MAY.—It would be to the advantage of farmers to confine their attention almost exclusively to their farms, and let all speculating business alone. If farming is worth following at all it is certainly much better to attend to it well than to have the mind divided between it and other objects. It is best also for farmers to raise crops of every variety that their land will produce, and that may be saleable in their vicinity. If one crop fails, or is not so much in demand, some other will probably be found to compensate.

CUTTING HIM SHORT.

On a certain trial, the counsel for the plaintiff had just risen to state his case, and had got no further than "May it please you, sir, and gentlemen," when he was rudely interrupted by a small juror, whose head was just visible above the box, with, "Cut it short." To him straightway the barrister turned. "Sir, I will cut it short. Sir, I will cut it almost as short as you are." He was not interfered with any more by that juror.
