ASSAULTS, ROBBERIES AND MANY OTHER OFFENCES TRIED IN THE POLICE COURT THIS FORENOON.

The police magistrate's remark about a Monday morning's session of the King street court is, "It is a crop that never fails," and this morning's session from ten o'clock until one was a busy one. The police court showed a number of cases and besides those tried in court there were several of persons awaiting an opportunity to prefer information against people on different charges.

THOSE TRIED.
When the Saturday and Sunday arrests filed into court the prisoners' bench was well filled. The first case was that of a man charged with being drunk and being profane. He was fined eight dollars or two months in jail. John Dukeshire pleaded guilty to being drunk on Broad street, and was fined eight dollars or one month in jail. Christopher Riley gave very little trouble in being arrested. He got drunk and laid down on the police station steps. He was put out on the street and then conducted to a cell. He went to jail for thirty days in default of paying an eight dollar fine. Charles Johnston did not put in an appearance and forfeited a deposit of eight dollars. Frank Hopper was fined eight dollars or a month in jail for being drunk on Sydney street.

BRUSSELS STREET FIGHT.
Fred Lean, Charles Carmichael and James Boyd were arrested for fighting together on Brussels street Saturday night and all pleaded not guilty. Policeman McNamee informed the court that Lean and Carmichael were on top of Boyd and that the latter did not appear to be fighting. Boyd was allowed to go and the other two were fined twenty dollars each.

AN ABUSED WIFE.
George Gallagher, aged twenty-five, was charged with breaking a window in his own house, Main street, and also with attempting to assault his wife.

Mrs. Gallagher testified that she was the mother of three children, the youngest being but two months old. Saturday night her husband came home drunk and gave him his supper and it did not appear to suit him. He called her names and threatened to strike her. She did not say anything back to him, and he became so bad that she grew frightened, and getting her three children she left the house and sought safety in a friend's house. Her husband then armed himself with a hatchet and came after her, threatening to cut her with it. He returned to the house and blew out the lights. She was afraid to return home and stayed all night in the neighbor's house.

The magistrate said it was a wonder that some of the brothers of abused wives did not go to the police and take the law into their own hands and chastise these wife-beaters in the way they deserved. He said that Mrs. Gallagher deserved credit for making a complaint against such a man. Women, he said, put up with kicks and cuffs until they are nearly driven to the wall, and have to finally seek protection of the police from bad husbands. He told Mrs. Gallagher that he could send her husband to jail for a term without a fine, and the woman replied that she did not care what became of him, that she was a good woman and would never live with her husband again, but would work for her three little children.

Policeman Semple told of Gallagher escaping from the house when Mrs. Gallagher complained that he was trying to murder her. A neighbor also told the court about Gallagher flourishing a hatchet and looking for his wife. Louis Gallagher, a brother of the prisoner, told the same story as his sister-in-law, and how he prevented the brother from hitting that wife. The prisoner informed the court that he had witnessed the road race on Saturday night, and that he was not in the race to the race he would not have got drunk, and the trouble would not have occurred. He was remanded to jail and the magistrate said he would probably be sent to jail without a fine.

INDIFFERENT VOTERS.

(Montreal Witness.)

Are you favorable to the election of Mr. Peter Snooks? Will you go to the poll? or shall we send for you? at what place? at what time? Some think like this is before an election sent to every elector with a stamped envelope for reply. This itself costs a lot of money, to say nothing of the expense implied in the offer. We are assured by a very experienced election manager that nine-tenths of all the money spent upon elections is spent in getting the voters to the polls. This shows the amount of interest taken by a free people in the function of self-government? Have such people a right to self-government? Is not the law that would disfranchise those who despite their birthright, not only eminently just, but altogether necessary to the public well-being?

AN ERIN STREET FIGHT.

Walter Sweeney, aged 21, was charged by Mrs. Mary Bechard, an Assyrian, with assaulting her on Erin street Saturday night. The prisoner was represented by J. B. M. Baxter and E. S. Ritchie and pleaded not guilty.

There were a number of witnesses for the prosecution and at the request of Mr. Baxter only one at a time was allowed in court.

