A very pretty instance of Lord Rosebery's thoughtfulness must not pass unrecorded. On his way back from Cardiff to London he sepied on the Swindon platform, during a ten minutes' halt, a poor little child, sobbing as if her heart would break. He got out a dasked what was the matter. 'I want to go to Bradford,' was the piteous cry; so Lord Rosebery coaxed the grief-laden little a creature till he elicited from her the tale of her woes. She h d brensent alone on a long journey, had passed the junction where she should have changed, and was stranded hundreds of miles from her destination. Needless to say, she went on her right way with full purse and light heart under the special charge of the guard.

Angling for Human Fish.

Angling for Human Fish.

At a fishery exhibition in Westminster, noted anglers demonstrated their skill with rod and line by endeavoring to land human fish. A trout line was attached to the waist of an expertswimmer, and the angler "played" his fish with an ordinary rod. A male swimmer managed to break the line, but a female had to give in to the angler.

Tying the Knot.

At a Babylonish wedding ceremony the priest took a thread from the garment of the bride and another from the bridegroom, and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride. This is probably the origin of the modern saying about tying the knot in regard to marriage.

HALIFAX, May 2.—The oddfell his city Detail the statement of their order.

Today the "navy of the three links" on both sides of the harbor number 705, about one in 60 of the population. There are over 4,500 oddfellows in the maritime provinces, and about 30,000 in Canada, compared with nearly 900,000 in the United States. The city of Portland is the greatest home of oddfellowship on the continent, for it is said every third adult male belongs to the order. Halifax's proportion of 1 in 60 of the whole population is a good showing when it is remembered that the proportion for the maritime provinces is not more than 1 in 222, and for Canada 1 in about 170. The order is growing in Halitha about 170. The order is growing in Hall-fax and Dartmouth, not in number of lodges but in the strength and efficiency of the four which have long existed. They own a beautiful temple in this city.

The celebration took place in the academy of music on Sunday. Rev. D. W. Johnson preached the sermon, and another methodist minister, Rev. J. A. Rogers, also officiated in the services. With those strictly orthodox clergymen present how absurd it seems for a few probers of the order to say that they would not attend the celebration because it was held in a theatre. A friend of the order but not a member, when he heard of this objection, quoted the Lord's words when speaking of the scribes' and Phar: sees' hair-splitting distinctions. "Whether sees' hair-splitting distinctions. "Whether is greater the gold or the temple that sanctifieth the gold." (Matt. xxiii, 17.) On the other hand, at tormer celebrations there were always several oddfellows who persisted in their refusal to take part in the demonstration because the service was held in a church. The academy celebration has come to stay.

ONCE A WEEK ADVERTISING. Its Efficacy Very Plainly Shown in Sale of Humphreys,s "77."

I (From The new York Times.)
Those business firms that have not ye learned the potency for good of printers' ink should take to heart the object lesson in advertising afforded by the phenomenal success of "77," Dr. Frederick Hum-

To the good judgment and energy of H.

B. Harding this is chiefly due, and he naturally takes no little pride in it.

Mr. Harding is an old and experienced advertiser, having for years made a careful study of the art, and he declares that the Sunday newspapers are without exception the best and most satisfactory mediums for "The secret of the success of '77,'" said Mr. Harding yesterday to a reporter for The New York Times, "is the method of advertising it which we adopted. We have advertised '77' only in the large Sunday and in Canada in Saturday papers, particularly the New York Times, and the result has proved beyond contraekly papers are the bes mediums for advertises mediums for advertisers.

"Everybody reads them. We receive new evidences of this fact by mail every day. Our '77' is known in every city, village, and hamlet from Maine to Calitornia and from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and its fame is so firmly established that it actually leads all our other medicines in sales.

"We have sold 500,000 bottles of medicine since November last, something un-precedented, and I attribute it largely to our use of the Saturday and Sunday papers in advertising '77.'
"It is called '77' because it was dis covered by Dr. Humphreys when he was seventy-seven years old. The two sevens seventy-seven years old. The two sevens have proved very lucky."

Mr. Humphrey is general manager for the Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Company, which manufactures "77," and is located at 113 William Street.

A "Poem" in Dress Goods.

When a gown can be called a "poem, then we have obviously reached the perfection of grace and beauty. The modiste is fection of grace and beauty. The modiste is much; the material is more. Priestley's black dress fabrics are noted for their easy fitting quality, for the resnement which gives them a peculiar distinction. Priestley's new creation, the "Eudora," appears to be their best, if their famous Henriettas can be beaten. In glow, in quality, in exquisite draping effects, the "Eudora" takes the palm. Its superior practical features are greater width, greater weight.

An Old Bill Found.

"1854" is a startling date to the inhabitants of this part of the country, as that was the year of the cholera. The bill is for "shoe brushes and straw paper, £1 2s. 91.," and a complete memorandum of the bill appears on the back. The endorsement ends with the following consoling state-ment: "Paid, William Garnett, Commission Merchant and Auctioneer." The rest of the writing on the back of the bill war probably done by Mr. P. Nase, afterwards enior partner in the firm of Messrs. P. Nase and Sons, and father of Mr. D. H. Nase, the well-known Indiantown grocer. There are few events more interes people who lived forty years ago than the finding of papers of the old days, and Mr. Hunter's find, being, as it was, so far distant from any house, is especially remarkable. Perhaps moving-time and the winds that pertain to the season were responsible for the bill's appearance on the Pokiok road. In this connection it may be stated that a representative of PROGRESS found several pages from a last-century edition of Telemaque on Germain street the other day. It seems a shame that old and valuable books such as these pages were from are not taken better care of.

Raveill's Compliment.

When a certain opera company was in New York, the ladies of that city were bitten by a mania for obtaining autographs of the artists, and would send their books with requests for signatures. In one of these books Signor Campanini had signed his name, and someone had written after it, "The finest tenor in the world." The same book afterwards reached Ravelli, whose knowledge of English was rather peculiar. He saw the addendum to the signature of his friend, and could not at first understand it. However, somebody explained the meaning to him, and when the owner of the book received it back she found written under the flattering description of Signor Campanini, "Luigi Ravelli, me, too."

A Curious Game of Football.

A Curious Game of Football.

In General Barail's Memoirs of the Court of Napoleon III. at St. Cloud, it is stated that Barail had dined with the Emperor and Empress and a few guests, and the whole party were sitting by the open windows of the Palace, as it was a summer's night, when suddenly a child's balloon floated in through the open window and fell at the Empress's feet. The Empress gave it a playful kick, and the balloon flew np and put out one of the wax candles. This was the signal for a game of football, in which even the Emperodrook part, and which was continued until most of the candles had been put out by the balloon.

An Electrical Letter-Box.

An electrical letter-box has been brought out in Chicago. When the postman inserts a letter, it starts a simple clockwork, which closes an electric circuit, and rings a bell announcing the fact. It does not matter how far the box is from the house, and hence the novelty would be useful in country districts, at farms and gentlemen's seats.
