DO YOU KNOW— that the beer sold in Ontario previous to prohibition ranged up to over 7% alcoholic content by weight measure, whilst the "Beer of the Ballot"—the beer for which you are asked to vote October 20th—has a strength of but 2.51%?

DO YOU KNOW— that such well-known beers manufactured in the United States as Blue Ribbon, Budweiser and Schiltz—always spoken of as "very light non-intoxicating beers"—ranged up to 4.19%—sixty per cent. stronger than the "Beer of the Ballot"—the beer for which you are asked to vote October 20th?

DO YOU KNOW—
that in Maine, where prohibition has been in force over sixty years, the courts have held that beer of 3% alcoholic strength, was non-intoxicating—and any beer of under 3% strength was permitted to be sold as freely as ginger ale?

DO YOU KNOW—
that in Sweden, Norway and Denmark—as a result of the findings of Government commissions appointed to determine what was an intoxicating liquor—beer of practically the same strength as asked for in the coming Referendum is regarded as non-intoxicating and is sold everywhere, by anybody, without license, and without paying a Government tax?

NOTICE OF QUESTIONS TO ASK IN COMMONS

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—O. Turgeon (Gloucester) has given notice that he will ask in the commons on Tuesday as to the total cost of the Guelph No. 10 inquiry. H. A. Mackie (Edmonton), has a question asking if the resolution from parliament has resulted in no recognition being given to officers who served in Canada throughout the war with credit and distinction.

The most interesting item of Friday night was the nomination for seat "B" in Northeast Toronto, of Mrs. J. W. Bundy, president of the Toronto Women's Liberal Association. She is a capital speaker, an exceptionally well informed woman, and will give Capt. Joe Thompson and Kelly Evans a real good fight. Dr. Cody seems pretty well assured of a walkover for seat "A." It was also whispered yesterday that Hon. W. D. McPherson will likely have a woman opponent.

ELECTION NOTES

Sir William Hearst wound up his week in the east with a meeting at Belleville. The premier has made some seven or eight speeches since he opened out in Peterboro last Monday, and during the last day or two has found it extremely difficult to find any new material. Still as he moves along from town to town his audiences are of a constantly changing character, and only the newspaper men who follow him up know much about the sameness of his addresses. His task is, of course, an arduous one, and his position will be readily appreciated by those who know the political game. Sir William continues to stand upon his platform records, and the timber is expected to hold out for the remainder of the time to elapse before the people themselves begin to speak.

It has been said that Kelly Evans is the only Whitney Conservative standing at the following election. That is not strictly correct, as we are frequently reminded by Sir William Hearst that he is following in the footsteps of Sir James, particularly with reference to the great temperance issue. That, of course, is a people need no reminding of the general difference between the two men. Sir William can with all due respect be characterized as a mere political pigmy as compared with Sir James. The late premier was a man with a determination, which it was never safe to attempt to daunt, and everybody knew that he was the "boss." Sir William Hearst will never quite measure up to "J. P."

To be a little reminiscent it may be said that Sir James Whitney took a bold command when he formed his first cabinet in February, 1905, just after he had "rascals out," as he so affectionately designated the Ross regime. He had W. J. Hanna as secretary and registrar, and it used to be said with more truth than poetry that, outside of James Hanna was the only working man of the ministry. There were Foy, Matheson, Pyne, Reaume and Monteth, and it was not a few of these who gave rise to the now famous expression of the "seven sleepers." Foy and Matheson have joined a greater majority, Reaume and Monteth were beaten at the poll, and Dr. Pyne "otherwise provided for." Sir Adam Beck, who was then minister without portfolio, is the only survivor now in political life, and he is still going very strong.

The workmen's compensation act of the Ontario government will not soon be able, so to speak, to recognize its own father. Sir William Hearst, in almost every speech he makes, takes credit for the measure. At some time was in undisputed possession of the paternality. At Meaford on Thursday night, Hon. I. B. Lucas came out boldly and claimed the legislation as his own. Then, to crown all, Thomas Crawford, of "shall cattle be dehorned?" fame, accepts the responsibility. There is still room for a few more claimants.

At Meaford, on Thursday, too, the Hon. I. B. Lucas gave the attorney-general of this fair province a testimonial couched in such glowing and anything but modest terms that if he were applying for a position would cause his prospective employer to be somewhat suspicious. His trumpeter is certainly not dead.

