-Some time ago we published an account of the arrest of Hugo Schenk, who is beclass pre-judices. He would meet the girls by appointment, and, after paying court to them for a few days or weeks, induce them to draw their money out of the bank, and, so provided, accompany him on a journey to get married. Hugo Schenk would get married. Hugo Schenk would get married. Hugo Schenk would get married at some romantic spot, where he had arranged for his accomplices to meet him, and he in readiness, and together they would strangle or shoot the girl, secure her property, conceal her body and return quickly to town, as if nothing had happened, to plan fresh murders and to carry out their general business of killing. At one time the house of Schenk had no fewer than fifty girls on their books, with all of whom Hugo corresponded in love-like terms, while the intimacy which was to lead to their graves, ripened. After over twenty women had been killed, they got too bold in their operations, and were discovered on presenting at the Post Olice Savings Bank, the book of a woman just and the second the property of the salks of this corn are excellent to feed to the pigs during

It is curious that the progress of Scotland in wealth and population during the past thirty years has been greater than that of any other country including even the United States. In 1841 the population of Scotland was about two millions and a half, it is now nearly four millions with that of Ireland has decreased from upwards of eight millions to about five. The average wealth per inhabitant of Scotland in 1841 was £81; it is now £277. In Ireland the increase has been from £38 to £83. The history of Europe shows no parallel to this increase in Scotland.
