GOLD DUST

not only cleans, but sterilizes

Gold Dust does more than wash the surface—it digs deep after germs and hidden particles of dirt and decay. It purifies and makes everything sanitarly safe. Neither dirt nor germs can live where Gold Dust has made its appearance.

Gold Dust needs little help from you; it does most of the work alone. It is a vegetable-oil soap in powdered form, to which are added cleansing and purifying ingredients which get busy the moment they touch the water.

Use Gold Dust for all cleansing purposes. It saves time, saves labor, saves backs, and saves money.

MAGNIFICENT NEW DOCK
FOR G. T. PACIFIC NEARS
COMPLETION AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Ore., April 25.—No water front structure was ever built in the history of Seattle with quite such precautionary measures against fire as are being taken at the new Grand Trunk Pacific dock, the substructure of which has just reached completion. The new dock will be ready for traffic in July, within a year of the time when fire destroyed the original structure. If it is within the power of the Grand Trunk officials to prevent it, fire will never again make such ravages on their Seattle property.

Just the length of the former structure, the new dock will have even a greater capacity, with improved arrangement and interior design. There are fire walls each 160 feet, and provision for sprinkler equipment. One of the unusual features is a hardwood driveway the entire length of the superstructure, composed of Australian ironwood.

When completed the new dock and buildings will take efficient care of the greatly increasing coastal trade which the Grand Trunk Pacific does with its fine fleet of steamers between southern and northern ports, including Prince Rupert and Alaska.

SEWING CLASS OF STONE CHURCH MEETS

Annual gathering of children and teachers a success — Many present — Prizes awarded.

The annual gathering of the sewing class of St. John's (Stone) church, held last evening in the schoolroom, was attended by nearly two hundred children. Children from all denominations were present by invitation, and a very pleasant time was spent by all. Many members of the mothers' meeting, besides the teachers of the sewing class, and other ladies interested were in attendance.

The proceedings opened with a chorus entitled "The Cobbler." This was particularly well rendered by the children, Miss Do Soyres accompanying. Mrs. Kubring then read the pretty story of "The Black Beauty." This, with the lantern as an accessory, was much enjoyed by the young people. Mrs. Walter Foster afterwards distributed prizes for sewing, knitting and other domestic work as follows: Mrs. R. Hooper's class, Madeline Snodgrass; Mrs. R. Skinner's class, Viola Giggrey; Miss De Vebor's class, Dorothy Keirstead; Miss Kerr's class, Irene Moore; Miss de Soyres' class, Blanche Grant; Mrs. Nasse's class, Lillian Loeb; Miss Hattie Nugent's class, Ruth MacRae; Miss Stetson's class, Rowena Griddle; Miss Bates' class, Madeline Rosseter; Miss Constance McGivern's class, Margaret Caffy; Miss Fairweather's class, Loretta Boome and Marjorie Ellison.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation by the mothers' meeting of flowers to those interested in the work of the sewing class, including the following: Miss Clara McGivern, Miss Sadler, Miss Kaye, Miss Wood, Mrs. R. I. Patchell and Rev. Mr. Jarvis.

Refreshments were provided for the children and others present.

JAPAN IS ASSISTING ALLIES IN MANY WAYS

More than $100,000,000 worth already undertaken — 2,000,000 pairs of Army Boots and 2,000,000 yards of Khaki for Russians, besides Arms and Ammunition, Copper, Explosives and Food-stuffs — 500,000 men ready, any time, if needed

Tokio.—Though Japan has not yet decided to send troops to the assistance of the allies in Europe, she is none the less still rendering them effective service, perhaps even more so than she could be attempting the dispatch of an expeditionary force to the other side of the world. The immense significance of what Japan has done for the cause in her expedition to the Teuton from Asia is more or less fully realized, but the work she is now doing is not so well known. Her feet is still scouring the South Seas, as well as keeping a sharp eye on the German ships interned in the Philippines. But Japan's greatest and most practical assistance is in the way of furnishing war supplies.

Already Japan has undertaken to all orders to the value of more than 100,000,000 yen, with more still to come. At this moment thousands of Germans are falling before Japanese bullets fired from Japanese rifles; and though the arms are in Russian hands none the less are they the output of Japanese industry and labor desiring to assist in prosecuting the war to a successful issue. She has also supplied Russia with guns and ammunition, and several Japanese officers are with the Russian armies, the assistance of whom will not be despised. Japan is also filling orders from Russia for some 2,000,000 pairs of army boots, which will keep every factory and shoe shop in the empire busy for the next six months.

