

whenever in camp or garrison on duty with Her Majesty's troops of the Regular Army, they will pay similar compliments, according to rank, to the Departmental and Regimental officers therein.

GUARDS, PIQUETS AND SENTRIES.

24. When Guards of Honour are detailed to attend on His Excellency the Governor General, or at State Ceremonials, they are to consist, as a general rule, of 100 rank and file, with a Captain in command, two subalterns one carrying the 1st color, a proportion of Sergeants, and when practicable, a Band.

25. No officer, who is not dressed in uniform, is entitled to the compliment of a guard turning out. The several members of the Royal Family, and His Excellency the Governor General are excepted from this rule.

26. To the Governor-General, all guards are to turn out with presented arms, and beat a ruffle or sound a flourish.

27. Guards are at all times to turn out and pay the compliments to General Officers in uniform. General officers meeting guards on the march are also entitled to the usual salute in passing.

28. To Commanding officers of Battalions or Corps, their regimental guards are to turn out and
