CHAPTER XXXVI. A YEAR'S FAREWELL.

THE trials of France were ended. Colonel Childes wore his honors gravely and modestly. His bravery had been rewarded as greatly as lay in the power of a nation. His name was not alone cleared from shame, but was laurel-crowned. The great novelist was the battle's hero. Every paper published stories of his life. Those who had regarded him as an unpunished criminal now called him martyr.

Miss Beaufort, also, was not without her share of well merited praise. The beauty of the 'American Duchess,' her tenderness and care of the wounded and dying, were loudly praised.

But it was all over and done with now. France was being soothed to rest in the lap of her own misery. The Americans had done what they could, and the steamer that sailed from Liverpool upon a certain Saturday bore Donald Quintard, his wife and daughter, Miss Beaufort, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quintard, who had been married in London.

Childes was to follow some time later, but had accompanied them as far as Liverpool, taking leave of Miss Beaufort in her own sitting room at the hotel.

"It is cruel that you do not go with us," she said, softly, as he held both her hands at parting. "America should have an opportunity to show her appreciation for the gallant soldier who has risked such credit upon her."

"Your words are sweeter to me than those of a nation," he said gently, "but it is much better that I should not go yet. You know my weakness, Duchess, and I dare not place myself in the face of temptation. I am a poor man again now, you know, compelled to struggle with life."

"It is very hard for you!" "No; oh, no! How should I ever spend these long, weary months without suffering terrible pains from his kidneys."

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Dr. Boyel's Herb Tablets.

They help the kidneys to flush out the acids and poisonous impurities which have collected in the clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Mr. C. Jordan of Port Sandfield, writes as follows: "Gentlemen:— It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Dr. Boyel's Herb Tablets. I suffered terribly from kidney disease for three years, which trouble I contracted from exposure while working at my trade which is carpentering. I was advised to try your medicine. I am thankful to say that I am now completely cured, and I can truly recommend this medicine to all sufferers from this painful disease."

Thankfully yours, C. JORDAN.

THE MARCH ASSIZE.

Something more than half a century ago, a person, in going along Holborn, might have seen, near the corner of one of the thoroughfares which diverge towards Russell Square, the respectable-looking shop of a glover and haberdasher named James Harvey, a man generally esteemed by his neighbors, and who was usually considered well to do in the world. Like many London tradesmen, Harvey was originally from the country. He had come up to town when a poor lad, to push his fortune, and by dint of steadiness and civility, and a small property left him by a distant relation, he had been able to get into business on his own account, and to attain the most important element of success in London—a connection. Shortly after setting up in the world, he married a young woman from his native town, to whom he had been engaged ever since his school-days; and at the time our narrative commences he was the father of three children.

James Harvey's establishment was one of the best frequented of its class in the street. You could never pass without seeing customers going in or out. There was evidently not a little business going forward. But although, to all appearance, a flourishing establishment, the proprietor of the shop was surprised to find that he was continually plucked in his circumstances. No matter what was the amount of business transacted over the counter, he never got any richer.

At the period referred to, shop-keeping had not attained that degree of organization, with respect to counter-men and cashiers, which now distinguishes the great houses of trade. The primitive till was not yet superseded. This was the weak point in Harvey's arrangements; and not to make a needless number of words about it, the poor man was regularly robbed by a shopman, whose dexterity in pitching a guinea into the drawer, so as to make it jump, unseen with a jerk into his hand, was worthy of Herkule Poirot, or any other master of the sublime art of jugglery.

Good-natured and unsuspecting, perhaps also, not sufficiently vigilant, Harvey was long in discovering how he was pillaged. Cartwright, the name of the person who was preying on his employer, was not a young man. He was between forty and fifty years of age, and had been in various situations, where he had always given satisfaction, except on the score of being somewhat gay and somewhat irritable. Privately, he was a man of loose habits, and for years his extravagances had been paid for by property fraudulently abstracted from his too-confiding master. Slow to believe in the reality of such wickedness, Mr. Harvey could with difficulty entertain the suspicions which began to dawn on his mind. At length all doubt was ended. He detected Cartwright in the very act of carrying off goods to a considerable amount. The man was tried at Old Bailey for the offence, but through a technical informality in the indictment, acquitted.

Unable to find employment, and with a character zone, the liberated thief became savage, revengeful, and desperate. Instead of imputing his fall to his own irregularities, he considered his late unfortunate employer as the cause of his ruin; and now he

This will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry. Save 52 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses quickly conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, is no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

Animated by these diabolical passions, Cartwright proceeded to his work. Harvey, he had good reason to believe, was in debt to persons who had made him advances; and by means of artfully concocted anonymous letters, vividly written by some one conversant with the matters on which he wrote, he succeeded in alarming the haberdasher's creditors. The consequences were—demands of immediate payment, and, in spite of the debtor's explanations and promises, writs, easy law expenses, ruinous articles and ultimate bankruptcy. It may seem almost too marvellous for belief, but the story of this terrible revenge and its consequences is no fiction.

Very incident in my narrative is true the whole may be found in narrative in the records of the courts which a few years ago I was familiar.

The humiliated and distressed feelings of Harvey and his family may be left to the imagination. When he found himself a ruined man, I dare say his mental sufferings were sufficiently acute. Yet he did not sit down in despair. To reestablish himself in business in England appeared hopeless; but America presented itself as a scene where industry might find reward; and by his kindness of some friends, he was enabled to make preparations to emigrate with his wife and children. Towards the end of February he quitted London for one of the great seaports, where he was to embark for Boston. On arriving there, he took up his abode at a principal hotel. This, a man of strained means, was doubtless imprudent; but he afterwards attempted to explain the circumstance by saying, that as the ship was to sail on the day after his arrival, he had preferred incurring a light additional expense rather than

There is a reason for this, Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills was an awakener the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effected a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system.

Mr. S. J. Argue, Kara, Carleton, Co. Ont., writes:—"I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit. I wish to say, however, that I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a splendid medicine as they have proven of very great value to me."

Zybo Failed to Throw Deriaz.

Deriaz, the Swiss wrestler, easily won the handicap match against Zybo, the Pole, recently at Solmer Park. Zybo had agreed to throw his opponent three times in an hour, but in this he failed badly, not being able to even put Deriaz's shoulders to the mat once. The Pole was away of condition. Instead of the 235 pounds that he should weigh when in the pink, he scaled 250 last night, and had quite evidently not recovered from the effects of the sea voyage. In the first thirty minutes Deriaz, on sufferance, several times took the offensive but could do nothing. After a brief rest on the mat Zybo walked easily out of a hold at the thirty minute stage. Deriaz began to come stronger while the forty minute stage showed Zybo plainly weakening. The perspiration was pouring down his face and his wind was bad. In the last ten minutes Deriaz gained confidence before his formidable

Three Children Perish.

Buchanan, Sask., Nov. 8.—Word was reached here of the death by suffocation of three children of A. Todd during the absence of their parents. The fire started in the wood box and when the mother came in from milking she found her six-months old baby dead under the bed in the main room, where it had been carried by a child only three or four years old, the eldest of the family. The second child died five hours later, and the distracted mother ran to two or three neighbouring houses imploring some one to go for a doctor, but no one responded. Word reached town the following day and a doctor went out, but was unable to save the life of the eldest child.

Kidney Suffering

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease. There is a reason for this, Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effected a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system. Mr. S. J. Argue, Kara, Carleton, Co. Ont., writes:—"I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit.
