RECONSTRUCTING ARMIES.

By Courier Leased Wire

Paris, Sept. 18.—French Government officials are supervising the return of residents to Amiens, which was almost completely evacuated after the German offensive last March. The first to be admitted to the city were artisans, who were organized to repair damaged houses and buildings shattered by shell fire.

One house in every twenty-five has been found damaged. The cathedral was hardly affected by the bombardment, having been hit by only three shells. The works of art and sculptures in the edifice were not harmed.
