Local Market London, Saturday, Nov. 4.

The market the morning was not the most agreeable place in the city, but even with mud beneath and just enough rain to be nasty, the farmers seemed to be content. Purchasers were plentiful and prices seemingly were not high for the purchasers, nor too low for profit, thus producing satisfaction on both sides. The market was by no means a large one, and in most lines the supply was not so great as to be excessive. There was an abundance, however, on the meat market, and business was not brisk.

On the whole, it was a representative market, on which previous quotations

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.-Wheat fell again today under the influence of accumulated stocks, and December closed with a loss of ½c to %c. December corn was ½c to ½c lower, and oats decreased ½c. Provisions were strong, and closed unchanged to 10c to 12½c nigher. Chicago received 133 cars, 23 of which graded contract. Minneapolis and Dubyth grot 718 loans, compared and Duluth got 718 bars, compared with 843 the same day last week and 1,042 cars a year ago. Total western primary receipts were 745,000 bushels, against 1,444,000 bushels last year. Atagainst 1,444,000 bushels last year. At-lantic clearances in wheat and flour equalled 226,000 bushels. Argentine shipments of wheat during the week 842,000 bushels, against 1,072,000 bush-els a week ago, and none the corre-sponding week last year. The crop-outlook in that country was still pronounced excellent, with the indica-tions that fully 80,000,000 bushels will be available from this season yet for export.

Message Sent to the London Times Showing Our Facility for Raising a Contingent.

St. John, Nov. 4.-At a supper of the members of St. Andrew's Society, Judge Forbes, after thanking the mem-bers for re-electing him president, re-ferred to the recent Presbyterian gathering at Washington, at which was a Presbyterian divine, a Boer, who was filled with the idea of justice of the cause for which his countrymen are now fighting. Judge Forbes also made a suggestion in reference to the tactics that should be employed in fighting the Boers, and these suggestions led to the followind dispatch being sent to the London Times:

"Greatest enthusiasm and loyalty exists throughout Canada in the present emergency. Would suggest that a rough rider contingent be immediately raised, drafted largely from our Northwest mounted police and western cow-boys, many of whom have had experience in fighting our western Indians. These men would be extremely valuable against the Boers, as they are dead shots and skilled in just the fighting and skirmishing carried on by them. From Winnipeg to England, via Halifax, is but nine days, and such a contingent could be raised and equipped in an incredibly short time. Lord Wolsley's very favorable experience with the French-Canadian voyageurs, whom he employed as boatmen on the Nile in the Egyptian campaign, and concerning whom he speaks very high-ly, should be remembered as an il-lustration of the high value of special men for a special class of service. #### Windows Which Are Works of Art.

The windows of Grafton & Co, the enterprising Dundas street clothing firm, present today one of the most pleasing sights in the city. The charming combination of colors and the beauty and symmetry of design is a striking illustration of the value of art applied to commerce.

These windows are a credit to the firm and to the enterprise of London merchants. Even in this city, which is noted for the beauty of its shop-fronts, Grafton & Co's windows attract the attention of the most casual passerby.

The firm secured the services of tion mauve and orange are the pre-vailing shades, while Nile green, orange and white are beautifully blended in the west window. It is in the drapery, the arrangement of mirrors, flowers, bunting, etc., in the color scheme generally that the art of window dressers is manifest, but in the goods displayed-the clothing for children, boys and men-is revealed an art that is even more interesting. garments are not only perfect fitting, they consist of the finest quality of cloth, and are neatly and durably made and the prices are surprisingly low. Manager Hickey's close attention to business, and the excellent reputation of the firm's goods account for the steady increase in the trade at the London branch.

Worms cause feverishness, moaning I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.
