

where we wished to stay over, on our way home, so with many feelings of regret we parted from the kind friend, whose acquaintance we had formed during our stay here, being the first convention that many of us had ever attended. We were delighted at the courteous manner in which we were received by our brother conductors and their estimable ladies who were from all over the American Union, some even hailing from the shores of the Pacific Ocean. Rest assured the memory of this trip shall ever remain engraved on the minds of the boys from Canada, and, if the opportunity should ever present itself, they shall never be found wanting to further the interests of the "Old Reliable Insurance Association of the U. S. and Canada." Long may it live and flourish, is the sincere wish of

EUGENE MCKENNA.
