Ninety Per Cent. of Big Meeting in North Toronto Are Strongly Against Self-Determination Movement, But Noisy Minority Heckles the Speakers—Ex-Ald. Ball and Others Present Strong Arguments Against Secession.

One of the most exciting meetings of the campaign so far was that held last night in the old town hall in North Toronto, when secession was the big issue. The meeting had been called by the anti-secessionists, but two speakers from the opposition were given a chance to address the meeting. They succeeded in getting a hearing only part of the time. It was plain that ninety per cent. of the audience—and the hall was packed solid to the door—was anti-secessionist, and the star arguments of the self-determination faction failed to make an impression. A corner of the meeting had been packed by the secessionists, and they had apparently planned to take charge of it. They were short on lung capacity.

Ex-Mayor Brown, the chairman, explaining that the meeting had been called expressly for the purpose of discussing secession, and it had been thought if one candidate was allowed to speak, there might be many, and so it had been decided that no candidates should speak at all.

McBride Persisted. It was twelve o'clock before Chairman Brown concluded his program, and he then announced that the meeting was adjourned. Candidate Sam McBride, however, had arrived about eleven o'clock and was waiting patiently for a chance to speak, as well as candidates for the board of control, Messrs. Gibbons and Hiltz. Controller Cameron had gone without saying a word. Half of the audience had left, but Mr. McBride mounted the platform and succeeded in inducing the others to tarry.

In opening the meeting, ex-Mayor E. J. Brown explained the reasons why he had been called upon to give the address. He said that the citizens of that end of the city should not vote for secession. As a member of the law for several years, he felt it would be a grave mistake for that part formerly known as the town of York. If they ever wanted to get a street car to York Mills line and be able to reach the southerly, the easterly, or the westerly section with a single fare, it would only be done by North Toronto seceding.

PRINCIPLE AT STAKE.

In this regard it is pointed out here that the cancellation of the tax was due to repeated representations from business interests generally that the tax was injuring trade. The further point is taken that, following a change in methods of taxation, it is not usual to remit taxes already paid. Were the principle of remitting taxes or duties generally admitted, it is stated, the consequence following a tariff revision might be very serious.
