

Supplementary Note

Piano Tuning Since the foregoing was written an important change has been made in the Piano Tuning Department by the engagement of a resident Instructor. This places every pupil in that branch under the eye of the teacher during the former's daily practice, and gives him a correspondingly increased number of lessons. The Instructor is also a highly qualified repairer, and can thus impart to his pupils all the information in that very important part of their future business they will be able to turn to good account.

Typewriting This is a new feature in our course of instruction, and is already to be found in most well-organized schools for the Blind. It supplies the pupils with a means of correspondence very superior to the pencil and grooved card. It has even enabled the Blind expert to act as a copyist or amanuensis, although in this direction the opportunities for profitable employment must be limited.

Circulating Library for the Blind The establishment of a Circulating Library for the Blind in connection with the Institution has been a great boon to the Blind of the Province. It is available by all blind persons within provincial limits. The books are carried to and fro by the mails without charge. They are in type suited to the conditions of all classes of blind readers. Application to be placed on the list of borrowers should be addressed to the Principal of the Institution.