Foods as Well as War Material Supplied.

Within the last few weeks thousands of tons of wheat, oats, beans and peas have left Japanese ports for England and France. The great loads of leather that one sees moving over the streets in the capital and other cities are destined for the use of the little shops where the material is made into trappings for horses and soldiers. The woolen mills of Japan will be fully occupied for months to come in filling orders for more than 2,000,000 yards of khaki from Russia; and it is said there are orders also from Britain. The inexhaustible resources of Japan's copper mines are being freely drawn upon to supply Britain and France as well as Russia with war materials, while some 12,000 tons of nitrate, imported from Chili, were forwarded to Russia last week. Thus, in numerous ways Japan is helping to feed, clothe, and equip the armies of the allies and thereby hastening their battles quite as effectively as she would by sending troops to the European fighting line.

Of course the help is not all one-sided. The money which these large army orders are bringing into the country is Japan's principal source of revenue on decreased imports, and the depression and tightness of the money market, as well as to make up in some measure for her unfavorable balance of trade. Judging from expressions of opinion in commercial circles the income from execution of war orders will go far toward balancing the loss of revenue on decreased imports, and there is no doubt that all Britain has to do is to say the word, and with incredible celerity the veterans of Japan to the number of half a million or more, will appear on either side of the European battlefield. At any rate, it is well for Germany to keep in mind that even should she by any possibility exhaust the Allies, she would still have Japan to reckon with. Japan, no less than her allies, is ready to risk all rather than see the Teutonic triumph. Japan would rather settle with Germany now than postpone the contest till such time as Germany is better prepared.

Not can the Allies fail to appreciate Japan's help in other ways. Japanese subscriptions to the Prince of Wales's Fund have been liberal, especially in view of having to subscribe very generously to the funds of France, Belgium and Russia as well. Moreover, the Japanese contribution to Queen Mary's Guild for the assistance of soldiers and sailors and their dependents has been large; and assisted as it was by liberal gifts from foreigners in Japan, notably British and American subjects, the Japanese contribution to Queen Mary's Guild has been worthy of note. The money gifts have been as generous as circumstances of foreigners and Japanese would allow.

Lord Kitchener, who went to Liverpool the other day to review Lancashire regiments recruited for his new army, made there his first acquaintance with the "bantam battalions," and is said to have been particularly well pleased with them.

SOLDIERS AND POLICE HAD A LIVELY TIME

Attempt to Arrest Andrew Stevens Led to General Mix-up — Officers Will Punish Disorderly Men.

There was no little excitement on Charlotte street last night between 9.30 and ten o'clock, there was fighting, plenty of threats, a great amount of bad language, considerable drunkenness, and, to cap the climax, soldiers mobbed the police, captured a prisoner, assaulted the policeman, nearly caused a riot, took little or no notice of a military guard, and the final windup was the placing under arrest of Thomas Madden, a soldier who was one of the guard who carried his side arms, and, it is said smashed Sergeant Charles Rankine on the face.

It was about 9.30 o'clock when the first disturbance took place. Andrew Stevens, a soldier in one of the corps in the city, got into an altercation with a civilian near the corner of Charlotte and North Side of King Square. Blows were exchanged and Deputy Chief of Police Fred Jenkins placed the soldier under arrest. As soon as he was arrested two other soldiers named Harding and Robert Stevens interfered. A military guard was near at the time and one of the guard was Thomas Madden, who is credited with having been arrested on a couple of occasions for bad conduct. There were many soldiers about at the time and there was a general rush for the policemen. The soldiers a number of them young fellows, under the influence of liquor, were joined by a large crowd of civilians and all pushed about in a whirling mob.

Police Sergeant Charles Rankine happened to be handy at the time and he hastened to the assistance of the Deputy Chief, and stated that when they reached the head of King street they were mobbed by the soldiers, and Thomas Madden not only interfered with him but struck him on the face.

By this time there were nearly five hundred people crowding the streets. Policeman Gill also put in an appearance, but the soldiers pummeled the local policemen at will. Andrew Stevens, who was under arrest for fighting, was soon taken away from the officers.

There was nothing left for the policemen to do but get away the best way they could, as the odds were too much against them. A telephone message was sent into police headquarters and Policemen Kane, Elliott and Hunter were sent to the scene. Officers Algie and Storm were also summoned from their beats, but there was nothing to do but to attempt to disburse the crowd blocking the street and sidewalks.

