CANADA AND THE STATES

Hon. Mr. Fielding informed parliament yesterday that the Canadian government would take no action in regard to the United States tariff until the United States government had marked out its course. In other words, Canada is not worried over this matter. If the United States congress chooses to enter upon a tariff war, Canada will look over the situation and act without panic and without sacrifice of its material interests. This country does not live by favor of its neighbor, and if its neighbor chooses to obstruct trade between the two countries it cannot be helped. The loss will not be all on one side. The attitude of Canada is highly commendable itself to the New York Journal of Commerce. That influential paper says:—

"The markets of the United States would be of much more value to Canada than those of Europe on the same terms, and obstructing the way to them is a serious matter. But it is no more serious for Canada than for the United States, to which the Canadian markets would also be of more value in proportion to their extent than more remote ones. The policy which our congress has initiated is a foolish and short-sighted one, and is calculated to cause irritation and disturbance of trade relations with other countries to our own hurt, but it will be wise for other countries not to get out of temper over it. Canada seems to be taking a sensible view. It would like to trade with this country on amicable and profitable terms, but if we are going to be mean about it it cannot be helped, and he will look for markets elsewhere, and make the best of the situation. If she finds occasion for legislation in the matter it will be with a view to results in the interests of Canada, regardless of the United States. If this temper is displayed all around, the matter will work out its results in a peaceful manner, and the United States will find that the rest of the world is no more dependent upon it than it is dependent upon the rest of the world. It will find it is playing a losing game and change its stupid tactics."

THE FACTION FIGHT

The Toronto Telegram, which has been fierce in its denunciation of Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster, because of their attitude regarding the navy, is even more violent in its attack upon Mr. F. D. Monk. We quote:—

"French-speaking Conservatives in the Quebec manifestations has posed as being less British than Laurier and far more Clerical. Ontario Conservatives should read the speech of F. D. Monk, M. P. That speech declares for a policy of cold and selfish isolation from the life or death of the British Empire. The speaker, Mr. Monk, is not merely a leader of the Conservative party. He has been the leader of the Borden Opposition and the director of its tactics. Was it not to please Mr. Monk that the party fell down on the school question in 1905? Was it not to please Mr. Monk that the party wobbled itself into the vacancy of the Laurier-Borden resolution of 1906? How many more sacrifices must the English-speaking Conservatives of Canada make, how many more ideals must they abandon in order to retain their fellowship with F. D. Monk, M. P.? And what has that fellowship been worth either in votes or glory to the Conservative party of Canada?"

This hysterical appeal to Ontario Conservatives to rise up against their fellows in Quebec will not lessen the troubles of Mr. Borden. An Ottawa despatch to the Telegram gives this additional information:—

"The revolt of F. D. Monk against the Laurier-Borden naval policy, though it was expected in view of the attitude of the measure Conservative press in Quebec, is the talk of the capital today. It places the Quebec wing of the party in direct antagonism to the party in the west and in Ontario, and creates a situation which may lead to a serious schism in the ranks. There are members of the Conservative party here in Ottawa who say that it would be a good thing if the party were to divorce itself entirely from Quebec and pay its debt of loyalty to the cause, to be recovered later on when Quebec has come to its senses. It is certain that Monk will be followed by Blonfin of Champlain, Nantel of Terrebonne, and Paquet of

FOR THE LADIES

A writer in the Victoria Colonist says:—The convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Canada did well when it refused to pass a resolution condemning bridge whist. There are enough of real evils in this world, to fight without manufacturing sins. Because a number of foolish women waste time over cards that should be devoted to the care of their families, and others who are grasping and selfish make of it a means of gain, it does not follow that the game in itself is wrong. The lady who declared that good women play bridge was right. No wise purpose is served by confounding the use and the abuse of a thing, whatever it may be."

The Times has already confessed an utter ignorance of the merits or demerits of bridge whist. It may be an angelic pastime or a snare of the devil for all this journal knows about it. But suppose a brewer or saloon keeper took the argument of the Colonist writer and inserted "liquor drinking" in place of "bridge whist." Thus:—

"The convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Canada did well when it refused to pass a resolution condemning liquor drinking. There are enough of real evils in the world to fight without manufacturing sins. Because a number of foolish women (or men) waste time over liquor that should be devoted to the care of their families, and others who are grasping and selfish, (the bad saloon keepers) make of it a means of gain, it does not follow that the drink habit itself is wrong. The lady who declared that good women drink liquor was right. No wise purpose is served by confounding the use and the abuse of a thing, whatever it may be."

Now what would the Colonist writer say in reply to this version of the argument? By asserting that much was charged to capital account which should have been charged to operating expenses, the Standard greatly increases the I. C. R. deficit. The public, however, will await the discussion in parliament before tearing up the rails.

