Mayor Maguire, of Syracuse, N. Y., in a letter to the Catholic Sun of that place, written from Santa Fe, N. M., speaks as follows of the Right Rev. Lawrence Scanlan, D. D., Bishop of Sault Like City, Utah; "I have Sault Like City, Utah; "I have talked much while here with Bishop Scanlan about his varied experiences and hardships of forty years' minister-ing to the miners, ranchmen, Mexican and Indians of the Great Divide. and Indians of the Great Divide.
Bishop Samlan, yet young and rugged, has charge of the largest Cath olic diocese in area in the United States. He has ridden on horseback two thousand miles on a single trip
when these ware no relivence in the when there were no railroads in this vicinity. A ride of fifty or sixty miles in a single day to outpost missions was not uncommon; and, when horses were difficult to procure, he has been known to walk twenty or thirty miles in a single day across the plains or Once when the savage mountains. Once when the savage Apache Indians were on the warpath, in 1868, before they were finally sub-dued Bishop Scanlan, then a young priest, was walking over the plains when he beheld a cloud of dust in the Behind the cloud were seen a band of ferocious Apaches, the most cruel and treacherous tribe of Indians known to the Western pioneer. As the Indians approached, mounted on horses, covered with war paint and decorated with feathers, and armed with rifles, they formed a circle, hemming Father Scanlan in the centre. Suddenly several of the Indians recog-nized Father Scanlan as the young Initial priest who had so often visited their Indian missions. They paused, left an opening in the circle through which Father Scanlan penetrated, and he was allowed to walk off in safety,

THE SISTER OF MERCY.

From the New Orleans Picayune. The Sister of Mercy! Who among the thousands in this city do not know those humble, black-garbed nuns who quietly walk the streets day in and day out, on their charitable and godly errands? Among the poor and lowly, in the homes of extraction and misery heads at the head. of starvation and misery, beside the bed-side of the sick and dying, up and down rickety stairs of old tenement houses, in the prisons, the jale, anywhere and everywhere that the voice of soff-ring calls, there comes in humility, charity and devotion the Sister of Mercy. In the school-room, training young souls to a knowledge and love of God, while heart knowledge and love of God, while near and mind are filled with that thought and learning that alone can be called real cul-ture, sits the Sister of Mercy. In the asylums, gathering in the little helpless waifs of a great world, feeding and cloth-ing them and taking the place of the parents who have been taken from them by death or a fate worse than death, there, too, you will find these gentle, earnest daughters of the Church, giving and spending themselves, off-ring up in daily sacrifice the golden chalice of their existence, the luscions wine in purple flow pressing over the brim as they drink in draughts of divine love, while still the heart thirsts for more work to do, for greater love and greater compassion for human rents who have been taken from them er love and greater compassion for human misery and human wee, for the sake of Him who loved the world so much, who is the hallowed and precious prize that their souls long to inherit-the Bride groom who alone can claim their hearts.

The moment that is flying holds more eternity than all our past, and the future holds none at all. — Father

ARCHDIOCESE OF KINGSTON.

Last week four magnificent stained glass windows were placed in St. Mary's church, Chesterville, being gifts of generous people of the parish. Everyone is charmed with them and they reflect great credit on the manufacturers, the N. T. Lyon, Glass Co., Toronto.

The first window, "The Annunciation," is the gift of Mrs. Patrick C. Hughes, erected to the memory of her husband and son. The second, §"The Visitation," is the gift of Mr. Patrick Chambers and wife, Bridgid, in memory of their parents and children. The third. "The Nativity," is the gift of Miss Catherina Coyne, in memory of other parents and uncle, and the fourth, "The Presentation in the Temple," is the gift of Mr. Thomas Moran, in memory of his parents.

In the course of his remarks on Sunday.

the fourth, "The Presentation in the Temple," is the gift of Mr. Thomas Moran, in memory of his parents.

In the course of his remarks on Sunday, Father, Quinn praised the generous impulses that inspired the donors to give back part of their substance for the decoration of God's holy house, thereby showing that they are in heritors of the noble, self sacrificing spirit that possessed their forefathers. "These windows," he said, "will serve as a perpetual reminder to the children of the parish of the generosity and faith of the good people who presented them; and as an example to the rising generation to give liberally to the House of God." Another friend of the parish, whose name will be mentioned later, has kindly donated a stained glass window, which will be placed next year.

Another friend Mr. Lawrence Jordon, has donated a beautifulisanctuary lamp, in memory of his deceased wife, Ellen.

