THE NEWFOUNDLAND WAY.

Yesterday we referred to the fact that two members of the Newfoundland government had been unseated and disqualified for corupt practices at the recent general election. From the reading of the dispatch we inferred that the corrupt practices consisted in the purchase of votes in the direct and vulgar but this, it seems, was a mistake second part of the dispatch has now come to hand, which reads as follows:-

The ground on which the conviction was secured against Woods and Moores, was secured against woods and Moores, was the expenditure of $3,000 in the Bay de Veris shortly before the election, which money was obtained illegally for the employment of everal hundred men in the various public works a few days before the day set for the polling of the note. vote. The money was also used in em-ploying a number of men on the public works in this city, hiring of trains to deport them to their homes to vote and then bringing them back here again, thus constituting the illegal use of legis-lative grants intended for other purposes. lative grants intended for other purposes. Judge Winter, in the course of this de-cision, severely condemned the govern-ment for its illeral expenditure of public funds. The disqualification of the re-maining fifteen members petitioned against is a foregoue conductor. They include every member of the executive council and the government leaders at all the districts the districts.

What would the Davie government do if it had the Newfoundland law and Newfoundland indges to contend with? THE CONCLUSION IS PLAIN di

In its usual would be offensive way the Colonist finds fault with us for com-ing to the conclusion that the government's tariff revision is not satisfactory. More time and more information are wanted, it seems, for the formation of a proper opinion. They may be necessary to the Colonist, in its dulness of intellect and its servility as a government organ, but no independent thinker of even a small degree of ability can have any difficulty in coming to a judgment with the material now to hand. The negative process alone is sufficient. When we know that