The Standard has discovered that the Conservative victory in North Essex yesterday is "a reminder to the Premier and his followers that there is a limit beyond which even their own party friends will not endorse them and their works." It is rather odd if this be true that a Liberal should have been elected in West Middlesex on the previous day by an increased majority. The truth is that in North Essex there is a local dispute of large proportions over a natural gas company, and the Liberal candidate was on the unpopular side. The local issue dominated the minds of the electors, and he was defeated.

A horrible story comes from Cairo, Illinois, that a woman pulled the rope which lynched a negro who was suspected of murdering a woman. The story of the pursuit and lynching of a man who had not yet been tried or proven guilty is such as might be told of a tribe of savages. The bloodlust of the mob was further glutted by the lynching of a white man, suspected of being the negro's accomplice. It is dreadful enough when men are carried off their feet by vengeful passion, but when women so far forget their womanhood as to join in such work one is led to ask whether a state of civilization actually prevails in such a community. The record of the doings at Cairo is a disgrace to the nation.

HORSE NOTES FROM THE BORDER TOWN

(St. Croix Courier)
Jimmie Green's handsome mare, by MacDougall, 2:10 1/4, will be a hot competitor on the speedway this winter, judging by the way she is coming in her brushes on the road.
Frank McDonald and James Egan went to Charlottetown, (P. E. I.) last week and completed the purchase of another piece of horse flesh for J. Wm. Smith. The new one is only a youngster, foaled June of this year, but it ought to be a good one. It is a full brother to Prince Louis, being by Brazilian, out of Parketta, by Parkside. The little fellow is a solid black excepting for a few white hairs on one fore foot. He weighs four hundred and ninety pounds and was brought to the border by express. He looks good to the horsemen who have seen him and all will be pleased if he turns out as well as his big brother. We hear a lot of enquiries about speeded sleighs. It seems everyone wants to ride fast this winter. The old spirit is back to stay this time.
Prince Louis, J. W. Smith's fine big trotter, has gone into winter quarters with a record of work well done during the past season. He started in twelve races and was never outside the money but once, at Bangor, and there is reason to believe that he was the victim of the doer on that occasion. His first start was at Fredericton, where he got second money and following that took first money at Woodstock, St. John and Sussex in successive races. At Bar Harbor he took third money and then ran up against his Bangor experience. At Waterville he won an easy first, and at Machias a first and second. At Fredericton again he took fourth money. At Halifax he won second in the race for 2:20 trotters. His net purse earnings amounted to almost $800. He started the season with a record of 2:22 1/4, and retired at 2:21 1/4, looking like real goods for another season. He was very skillfully handled by Harry Haley.

DID YOU EVER?

Did you ever see a pigeon hopping along the path?
Did you ever see a sparrow walk to his out-door bath?
Did you ever see a pigeon's nest that had three eggs or more?
Did you ever see a white colt on any hill or shore?
Do you know what letter you may find on every leaf of clover?
(I mean the little mellow kind that grows just the same over.)
Did you ever see two four o'clocks colored just the same?
Or two variegated flowers alike, of any size or name?
What animal sleeps standing? You may meet him in the street.
How many toes has pussy on her little feet?
If you can tell me all these things—and I must confess I doubt you—
You may say you've learned the lesson well to observe small things about you.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

"Let me see," mused the young man in the parlor scene, "I have been courting you three years, haven't I?"
"Yes, I believe so," replied the patient nurse.
"Well, he continued, "I think I have made love to you long enough. Let's get married."

A NEAR-RELATION.

"Pa, why do you call Uncle Frank a near-relation?"
"Because he's so close with his money."

The centre sat upon his legs,
Two ends sat on his chest,

Sat down on him to rest.

The left guard sat upon his head,
A tackle on his face,
Three owners were next called in
To sit upon his case.

He had just received a letter from a man, a low sort of fellow, I should say, which displeased him immensely, and he was debating inwardly how best to convey to his vulgar correspondent an adequate expression of his feelings. As he was about to open the letter, he was startled by a knock. It was a lady. The gentleman made two or three false starts, and finally declared:—

LABOR MEN ENDORSE

LLOYD GEORGE'S STAND

At the meeting of the American Federation of Labor, held in Toronto yesterday, a resolution was passed endorsing Chancellor Lloyd George's stand on the budget. A. T. British M. The Open Door for Consumption

And How "Father Morriess's No. 10" (Lung Tonic) Closes It.

A low run-down condition, with perhaps a neglected cough and a little cough, is a cordial invitation to the White Plague, Consumption, to come in and make itself at home. And it seldom overlooks the invitation.