Mrs. Bechard said that Saturday night after ten o'clock in company with a Mrs. Taylor, she started for Michael George's shop on Brunswick street and when but a few yards from her home on Erin street Sweeney caught hold of her by the arm and ordered her to go home. She refused and she slapped her face and threw her down. A companion of his took him away but he followed her to her door and shoved her into the doorway. She also saw four men in a fight on the corner. She positively identified the prisoner as the man who assaulted her and in answer to Mr. Baxter she identified Thomas Sweeney, a brother of the prisoner, as the man who tried to take the prisoner away.

Policeman Crawford said he went to Erin street in response to a telephone call. There was a crowd about and a Carleton youth named McPeake had his mouth bleeding. He heard there had been a fight and was then informed by Mrs. Bechard of the assault. Sweeney was there and was identified by a number of persons as the one who assaulted the woman.

Walter Forbes, a colored boy, proved another case (at the magistrate's request) for the boy problem. He said he was ten years of age, did not know anything about the Bible, did not know anything about the ten commandments, good people went to Heaven, but he did not know where hell was, and he had never heard about hell and never went to Sunday school. He testified that he saw Sweeney and another fighting on the corner and identified Sweeney as the man who struck Mrs. Bechard.

Thomas Bechard, 14 years of age, in answer to the magistrate, said he did not know the man who was sent to him at eight o'clock. The magistrate here told the boy's mother to see that he was well fed, as he did not look strong and worked long hours. Thomas said he saw Sweeney strike his mother.

Fred Bechard, aged ten, also identified the prisoner as the one who struck the woman.

For the defense Thomas Sweeney took the stand and said that he was not in the vicinity of Erin street Saturday night, and showed that the witnesses were wrong in identifying him as the man who was with his brother.

The prisoner took the stand and acknowledged being on Erin street Saturday night. He asked Mrs. Bechard what the matter was, but never struck her, nor was he fighting. He claimed that he was falsely arrested.

The magistrate said that the weight of evidence was against the prisoner. The case was adjourned until Friday morning, when other witnesses will be heard. Sweeney was allowed out on a $25 deposit.

A YOUTHFUL BURGLAR.

Robert Clayton, a 13-year-old boy, was brought into court by Detective Killen, and is charged with various cases of stealing. The boy was dirty in appearance, attired in a blue sweater and wore rubber shoes on his feet and kept his mouth working as he chewed on a wad of gum.

The boy is charged with breaking and entering J. V. Russell's shoe shop on Brunswick street on Thursday night last and stealing a pair of rubber boots, a pair of leather shoes and seven cents; also on the same night with breaking and entering J. W. Aldous' meat store, destroying meat and stealing two dollars.

HOIST WITH HIS OWN PETARD.

Over-shrewd lawyers often furnish their adversaries with weapons.

"Did you see this tree that has been mentioned, by the roadside?" an advocate inquired.

"It is conspicuous, then?"

"What is the difference," sneered the lawyer, "between plain and conspicuous?"

But he was hoist by his own petard. The witness innocently answered: "Can you see plainly, sir, among the other lawyers, though you are not a bit conspicuous?"

In another instance a blow directed against the character of a witness forcibly recoiled:

"Or two friends, sir,"

"That may be so," was the dry retort, "they are both lawyers."

P. W. Lantam, of St. John; W. S. Montgomery, of St. John; N. B. Major Schurman and D. B. Morrison, of Summerside left this morning for Priest Pond, to attend the sale of the wrecked Savino-Summerside Pioneer.

If advertising did not pay advertisers would not keep on expending thousands of dollars per year for it. All the people cannot be fooled all the time. If advertising did not pay, its merits would have been exposed long before this. The best proof that advertising pays lies in the fact that advertisers continue its use year after year.

Men's $15.00 Suits, Now $10.69

Tweeds and Worsteds, any pattern that is new, desirable.

Men's $10.00 Overcoats, Now $7.69

Chesterfield Style, in Fancy Tweeds, Velvet Collars.

