REHEARSE CORONATION CEREMONY Going Through Parts of The Great Event Has Been Begun MUCH CARE TAKEN Earl Marshall, Duke of Norfolk, the Man in Charge of All Except Rehearsing King George—An Idea of What Has to Be Done

(Canadian Press) London, April 10.—With the final approval of the order of the coronation service, which will follow closely on traditional lines, the rehearsals of the ceremony have been begun in Westminster Abbey. To insure smooth working of so elaborate and complicated a function necessitates the most careful and systematic training of all the scores of individuals who have duties to perform. Each person has to study his part as closely as an actor, and every section of the service has to be rehearsed again and again, until the whole splendid scene is perfected. To the Duke of Norfolk, as earl marshal falls the duty of "stage managing" the great spectacle. Under his direction the office of works carries out the actual arrangement of "setting" the hall to school and train each participant in his role, he arranges and regulates all details of robes, dresses, he controls and directs the rehearsals and on the great day is responsible for every item of the ceremony.

The King There is one exception, in form, at any rate, to the earl marshal's control. The principal figure in the whole scene, the sovereign himself, is instructed and rehearsed not by the earl marshal, but by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and assisted by the Dean and Chaplain of Westminster. King George Revives the Regulation Enforced by Queen Victoria MORMONS DRIVEN OUT

London, April 10.—King George has revived Queen Victoria's regulation excluding from court persons who have been divorced. The Victorian rule was somewhat relaxed during the reign of King Edward VII.

The Rev. J. P. Wilson, rector of Heywood, with a large crowd following, went to the Mormon house last evening and served notice upon the Mormons that they must quit the town within a week. For a time it looked as if a riot would ensue but, on the Mormons assenting to the demand, the crowd dispersed.

Peace Arbitration Admiral Sir E. R. Fremantle, writing to a correspondent here, agrees that an Anglo-American arbitration will probably tend towards solidarity of political influence between the two nations, but fears that the peace lovers will build on it the supposition that all war is a thing of the past.

"Supposing," he says, "that we even had an alliance, offensive and defensive, with America. The latter power, which is and could not materially help us in Europe. Even with the United States, the question, an arbitration treaty is not a simple one. Would the president of the republic submit the question of the Monroe doctrine or the fortification of the Panama Canal for instance, to arbitration?"

New York, April 10.—Resolved, by Plymouth church that public war is out of date and that the nations of the world, by a league of peace among themselves, ought to make its recurrence hereafter impossible.

This resolution and others were adopted unanimously at a peace meeting last night in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, where Henry Ward Beecher, formerly pastor, and will be called to London, there to be read at a peace meeting under the auspices of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the leaders of the non-conformist union.

For the ratification of the proposed arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, Plymouth church voted to work on this side of the Atlantic by urging the churches to devote a Sunday during May, to be known as Peace and Arbitration Sunday, to advocate the adoption of the treaty.
