The Man In The Street

Now to show that this is a city of Loyallists.

Don't forget to write it September after today.

One month from today it has been promised we'll be able to ride in a street car across the new bridge.

And one positive way to show you are an optimist is to say you fully expect to do so.

Yes, One or More

Those who had their last half-holiday for the season on Saturday, pending the week-end in the country, probably consulted themselves by whispering: "Oh, well, we had to have at least one wet Sunday."

Now that four has taken another slump will the bakers still call for that extra cent?

That extra penny pays the war-tax on many a letter.

China is said to be negotiating for the purchase of submarines in the States. Apparently she's getting out of the "junk" trade.

The Russians have stopped retreating on their left flank and taken 3,000 prisoners. Perhaps it won't be said again that they have no standing army.

A patent has been secured for a contrivance to keep girls from falling out of hammocks. The chap who invented it probably didn't realize that that was part of the joy of hammocks.

A Patriotic Inspiration

The Nova Scotian who sold a blind stallion for use in the war no doubt had the idea that he would be saving the cost of blindness to the government, and consequently taxed an extra dollar sign on the bargain ticket.

If some of those horses from about Kennebec could be had here from October 4 to October 5, there would be no doubt about that "250,000 in a week" for the patriotic nation.

Hard to Take

It is hard to resist the invitation, "take one," some times displayed on advertising matter, etc. but so far no one has accepted the invitation which some amateur humorist chalked on the pile of structural steel lying ready to be placed in the frame work of a new building.

Great chance for souvenir hunters now that the suspension bridge is being dismantled.

The example set by the churches and patriotic organizations has borne fruit. Now we have a street carnival operating games of chance with the police threatening them with jail if they continue. Handy seems like a square deal.

EVERYBODY MAKE A CONTRIBUTION ON BIRTHDAY

S. C. Matthews' Plan For Swelling Funds—Might be Made Dominion-Wide

S. C. Matthews, who has been doing such excellent work in connection with entertainments to raise funds for the Red Cross and other funds, has hit upon a scheme which, if adopted in this city and province, or for that matter throughout Canada, would result in a daily stream of contributions. It is that each person contribute on his or her birthday, to some one of the funds as many cents as there are years in his or her life. Thus a person ten years old would give ten cents, a person fifty years fifty cents, and so on.

As numerous birthdays fall on every day of the year, the aggregate would be a considerable amount each day and an enormous amount in a year. Mr. Matthews points out that the call would not be large on any individual or family, and none would miss so small a contribution, while it would enable everyone to give something.

E. A. Schofield suggests that to make Mr. Matthews' plan effective, blank forms and addressed envelopes should be placed in all post offices, and all contributions carried free by the post office department. If this were done and the people responded, there would be a constant and very large addition to the patriotic funds.

FAIRVILLE NEWS

The roads and sidewalks in Lancaster have been generally much improved this summer through the efforts of the highway board, but some complaints have been heard about sections of Main street.

It is learned this will receive attention at once, for out places are to be replaced and along Church avenue from the corner of Prospect street a new permanent walk is to be laid by Contractor Murray W. Long. This job is to be commenced during the present week.

The space around the famous steps of Wm. L. Pink will also be filled in with concrete and this closes the episode which created so little excitement last year. The steps will remain where they are which was the matter of contention.

DIED IN SEATTLE

Sad tidings have been received from the west by Simon Bradshaw of Fairville, in the word of his son, Walter L. Bradshaw died in Seattle, Wash., August 19. He had been not long ill, suffering from hemorrhage. Mr. Bradshaw was thirty-six years old and was well known in St. John. He left here about six years ago journeying through the Canadian west and finally locating in Seattle. Before going west Mr. Bradshaw followed his trade as a harness-maker and conducted a business in North End. Friends will regret to learn of his death.

SEPTEMBER MORN

Somehow it seems to be the birthday of those twin sisters—work and worry.

Playtime is over and the things to be done loom very large. The school bell will remind grown-ups as well as "kiddies" that the long grind is near.

In a business way the signs are encouraging—the times look like more work and less worry.

And the new impulse for energy naturally suggests the meeting ground for helper and helped—the advertising columns of The Telegraph and Times.

It is the place where those already after business are making themselves known and where those with wants to be filled are finding answers to their questions.
