A DIABOLICAL OUTRAGE.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP THE GREAT LONDON BRIDGE.

Terrific Explosion - The Structure Escapes Injury—The Case Shrouded in Mystery—Theories as to the Cause, to be made public, but her matrimonial London, Dec. 13.-A terrible concussion startled the city at 5.40 o'clock this evening. It proved to be the result of an attempt to blow up London bridge. The effort resulted in a failure, and the structure was uninjured. Had the outrage been carefully planned the result must have been appalling. London bridge is known to be the most thronged thoroughfare in the with difficulty kept moving by policemen stationed within a few yards of each other. and the sidewalks are proportionately crowded for eighteen hours out of the twenty four. The police scoured the river for five miles above and as far below the bridge without finding any clue to the perpetrator of the attempt, and all hope has practic. ally been abandoned of any immediate discovery of the dynamiters. Experts from Scotland Yard estimate that while the damage .done was slight, at least fifty pounds of dynamite must have been used to cause an explosion so great as to mash windows on both sides of the river and put out gas for a space of at least a quarsimultaneously from each side of the bridge, showing the fuse had been nicely bridge, showing the fuse had been interly timed to cause the explosion when half way beneath the bridge. A bootblack relates his experience of the explosion as follows: I was cleaning a gentleman's boots when suddenly I felt the earth shake about me. Immediately afterward there was a terrific explosion, and I was stunned.

When I recovered consciousness the gentleman had disappeared.

London, Dec. 14.—A careful inspection of London bridge was made to-day, and it was found that no structural injury whatis paralyzing the action of the police, who are even unable to tell the nature of the explosives used. The explosion occurred nearer the Surrey end of the bridge than at first supposed, and yet most of the houses damaged were on the Middlesex stitution and bylaws were adopted and the the air or on striking the water.

The police this afternoon learned that a piece of charred sacking about a foot and a half square had been found on one of the buttresses, and are now of the opinion exbuttresses, and are now of the opinion explosive was placed there. They attribute the smallness of the damage to the extraordinary air currents beneath the span. No arrests have been made.

It is noteworthy that Saturday was the anniversary of the Clerkenwell explosion. Several horses drawing heavy loads were thrown to the ground. Engine drivers sitting in a shed in Cannon street were blown from their seats. A number of deblown from their seats. A number of de-tectives recently withdrawn from special duty have been ordered to return to Lon-

The Observer says: The explosion was not attended by loss of life, yet it is obvious the perpetrators must have anticipated the possibility of a number of innocent human beings being subjected to a sudden and cruel death. The crime therefore partakes of the character of murder. It is difficult to conceive what possible end or purpose the authors of such an outrage hope to attain. The utter absence of co-relation between the cause and effect mainly confirms the theory that these crimes are of Hibernian origin.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—A bloody tragedy occurred last night at th insane hospital in the state penitentiary. John Mardn, a convict who had been considered harmlessly insane, arose, and so-curing a heavy iron poker went into an adjoining room where four fellow patients were sleeping. He dealt one Charles Sig-nor three terrible blows over the head, breaking the skull. He then struck Lo breaking the skull. He then struck Louis Hoelsehen five times, fracturing the skull. Passing quickly to an adjoining ward he attacked Audrew Allison (colored), another sleeper, cutting his head and face and severing an artery in the head. At this juncture a patient grappled with the maniac. The guard's attention was attracted and Mason was overpowered and disarmed. Signor and Hoelschen cannot recover.

ing the abolition of exemptions, which was held in St. Lawrence hall Saturday night, were the scanty audience and the crowded platform. On the latter were to be seen others.

Ex Ald. Hallam put matters in motion in his usual bustling, energetic way by a long speech, in which he touched on what had been done in the way of abolition both in England and Canada. He favored the exemption of churches.

Ex-Ald. Ryan then advanced to where the footlights would have been, and with as his firm opinion that churches should be taxed like everything else. He had no deubt the taxing would be compensated by increased grants. He characterized exempting as absolutely absurd and ridiculous. We taxed the widow and not the parson, Churches should be taxed on their market value. He was in favor of a permissive bill. He thought charitable institutions should be exempted.

Rev. Dr. Wild spoke as easily on the platform as he does in the pulpit, only with less gesticulation. He did not think total abolition could be accomplished all at once. He expected a compromise first. Going further than the previous speaker, the doctor thought even benevolent institutions should be taxed, certainly churches.

Ald Moore ought to have been a parson. His advocacy of the claims of religion in general and of the right of churches to be exempted would have been in excellent taste if St. Lawrence hall had been a Bethel chapel or an Ebenezer meeting room. He thought all incomes should be taxed, but churches or charities, Oh! dear no. To tax them would be to take your money out of one breeches pocket and put it is that the attent. no. To tax them would be to take your money out of one breeches pocket and put it into the other. The city is enhanced in value by its churches. Our Sundays are the best kept in the world because of churches. And so on.

His namesake, T. Moor, argued that just because churches are a blessing they should not be treated like paupers. If there were any exemptions it was the workingman who should be exempted.

David Blain showed the speakers and their audience that the anti-exemption association had framed their constitution on purpose to avoid the possibility of differpurpose to avoid the possibility of differences of opinion on little items.

A. W. Wright thought he was a poor christian who could not pay his share of taxes. Did not their founder render unto Cosar the things that were Cosar's?

It was then moved by Mr. Hallam and seconded by Mr. Ryan that this meeting was in favor of the total abolition of examplings from taxation, and that the 6th emptions from taxation, and that the 6th clause of the assessment act should be amended to bring this about. Carried

Ald. Moore moved, seconded by exAld. Hall, that in the opinion of this meeting this subject should be dealt with by city councils amenable to the will of the people. After several explanations by the mayor this was declared lost.