Mr. Lucas also took unto himself the credit for all the Hydro-Electric and rural telephone legislation. With reference to his $4,000 a year Hydro-Electric Commission position somebody has been twitting him with receiving such a large sum from the government in addition to his little $6,000 as attorney-general, coupled with his seasonal indemnity. But "I. B." was soon able to confound his critics, declaring as he did that he did not receive anything from the government for his services on the commission. "I get it," he dramatically exclaimed, "from the city of Toronto and other municipalities." The public pay the same, but "the little country lawyer" seemed really to imagine that he had scored at the expense of his critics!

Mr. Lucas has really got cold feet over his chances in Centre Grey. He has the labor faction, no small element up against him, the Liberals love him not, many of his old party adherents have given him the cold shoulder, and the farmers have their own farm-hoaxer as his election opponent. Will he have to carry out his threat and quit politics? He is nursing his constituency just now as tho it were a sick child, and has been obliged to call in Dr. Cody to administer a little tonic.

All the probable election starters will be in the field on Monday night, and they will be a mixed lot at the—Conservatives, Liberal-Conservatives, Labor, U.F.O., Independents.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble. Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach, accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion." Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal function of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary laxatives which only have a neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Blaud's Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and flat right out of your body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation, and there is no sourness or flatulence.

Blaud's Magnesia (in powder or tablet form)—never liquid or milk—is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take, the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

and it is pretty safe to say now, at least a couple of women. "The result is uncertain" is the safest and surest prophecy to indulge in, Hon. I. B. Lucas has ventured the remark that the uncertainty is attributable to the fact that women will vote for the first time. It would have been most un-gallant for "I. B." to say that were it not for the apology he made that "no joke was intended." He really did not mean that women were uncertain creatures, but that it was their coming in at this election that is uncertain is the safest and sanest. He just saved himself.

Testimonials were flying around at Meaford. Dr. Cody followed up the attorney-general's laudation of himself (Mr. Lucas) by giving two unsolicited good characters to the attorney-general and Sir William Hearst. Dr. Cody confessed he was "a novice in these things" and no doubt there will be many people unacquainted with this particular respect.

The resolute attempts of certain officials to represent the Jewish ceremony of "Kiddush" as a sacrament demanding the use of wine or stronger drink have degenerated, into sheer knavery. The Jewish encyclopedia ought to be a good authority on definitions of Jewish ceremonies and prayers.

The encyclopedia says of "Kiddush": "Under an old custom recognized by the Mishnah, the Sabbath and festivals are sanctified in another and impressive way—over a glass of wine before the evening meal, even the benediction has already been recited in the prayer, and the drinking of the wine. It is used by thousands of people, constituting the ceremony of "Kiddush," which husband, wife and children and dependents take part in all together."

This makes it clear that "Kiddush" is a domestic custom; but it is for the dignified use of the custom that conscientious Jews are themselves concerned. Abuse appears to have grown up in northern European nations where wine is not the social drink of the country. The encyclopedia continues:

"Altho the Talmud declares strong drink improper for the 'Kiddush,' such drink of necessity takes the place of wine to a great extent in northeastern Europe. It is regarded, however, as more dignified, where wine cannot be had, to pronounce the 'Kiddush' over the bread than to substitute beer or brandy. At the beginning of the Sabbath two whole loaves of bread are laid down in memory of the double measure of manna that was gathered on Friday with a white cloth under them."

In face of this it is not to be wondered at that self-respecting and religion-respecting Jews feel humiliated over the invocation of their customs for the furtherance of political ends in parts of Toronto.

Say Chiclets!

When you get your change at the restaurant counter—
—at the drug store or grocer's
—at the cigar store or fruit store, hand back the odd nickel and get a yellow-and-gold packet of ten Chiclets.

Between your teeth break the seal of candy-coating and enjoy the invigorating peppermint flavor. Note how it refreshes you, sweetens your mouth, drives away thirst. Chiclets—dainty in size and shape—are gum in its most popular form—"Really Delightful."

In packets, ten for 5c. Everywhere. And most stores carry the generous-size "Week-End" packet, 25c.
