

reminded Jesus told him that he lacked one thing and when Jesus told him what it was, he refused to do it, and went away from Christ, he made what Saints call, "the great refusal".

I hope, my dear Millie, that you will not make this great refusal that you will not refuse to give yourself to the Saviour and follow him. It is said that Jesus knew this young man loved him; and He loves you too and wishes you to follow Him as your great Teacher, and Saviour & Master.
I shall be much pleased to hear from you at any time. I hope you are all well and happy at Woodville.

With much love from me in kindest regards to your Father, Mother, Bella Jennie & all as before.
Yours very truly, J. J. King

My dear Millie

I was very glad to get your interesting letter and I would like to have answered it sooner but I have been very busy. I was able to get about a week ago a copy of the Mount World, sent me by your Father. Please say to your Father that I am much obliged to him for his kindness in sending me the World but I had seen the paper before his