These expressions of faith on the part of the noble-hearted, generous people of the parish of Chesterville speak-loquently of their love of God and of His Temple and will no doubt be a stimulus to others to come and do likewise.

On Sunday, the 21st uit, the Rev. Father John O Brien, the beloved pastor of the Mission of Burgess and Bathurst, announced to his people he was about to lesve them. For the past two years and a half Father O'Brien labored amongst them, and he was held in high regard by his own people, as well as by other denominations. His kind and retiring manner and stering qualities won for him their respect and esteem. The constant prayer of his late parishioners will be that God may always bestow on him His choicest blessings. Father O'Brien left last week for Belleville, where he entered on his new duties Sunday

Rev. Father McBrady then advanced and delivered a powerful, eloquent, interesting and instructive lecture, which held the closest attention of his auditors during its delivery for over an hour. He began by commenting on the sublimity of the mission with which Jesus entrusted His Appetles, when He told them: "Ye shall be my witnesses to the ends of the earth," and in the words of St. Paul., "we are the helpers, the artisans of God." There could not be a higher or more glorious destiny than to realize in one's He one or the other of these sayings. To be a helper of God or to be a witness of Jesus Christ. to stand up for what is fair and true and good, for honor and for justice, should be the aim of every Christian. It seemed to him that, as he stood before the vast gathering, as he held out his hand for the uprearing of the Church, he was making their or hoped in the work. God has been such that the sum of the church, he was making the continuous of Jesus Christ by asking their to the internal happiness. He has made us partakers of the bleesings and graces of the Catholic Church, and we have a prospect of unending joy and peace in eternity. Was man to do nothing in return for such lavish hospitality? Yes: surely he should. So it comes to pass that we build churches and erect material edifices for the honor and worship of the Almighty, and these are called houses of God. There are, however, multitudes of men who scoff at our action in this regard. They would fain have us believe that the great Architect of the Universe should be worshipped solely in His works. None knew the contrary better than the child of the Catholic Church. We know that the whole universe is fashioned by His omnipotent hands for His own honor and glory. And we praise and thank and honor Him for His sitts. But God also wishes the material temple fashioned by man. After the fall of man a veil, a pail, hid Alimahi; God. was sone, we may be a shift the church sees of the honor and word was a sense, moral conscience falled.

build a temple worthy of Him. We need Jesus more than He needs us. How sad life would become if there were no Catholic churches standing open to us all theday long!—no tabernacie which we could visit; no pulpit to instruct us. The Catholic tample is the rendez yous for all classes of society. Jesus came to be the life and light of the world and He established His Church to teach all nations. Here in this fair city of London, sanctified by the blessing of Mother Church we are uprearing a temple in honor of Jesus Christ. This is one of our ways of cooperating in the salvation of souls for whom the Masteriabred and suffered and died. In conclusion Rev. Father McBrady made a touching and earnest appeal to the people to make the temple, the corner-stone of which that day was blessed, an honor to God and a monumed of our faith and gratitude and beauty if will be a centre of holy influence upon the souls of men bringing the time oloser touch with God. This church preach well, said he, at this word, the people of the souls of men bringing the sum of the souls of men bringing the sum of the same of the

The many friends in Ontario of Mr. P. J. McDonagh will be delighted to hear of the success with which he is meeting. Since 1895 he has held a position in the office of Mr. Onas, R. Hosmer, assistant secretary of C. P. R. telegraphs Montreal, but recently resigned to accept the position of private secretary to Sir Ghas. Ross, Bart. Sir Charles has been many years an extensive investor in Canadian manufacturing and mining properties and spends much of his time in Europe and the United States as well as in Canada. Mr. McDonagh was born in the town of Perth, Ontario, and received his education in the Separate and High schools of that place. We are pleased to know that he is meeting with the success he so richly deserves, and trust his new position may open up a wider field for his exceptional talents.

At the first meeting of the new Company, The Manufacturers and Temperance and General Life Assurance Crmpany, the repart presented by Mr. Junkin. the Managing Director, showed that the total business in force amounted to over twenty-six millions of dollars, a gain of nearly one million in six months.

CORRECTION.—Miss Nellie Irwin of the Holy Angels' School, London, obtained 879 marks at the recent examination for entrance to the Culegiate Institute. A typographical error in the CATHOLIC RECORD last week had this young lady's number of marks as 695. We regret this mistake very much.

EJECTION BY COMPROMISE.