In the first place, these Suits and Overcoats can be bought at ABOUT A THIRD LESS than our regular prices—and our regular prices HAVE BEEN PROVED 25 TO 30 PER CENT LESS THAN THE REGULAR PRICES OF ANY OTHER STORE.

The reason for this difference is because, as manufacturers, we save now the profit which other stores must pay the manufacturers and must add to their selling prices. So in saving a third of our prices, you really save a half or more of what you'd have to pay anywhere else.

We've had a great demand for these Suits and Overcoats, and consequently patterns are somewhat broken, and having many patterns gives us many broken lots. Wise retailing demands their expulsion, thus this saving opportunity.

Every man who buys one of these Suits or Overcoats will get a good paying investment for his money, and he'll get clothes that will prove satisfactory in looks, in comfort and in wear.

THE PITTSBURG POLICE PUZZLED

But Epidemic of Crime is Apparently Ended

Scores of Suspicious Persons Arrested and Sent to the Workhouse—Big Rewards Offered

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 18.—The epidemic of crime that has swept over the city and vicinity since November 1 has apparently run its course and today only a few small burglaries were reported. During the 16 days three murders were caused by thugs bent on robbery; carbolic acid was thrown in one woman's face, disfiguring her for life; half a hundred men were badly beaten; a hundred or more men and women were held up on the streets and robbed; houses in all sections of the city were broken into and thousands of dollars' worth of valuables stolen; scores of suspicious persons have been arrested and sent to the workhouse; two hundred additional policemen were added to the police force and rewards aggregating $7,000 were offered for the arrest of the murderers of James A. McMillan and Henry P. Smith. Detectives came here from other cities and endeavored to capture the marauders, and notwithstanding the combined efforts of the authorities, failed to arrest anyone directly implicated in the outrages. A few days following the McMillan murder hold-ups were so frequent that citizens compelled to be out late purchased firearms.

The police express the belief that the outrages were committed by a roving band of expert criminals who have departed for other fields. "The police are giving no thought to the city and vicinity today. The police continue to arrest suspicious characters, so far as have been arrested, have any person directly implicated in the outrages. Twenty-eight additional plain clothes officers were added to the forces today. One of today's assaults was especially heinous. Miss Jeanette Brownlee of Bradock, Pa., was disfigured for life by a negro highwayman who threw carbolic acid in her face. The negro stopped the girl and asked her several questions. She tried to pass him, and without provocation he threw the acid. The negro is threatened with lynching if captured.

Mrs. Joseph Shirley came suddenly upon a man ransacking her home today at Oakman, a suburb. The robber struck at her with a knife, cutting her gown. The man escaped with a sum of money.

Miss Margaret Nichols was held up near her home in Broad daylight today by a man with a revolver at her head. Her cries for help brought several men to her assistance and the highwayman fled.

During the 24 hours over twenty houses were entered and ransacked in this city.

CANADA IS BRITISH.

(Toronto Globe.)

When any Canadian publicist writes to a British newspaper asking the British people to "wake up" to the danger of the Americanization of Canada it is safe to say that he is ignorant of the real feelings of his own countrymen. Canadians are giving no thought to the political destiny of Canada. They simply take for granted that as the larger part of it has been British since 1670, a considerable portion of it since 1713, and most of the remainder since 1763, it will remain British indefinitely. What Canadians in general really want is as much freedom from Downing street intermeddling as is compatible with remaining in the empire, and the recognition of their right to make their own agreements with the United States.

GROWING INDEPENDENCE.

(Toronto News.)

The November elections in the United States show a formidable growth of the independent vote and a general weakening of party allegiance. In New York State there was a remarkable disturbance of old party relationships. In New Hampshire there was a serious uprising against the Republican machine. A similar state of feeling was revealed in New Jersey. In Minnesota Republican state officers were elected, and at the same time a Democratic governor was returned by the vote of a serious movement for tariff reform. Throughout the republic seems to be unsettled and anxious, and unless President Roosevelt and the Republican majority in congress shall take account of these conditions and legislate to abate the growing discontent a radical Democratic candidate may prove to be very formidable in the next presidential election.
