But a college course for women. But a college course means four years of arduous mentall training, and much has been said and written to discourage the sending of girls to college.

But in the discussion of such questions as the advisability of sending girls to college, the effect of its arduous training upon them mentally and physically, the effect of co-education, etc., few take part who speak with that authority which experience alone gives. It is, therefore, with keen interest that one reads what the president Nordica's High C.

The Parade March.

At the conclusion of the sham battle a parade march followed past the Emperors, Francis Joseph thanking the officers commanding for the impressive spectacle witnessed, and according them high praise, Lunch was served at the officers' casino of the Field Artillery Instruction School.

of the Field Artillery Instruction School.

William an Austrian Field Marshal.

Emperor William's appointment as Austrian Field Marshal-General pleases him greatly, the more so because it is a grade seldom awarded, and none has existed in the Austrian army since the death of Arch Duke Albrecht in 1895. The military rank thus conferred on Emperor William is higher than his own in the German army. Besides this courtesy the Austrian Emperor also gave Emperor William a miniature portrait of himself, enclosed in a costly diamond-studded frame, and autographed with the motto, "Semper Idem" (always the same). Emperor Francis Joseph also presented the German Empress and her whole family with fine gifts. The visiting Emperor conferred the grand cross of the Stephan Order on Count von Buelow, the German Minister of Foreign Affairs. Before Emperor Francis Joseph leaves a rain of orders will descend from Berlin, for the value in money alone of the decorations which the Austrian Emperor took along is $127,500.

Austrian Emperor in Berlin.

After his return to Herlin Emperor Francis Joseph paid a number of visits. Later, between 4 and 5 o'clock he drove to the barracks of the Emperor Francis regiment, which is under his special patronage and which is considered one of the crack regiments of Germany. The barracks were splendidly ornamented and decorated. The main gate showed a triumphal arch in the centre of which was a large Austrian imperial crown and beneath it, on crimson velbet, the monogram of the regiment. Beside it were masts bearing the Austrian and Hungarian flags entwined with evergreens. The building itself also showed appropriate floral decorations and German and Ausfrian eagles were everywhere displayed as symbols. The regiment received Emperor Francis Joseph, who was accompanied by Emperor William, in parade form, drawn up under the command of Lieut. Col. Von Raveh. At 6 o'clock a banquet was served at the regimental casino for 125 persons.

In the earlief hours of the afternoon Emperor Francis Joseph also received delegations from the Austrian clubs of Berlin, with whom he conversed in the most affable manner, in some cases enquiring about small personal matters.

Court Festivities,

Everything during the last few days was driven into the background by the court festivities, However, there were a number of interesting things outside that need comment. Emperor William's congratulatory telegram to the President of Brazil is here interpreted as being intended as a definite answer to the insinuations imputing to Germany, and such as discassed are floating around in the Merselber manner. In Germany the will will be highly appreciated if German settlements in the United States or Brazil in contention, and affection for the Fatherland, Acquired United States or Brazilian citizenship by our former countrymen will, however, never be interfered with on Germany's part.