The following is related of an auctioneer who was provokingly annoyed, while in the exercise of his profession, by the ludicrous bids of a fellow whose sole object seemed to be to make a sport for the buyers, rather than himself to buy. At length, enraged beyond endurance, the knight of the hammer, looking around the room for a champion to avenge his wrongs, fixed his eyes upon a biped of huge dimensions, a very monarch in strength, and cried out:

"Marlow, what shall I give you to put that fellow out?"

"I'll take one sovereign."

"Done! You shall have it."

Assuming the ferocious, knitting his brows, spreading his nostril's like a lion's, and putting on the wolf all over his head and shoulders old Marlow strode off to the aggressor and seizing the terrified wretch by the collar, said to him in a whisper that was heard allower the room:

"My good friend, you go out with me and I'll give you half the money."

"Done! Done! cried the fellow.

"Harrah! Harrah!" shouted the audience.

THE UNIVERSITY OF OTTAWA. MARRIAGES.

DEE-MCCARTHY.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Bright's church, Logan, on Wednesday, June 25, at 9 o'clock, when Miss Ellen McCarthy and Mr. Nichoisa Dee were united in wedlock. Miss Lena Rutledgeof St. Mary's played the Queen's plate wedding march. The groom was assisted by John McCarthy, and the bridesmaid was Miss Annie Markey of Straford, while Miss Lizzie McCarthy was misid of honor. The bride was besutifully attired in pearl grey with hat to match, while the brides misid and maid of honor wore grey ladies cloth, trimmed with chiffon. After the ceremony was over the happy couple had wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's father, Jeremiah McCarthy. They left for their future home in Chicago. The many costly and beautiful presents which they received show the high esteem in which the bride was held. All join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Dee a bon voyage through life.

MRS. PATRICK CHAMBERS, CHESTERVILLE,
The death of Mrs. Patrick Chambers took place at her residence, Chesterville, on Tuesday, 23 July. She was for a considerable time in delicate health, so her death, after a few days' severe illness, borne with admirable patience and fortitude, was not unexpected by her friends. Deceased was an old and respected inhabitant of the town, and was held in deserved esteem by all who knew her. She came to this country over fifty years ago with her husbandfrom near Newport, Co. Mayo, and resided here almost ever since. Coming as she did from the shades of the old Dominican monastery of Barisole, she brought with her the Imperishable faith of which the old monastery is a standing monument, and well she preserved until her death. She was a living example all her life of the grand old Catholic faith in it liveliest form, her last act being to join with her husband in presenting a memorial window to St, Mary's church.

The funeral, which took place on Thursday to the tamily burial place at Limerick, was very large, and included a number of friends and sympathizers from the parish of Crysler who came long distances to pay a last tribute
of respect to the deceased, and to sympathize;
with her husband in his sorrow. The chief mourners were: Mr. Charles Chambers (son), Mrs. Grady, Chicago (daughter), MessraThomas, James and John Moran (brothers), Mrs. Patrick C. Hughes (only sister).
High Mass was solemniz ad by Rev. Father
Quinn, after which he paid well-deserved
may she rest in peace!

THE PRESENT AGE.

If there is one thing more than other trying to one's nerves, in weather especially, it is the fuls laudation of present day condition Our age has undoubtedly many cla to our admiration, but they should be allowed to lead us into meaning eulogy. We have our defects, and civilization, though bedizened twentieth century trappings, is no great and glorious thing describe the journalist and platform or And we are sure that with a litt the sturdiness of past ages in ma of faith, of their reverence for au ity, of their accuracy in statement sane views of life's duties, our lasting repetition of superla might have some justification.

CHILDREN AND THE STA

Sometime ago we had something say about youngsters on the s They generally make their ar ance at entertainments for charity or other, and are duly hai an audience of delighted " mam It gives them self possession an velops a talent for public spec And then then the worthy object know! It never seems to strik kind of a parent that the object be helped just as well by the n for instance, that is expended of stage-dress of their precociou spring. Of one thing, however, we a suaded -that stage-appearances have no place in the upbring children. When they come to ity they can turn their atten various spheres of idiocy, but i early years they ought to b guarded from influences that m oftimes do, hurt mind and soul

THE CHURCH AND E TION.

Now that meetings of educa being held in different section country, Catholics should look educational record. Too often low the public to be beguiled lieving that we have no pa educational progress of and that modern meth pedagogy are due to antism. We hear that evinced the greatest respec school teacher and interest in cation of the young. We do it : but Luther's ideas about were gleaned from his Aug teachers. All that he adve this matter had been in vogu turies before him. We hear of Froebel, and little if at all of [St de la Salle. W remember that the Catholic s been in evidence for years never at any stage of the w tory been proved valueless. linked the educational glo
