy some good port, that it was my luck to possess, and to smoke most excellent cigars.

Chess Champion Chequed.

London.—A check for £250 was presented to Joseph H. Blackburne, the "grand old man" of British chess, on his 50th birthday. Among those who have subscribed were Capablanca, the world's champion chess player, A. Bonar Law and the Earl of Perth. Blackburne has played chess in all parts of the world and against all the famous players. He already has an annuity of £100 provided by chess enthusiasts.

Religious Emotions

AMONG SCOTCH FISHERMEN.

Glasgow.—A religious wave is now sweeping over the fishing villages on the East coast of Scotland. Believing that the failure of the herring fishing season is a visitation for unrighteous living, the fishermen are parading the highways singing hymns and testifying in other ways to their religious fervor. There is scarcely a fishing village which is not affected.

Norwegian Steamer Abandoned.

Messrs. Bowring Bros. Lloyd's agents, received word during the week that the Norwegian steamer Mod had been abandoned several hundred miles off this coast, and that the crew were taken off by a passing steamer. The Mod was practically a new ship of 5,000 tons, and was bound to an American port.