About 9.50 o'clock Sergeant Rankine located the man Madden who had assaulted him and with the assistance of Policeman Storm placed him under arrest. The crowd closed in again on the policeman and Police Officer Elliott and others assisted in the arrest by keeping the crowd back while Madden was being taken through the King Square to central police station. A crowd of hundreds pushed and made a great disturbance, oaths were howled out at the policeman and the military guard who were present could do nothing. Policeman Elliott was struck several times on the head and neck and injured slightly. Sergt. Rankine had his coat torn and he was kicked finally locked up there was a very large crowd in front of the police station.

A member of the military guard attempted to quiet some of the men who were swearing and using vile language, with the result that these "rough necks" called the members of the guard bad names and offered to fight them. It was some time before the guard moved away and one by one the crowd departed. A number of law abiding soldiers who were in the crowd moved away in disgust and it was after 10.30 o'clock before the crowd disbursed.

Officers of the military corps concerned were communicated with last evening and in conversation with The Standard said they were determined to stop any and all acts of lawlessness by men in uniform. "The offenders in this case will be summarily treated" was the decision. "We do not want such men in the uniform."

MEETING OF GERMAN STREET BROTHERHOOD

Good work told of at annual gathering — Reports presented and addresses given.

The annual meeting of the German St. Baptist Brotherhood was held last evening in the Institute, a large number of activity was reported. The president, Com. Wigmore, was in the chair. During the evening refreshments were served by the Girls' Guild of the church under the superintendence of Miss Kate Dishart. Dr. W. F. Roberts gave an interesting address on medical inspection of schools which was followed by a discussion. A resolution favoring school inspection from the medical standpoint and urging further consideration of this important subject was adopted unanimously.

W. F. Burditt reported for the committee on free kindergartens, children's aid and the playgrounds. H. G. Marr presented the report of the entertainment committee which showed that valuable work had been done in connection with the provision of entertainment and accommodation for the soldiers upon distinctly useful lines. The report showed that the rooms set apart for their use had been well patronized. F. T. Lewis presented the statistical report. Rev. F. S. Porter, in an entertaining address, reviewed the work of the past year. W. F. Nobles reported for the social committee calling attention to the benefits derived from the monthly gatherings of the Brotherhood. Good progress was reported in all departments of the work of the Brotherhood.

PEOPLE OFTEN SAY "How Are We To Know When The Kidneys Are Out Of Order?"

EASIEST THING IN THE WORLD!

The location of the kidneys, close to the small of the back, renders the detection of kidney trouble a simple matter. The note of warning comes from the back. The kidneys become overtaxed and fail to do their work at nature's call. Backache is the signal sent out by the kidneys the minute they become overtaxed. Those who heed the warning when it first comes, usually have but little trouble.

The danger lies in delay. Doan's Kidney Pills stimulate the action of the kidneys, and enable them to perform their duty perfectly.

Mrs. Greg Murphy, Lower Ship Harbor, East, N. S., writes: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills in my family with great success, and don't think there is a better pill for the kidneys. I was very miserable with my back, and could hardly get about. I got a box, and tried them, and found that they were really good, so I took in all about six boxes, and soon found my back cured, and my kidneys as well as ever."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; for sale at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

sling of flour, said sling was caused to swing past its usual landing place by which continuing keeping a strain on the sling when the fall should have been slack, and by the boom being guyed too far over the hatch. We consider that there should be some principal of safety first adopted among the "longshoremen" as in this instance the danger was quite evident, and there was nothing done to obviate it, also our opinion is that two gangs should not be allowed to work on one gangway.

Lord Haldane, speaking in London the other day after a war lecture by Sir A. C. Doyle, said that the time came, after the heroic stand of the Belgians, when the enemy met a British army, the commander-in-chief of which, to his intimate personal knowledge, had been studying the possibilities of this position five years before it occurred. They all hoped it would not be necessary to send an expeditionary force to the continent, but Sir John French's chief interest, as commander of that force, was the problem he would have to face, and he had given the closest study of his life to it. Sir John had an army of men who had been trained for four or five years—the finest troops in the world—and during that retreat from Mons nothing but a force in the highest state of discipline, led by a man with a thorough grasp of the situation and knowing what he meant to accomplish, could have brought off that retreat under the extraordinary conditions and in the face of overwhelming numbers.
