Little Beauty Chats

By BLANCHE BEACON

Many Beauty Dont's

DON'T distort your face when you talk or listen, else you will be wrinkled long before your fortieth year.
Don't smoke, as a pure, sweet breath is one of woman's greatest charms and should not be lightly thrown away.
Don't forget to cleanse your face every night before seeking the arms of Morpheus. A clean skin is generally a pretty skin.
Don't make the mistake of walking

Don't brush and comb your hair as if you bore it a grudge, as you will very likely fall heir to a bald head. The scalp is sensitive and resents being vigorously jabbed and stabbed. Mend your ways.
Don't bite your lips to make them red, as this toughens the skin. As for the color acquired in this manner, it lasts but a moment.
Don't stint yourself of sleep. Physicians with your abdomen thrust out. This gives you an extremely ungraceful carriage, and in addition makes you look a wee bit grise.

Don't, when you first wake up in the morning, thrust a fat into either eye and rub and rub, as pressure on the ball of the eye flattens the lens and eventually induces short-sightedness.
Don't let your hands get chilled, as cold hands are homely hands.

OFFICE STAFF AT CHAMCOOK ARE NOW IN POSSESSION

Expect to Be Putting up Products of Factory Early in December

(St. Andrews Beacon)

The army of workmen at the new sardine town of Chamcook, are gradually bringing order out of the chaos of the last few months. The offices at the works have now been sufficiently completed to admit of the office staff entering into possession, which they did on Saturday last.

Misses Edna Fuller, Madeline Righty, Alice Lank and Jennie Marten, the young ladies who assist Secretary-treasurer Haycock in looking after the business end of the company's affairs, started out to their duties at Chamcook for the first time on Monday morning. They have had very comfortable home quarters provided them in the company's residence, and will remain there during the winter.

Managing director McCall told The Beacon that early in the coming month the work of putting up sardines, clams, and the other products which the factory will pack, will be begun.

On Saturday, Mechanical Superintendent Kirwin, who has been one of the busiest men at the works, got the big elevator running. The company's hotel and offices and the street of the new town were also illuminated with electricity for the first time on Saturday last. A 200 h. p. Corliss engine, backed up with 3 1500 h. p. boilers provides the power for the dynamo and the other works.

The work of putting up samples of sardines, kippered herring, baked beans and brown bread, fish cakes, clams, bouillon, etc., which has been carried on for a short time past under the supervision of Messrs. Tolls and Morris at the clam factory in town will be transferred to the Chamcook building next week.

Charles Haycock, the hustling secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Sardine Company, will soon occupy the Boyd cottage at Chamcook.

Mr. Boyd of the N. B. Telephone Company has been putting in a telephone exchange at the new sardine town at Chamcook lately. A beginning will be made with fifteen phones.

MRS. MATTHEW'S LECTURE

Mrs. G. F. Matthew, president of the Ladies' Association of the Natural History Society, lectured yesterday afternoon on Humperdinck's modern opera, Knightsunder or Royal Children, the story of the Goose Girl. She was assisted by Miss Alice Davidson, who played selections from the music of the opera.

At the close of the lecture pictures of scenes from the production were shown. Next Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Matthew and Miss Knight will give a similar exposition of Humperdinck's opera Hansel and Gretel.

Wooden tubes which are not in daily use should have a little cold water left in them. If allowed to dry they will crack and fall to pieces.
