A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear akin—glowing with health—lis only lie natural result of pure Blood.
"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring Rasis, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using "Fruitatives" for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without "Fruita-tives".

But handkerchiefe! There was a But handkerchiefe! There was a time, not so very many years ago, when they were the appurtenances of wealth. Sully comments gravely upon the fact that Henry of Navarre, who, for asking, was uncommonly poor, made a most extravagant use of handkerchiefs when he had a bad cold to his head. Now they are eagerly saked for by peasant soldiers; and the American doctor who records the petition gives it his cordial indorsement. When you want a handkerchief at all, he writes, 'you want to try much, A good blow is a good.

SUFFERING FROM COLD

If you shiver in frosty weather, if you have cold hands and feet, if colds are stubborn and frequent, then your blood may be thin and impoverished.

The lefter suggestive field for kind-ess at home as well as abroad. How hany of us realize the utter dearth of ness at home as well as abroad. How many of us reelize he unter-dearth of occupations or amusements in the almshouses of the United States? We take pride in the equipment of our prisons—in their libraries and base-ball fields, in their bands and concerts. But paupers too often seem outside the pale of human interest or sympathy. The men and women in the offit wards of uany large almshouses have literally nothing to do, nothing to beguile one weary hour out of the weary day. An old woun out of the weary day. An old woun out of the weary day. An old woun out of the one weary hour out of the control of the large and desolate shelter into a home of the Little Slaters of the Poor, was filled with delight and wonder at finding what she called a library—three shelves of worn books, mostly devotional, and a couple of magazines and newspapers. It made all the difference to her between human surroundings and a cattle pen.

What an easy matter it would be to send a few simple story books, a few old periodicals (with pictures) to the out wards of our neglected alushou.

s! And when Christmas comes a box of the ten cent mechanical toys solby street vendors would give a wort of pleasure. These are; the toys tha of pleasure. These are the toys that children love the best, and many goor old people are nearing the simpleci-ties of second childhood. A wriggling ties of second childhood. A wrightly spider, a somersaniting monkey, rejockey rising and falling on his titnorse—all the bumble and v vaccous playthings that delight the childwill bring pleasure to old age. The pauper's enjoyment is starpened by his life's intolerable ennui.

The Service of Little Things.

A young American doctor, who writes from Le Pay in France, says that, although hospital supplies of every kind are needed for the wound ed solders in the six war hospitals in that lovely little tows, the three thisgs that are most gratefully received are tobacco, games and handkerchiefs. And he adds that, of these three luxuries, handkerchiefs are most in deuand.

Such an appeal throws a new light on the value of nonessentials in cheering and comforting the untortunate. It is not to be decided that in many cases the tobacco habit is an extrawagant and unwholesome indulgence.
