CURRENT TRADE CONDITIONS.

ONTARIO.

The information which comes from Ottawa that a contract has been closed for the purchase of a quantity of deals of next season's production for export at an advance over the prices of one year ago is regarded in a favorable light by the lumber trade. The manufacturers in the Ottawa Valley seem to be a unit in demanding higher prices for their lumber, such demand being based upon the heavy advance in the cost of production. They argue that it is absolutely necessary for manufacturers to obtain an advance in prices if they are to come out with a reasonable margin of profit. In contrast to the conditions in the Georgian Bay district, the higher grades of lumber are in a particular demand in the Ottawa Valley and manufacturers generally are sold up closely. In Western Ontario by far the greater activity pertains to the lower grades, which have been moving steadily for some time past. Should conditions become such as to bring about a weakening of the lumber market, it would probably be first reflected in the better grades. So long as the local consumption continues in such a healthy condition, however, there is little fear of any decided drop in prices. The hardwood market maintains its stability. It is generally believed that stocks in the hands of the factories are low and that the buying which has been in evidence
