Rt. Rev. Mgr. EVERY METHODIST

HEART SORROWING

Rev. Dr. Briggs said last night that Methodism the wide world over was bowed down with grief over the calam-ity which had befallen the Saivatioh Army, with whose founder and work they were so closely allied. Every Methodist heart was sorrow-ing and beating in sympathy for the bereaved, and with admiration for the courage and fidelity of those who had perished in this great disaster.

Triends," declared the bishop. "Once more there is brought home with a thousand-fold emphasis, the force of these words! Teach us to number our days that we may prepare our hearts with wisdoms. In the midst of life we are in death. There is an added emphasis to the words of the Eternal Christ: Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh." Prominent among His titles was that of Comforter, and the bishop voiced the prayer that those who had been so sadly bereaved would receive the comfort of the Father. Fatherhood of God. Taking his text from Romans viii. 14. "As many as are led of the spirit of God, they are the sons of God.' the bishop pointed out in his sermon the supreme idea of the fatherhood of God. In the words of the text, there was a proclamation of free pardon and salvation to all who would believe th Christ Jesus; it was a proclamation of the fatherhood of God, and of the son-ship of man; it was the eminency of God in mankind.

God in mankind. Out of this text there springs a sense of the spiritual dignity which is ours as the sons of God. We are caught up into heavenly places when we pray "Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." The duty of mankind is to proclaim to heathen nations that the Lord is King, that He is the loving Father of all."

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE Speech Made From London Stage Before the Final Curtain.

tives of Miss Isabel Stage had the sym-pathy of all. Rev. J. A. Stewart, pastor of Kew Beach Presbyterian Church, spoke with deep feeling at both services on the sad news that their young friend had gone down with the ship. The thought of such young lives as hers so suddenly and in such a tragic manner being cut off was appalling, and the sorrow entailed could only be assuaged by divine consolation. As a member of the congregation and Sunday school, their young friend was dearly beloved and her memory would be shared for many years to come. As a a memorial hymn, J. Marks sang the solo, "Asleep With fesus." Canadian Associated Press Cable. LONDON, May 31. - Sir Herbert Tree paid a strikingly touching tribute to the late Laurence Irving's death at the close of last ight's performance at His Majesty's Theatre. "We acters" he said. "were proud of laving in life, and no less proud of hi min death. There was always something fateful about his personality, and one some-how feels his end is in tragic harmeny with his being. Irving was an ideal-ist, and was fearless of standing by his ideals in any company, which is saying much of any man. As an actor he had already attained to great height, his most hatalis hehievement being perhaps his most ractif in Typhoon. His work like ide lata himself, was always original?