In such a case there is no time to be lost. The door must be speedily closed. This can be done by taking a complete rest, with plenty of fresh air, and "Father Morriess's No. 10" (Lung Tonic) will clear out the lungs and pass the mucus from the lungs and air passages. But perhaps most important of all, it builds up the whole system, giving Nature the needed assistance in fighting off the dread disease.

There are other remedies may have failed, don't give up. Try "Father Morriess's No. 10," combined with fresh air and exercise, and even though you are in the last stages of consumption there is hope of a permanent cure. Sample bottle 25c. Heart Trouble Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905, I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors, but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak and nervous in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.
"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, I'll write you a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the box, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.
"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

THE LOSS OF THE BARKENTINE

JOHN S. BENNETT

Capt. Bullock, of the schooner William Jones, which rescued two Filipino sailors from the Nova Scotia barkentine John S. Bennett, after the barkentine had been in collision with the schooner Merrill C. Hart, tells the following story:—
"I was coming along under a fair breeze, and the vessel went down. I saw the lights of a vessel ahead of me. There was nothing strange about her when I saw her first, but later I heard the cries of men on board. As we were passing a man on the barkentine shouted and sinking. I could hear the cries of the men on the vessel went down. My brother, Wilbur, who is my mate, put out in one of our life boats with a couple of sailors. They picked up the Filipino boys, but, although they rowed around for an hour, they could find no trace of any one else. There was a lot of wreckage that was all.
"When we got the boys aboard our schooner we tried to learn the name of the vessel, but they could not talk our language. I remained about that spot for some time, but with no success. The night was rather dark, but the stars were shining and I could see some distance, so that there were no very good reasons for a collision.
"When Captain Bullock arrived here yesterday morning he took the boys to the office of Walford & Co., No. 10 Bridge street, agent for the John S. Bennett, because from the look he had of the sinking vessel he imagined she was the Bennett. At that office the boys were not known, but J. C. Harris, shipping master, identified the lads as two he had signed for the Bennett.
"One of the Filipinos could speak some Spanish, and although he could not tell the name of his vessel, he said there had been a collision with a big schooner and that the vessel he was on sank within a few minutes. He said he had been at the wheel and had been struck by it when the vessels came together.
"The other lad, he said, was asleep but was awakened by the cries of those on the Bennett and ran out on deck and stood near the captain, who cried out after the collision:—
"Boys, stick to me! I'm English and will guide by you."
There were five hundred tons of coal on the Bennett and she filled and sank so rapidly that there was no time to jump. The Spanish speaking boy is about nineteen years old, while his companion is about twenty.
"Captain Firth, of the Bennett, was thirty-seven years old. His home was in Liverpool, Nova Scotia, where he had a wife and child.
"The mate, Claude Hadley, of St. Vincent's, Nova Scotia, and Ross Hutt, also of Nova Scotia, an able seaman, were on their way home, having been shipwrecked in the W. S. Fielding, a schooner, that went ashore and was abandoned off the Cuba coast early in October.
"The Merrill C. Hart, which was bound from Thomaston, Me., for New York with a cargo of stone, carried a crew of five men, including Captain Charles C. Boyles, of Tennant's Harbor, Me. The others of the crew were Charles Russell, Swan's Island, Me., cook; Alfred A. Braum, Alfred Anderson and Alfred Ter, seamen.

The casket for John Miller, of Godfrey's, Ont., Canada's heaviest metal casket weighed 46 pounds, was six feet six inches wide, and the inside measurement 45 inches wide, and 29 inches deep. There were eight handles, reinforced with iron strips inside. The shell was seven feet eight inches long, four feet two inches wide and 33 inches deep.

The manufacture of fine Rubber Goods has been going on for some years, but the most expert Rubber Manufacturers never turned out a Hot Water Bottle of absolutely one piece of Rubber until Mr. F. J. Scientific papers have published pages regarding this invention—the greatest in the history of Rubber manufacture.

You can buy these bottles of your druggist—they are guaranteed two years against boiling hot water or any possible accident. They will last a life-time with proper care, because they are perfectly steam-cured and perfectly made by the Walpole Rubber Company, Limited, Montreal.

"Bronchitis"

is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather and may be recognized by a tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color coming from the bronchial tubes when coughing, especially the first thing in the morning. Cure the first symptoms of bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Miss Martha Bourget, Little Falls, Que., writes:—"Last spring I was very poorly, had a cough, sick stomach, and was tired all the time. I consulted two doctors, and both told me I had bronchitis, and advised me to give up teaching. I tried almost everything but none of the medicines gave me any relief. One of my friends advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I had scarcely taken the first bottle when I began to get better and when I had taken the fourth bottle I felt as well as ever, my cough had left me and I could sleep well."

"Dr. Wood's" is the original Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
