Ald, Cooper, who occupied the chair in the abbut the recommendation carried. The chief matter under discussion arose over the action of some residents of the city in building their houses or verandas out over the public highway. The city engineer explained that he had consulted the solicitor and had found that the board of works had the power to instruct the city engineer to order the removal of the structures. He said that the chief complaints were against a new veranda which had been put up by a person on the corner of Waterloo and Dundas streets. In this case he had warned the builder, but the erection had gone on. He thought some action should be taken to stop the practice of building over the public street, and the idea was agreed with by the board except that it was decided to lay the matter over for one meet-It was feared that complications might arise by the ordering of the

Webb Was Weary of Life and Tried to Cut Loose.

Was Found on Mount Brydges Farm Came From Pennsylvania.

"Tired of life" was Albert Marshall Webb's reason for attempting to take his own life yesterday afternoon. Today he lies at Victoria Hospital in this city with good chances of recovery. He was brought in from Mount Brydes last night by County Constables Fisher and McIntyre, having been found out there on the farm of Mr. Dugald McBain in what was considered a dying state, he having bled considerably. The unfortunate man had stabbed himself three times with a jackknife. The blade, which was two and a half inches in length, had been threat into his side in two had been thrust into his side in two places and into his stomach, This happened about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and shortly after he was found by Mr. McBain. and Dr. Woods, of Mount Brydges, was called in. He and advised his being taken to the city hospital. The man had only worked for Mr. McBain one day, having come from the other side, and as he was a stranger in the district it was decided send for County Constable Fisher, of Mount Brydges, and Constable Mc-Intyre, of Komoka, who have been rounding up tramps since the Whalen murder. These men brought Webb to The would-be suicide stated that he was tired of life, and that he wanted to die. He was 47 years of age, was a painter by trade, and came from Stony Forks, Pa. He is a widower, and has one son living in the United States. He had on him when found a ticket from Harrisburg to London, dated July 6.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that he would probably recover and was doing very well.
