His Lordship Bishop McDonald, blessed the new cemetery at St. Margaret's, on Sunday last. He was assisted by the pastor, Rev. A. Kelly, Canon, Dr. Morrison and Rev. J. C. McLean. On Thursday evening last a full-pledged Chinaman arrived in the city, from Montreal, having crossed over from the Mainland the same day in the Northumberland. Last Friday evening as the express train was about leaving North Westville for Charlottetown an old lady named Crow, who had accompanied the express, slipped and fell between the moving train and the station platform. Conductors Kelly, Gellan, and He was notified the accident, and with commendable presence of mind, took hold of the old lady and held her down until the train passed. Had she been allowed to move she would have been crushed to death. As none of the other train hands or of the passengers saw what took place the train went on and it was not until Corville siding, about three miles further on, was reached, that the conductor and brakeman were missed. Driver Armour put back with the engine to look for the missing man and met him about half way coming along on a trolley. Were it not for the promptness and presence of mind displayed by Gellan, Kelly, and the brakeman, we would in all probability have a repetition of the Koberlein disaster to chronicle.

The second of the monthly exercises in aid of the poor, under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, took place in St. Patrick's Hall on Thursday evening last. Professor Caven presided. The hall was crowded, the programme presented was very good and was much enjoyed by the audience. The soloists were Mrs. Roomie, Miss Jessie Smith, Mr. Frank Traipor, and Mr. Charles Harman, and so highly pleased were the audience with their singing that each of the singers was enthusiastically applauded. The vocal duet by Miss Callaghan and Miss Coady was also heartily enjoyed. Readings were given by Mr. James H. Reddin, and Mr. John McPherson, and so highly appreciated. Mr. McPherson's excellent rendition of the broad Scotch dialect causing much merriment. The piano was played by Miss Jessie Handrahan and Miss Annie Payne, and the piano solo of Miss Handrahan was especially much enjoyed. The recitations of Miss Florrie Blake and Miss Callaghan were of a very high order and that they were only appreciated by the audience was manifested by the rapturous applause with which they were greeted. The accompaniment was given by Miss Lucy Caven and Mr. Blanchard. The members of the conference of St. Vincent de Paul desire to return their sincere thanks to those who took part, and to all who attended and made the entertainment a success in every particular. They will be most pleased to see all their friends at the next entertainment on the 30th of December, when they hope to present a first-class programme. So as to avoid the inconvenience to which some were subjected last time on account of the crowd, additional seats will be put into the hall and everything will be done for the comfort of those who patronize the entertainment.
