If Men Did Women's Work.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

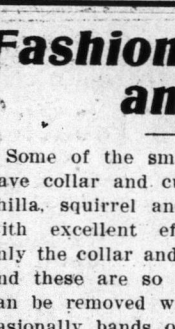

Don't you think it would be a grand thing, if for a short space of time—a month perhaps—every housewife in the land could leave her kitchen and her household and let the men folks do her work?
 If such a thing were possible, I think a great many good results would be brought to pass.
 One would be that some men would cease to wonder what their wives did with their time.
 Another would be that some men would realize that the money they have thought themselves generous in giving their wives was entirely inadequate pay for the work they have been doing.
 And another result—and this is the point which I want to bring out to-day especially—would be that much better equipments for housework would be immediately installed in the homes. For no man would put up for a month with the makeshifts and makeshifts which the average woman endures.
 One morning I chanced to be in the kitchen of a woman who does all the work for her family of eight. She was making the toast which is invariably part of their breakfast. In turning the toaster she dropped two pieces of bread and burned her hand getting them back. "I'm always doing that," she explained; "it's that horrid toaster. It's been broken for months and I ought to get a new one." And a new toaster would probably have cost about a quarter.
 I remember in our own kitchen an obstinate egg beater which struggled frantically against performing its duty. At a conservative reckoning it must have taken twice as long to beat an egg with that instrument of nerve torture as it should have. Yet we made shift with that miserable thing for at least a year. And you can get a good egg beater for twenty cents! The other day I assisted with the dish washing in a summer cottage. There was no scourer. There had not been any all summer. That meant that it had taken about three times as long to wash the pots and kettles every day. Again and again I have heard that woman complain that she didn't get as much time to be out of doors as she had hoped. And a scourer would cost ten cents!

 Housework is hard work at best; its infinite demands eat up an astonishing amount of time. All too many women have sad reason to quote—
 "Man's work is from sun to sun,
 But woman's work is never done."
 Surely then every housewife ought to have the best possible equipment. Sometimes their failure to do so is due to economy; sometimes it's just carelessness. It's its economy, it's false economy; if it's carelessness, it's very foolish and a waste of energy.
 Every woman owes it to herself and her family to have as much time for rest and recreation as possible. The intelligent, modern woman is coming to realize this and to know that perfect equipment will help her. A professor's wife who decided to enlarge her husband's income by doing her own work, at once perfected her regulation equipment and added to it a fireless cooker, a dish water and a vacuum cleaner.
 Men insist that they cannot do their work satisfactorily unless they have the best possible equipment.
 Why shouldn't women make the same demands?

Why Women Are Not Rich.

Man is a millionaire many times over in the possession of blood cells. Woman is not quite so rich for scientists have proven that the normal man has five million—the woman only four and a half million to a cubic millimetre of blood. A decrease in number of red blood corpuscles and a person "looks pale"—in fact, is anemic, the blood does not get the right food and probably the stomach is disordered.
 Dr. R. V. Pierce found years ago that a glyceric extract of golden seal and Oregon grape roots, queen's root and bloodroot with black cherrybark, would help the assimilation of the food in the stomach, correct liver ills and in Nature's own way increase the red blood corpuscles. This medicine he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By assisting the food eaten the system is nourished and the blood takes on a rich red color. Nervousness is only "the cry of the starved nerves for food," and when the nerves are fed on rich red blood the person loses those irritable feelings, sleeps well at night and is refreshed in the morning.
 "I was attacked with a severe nervous disease, which was caused by a disordered stomach and liver," writes Mr. JAC. D. LEVLEY, of Washington, D.C. "All my friends thought I would die and the best physicians gave me up. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's case had run so long, it had become so chronic that nothing would effect a permanent cure, but Dr. Pierce's medicine has done much for me and I highly recommend it. I heartily advise its use as a spring tonic, and further advise ailing people to take Dr. Pierce's medicine before their diseases have run so long that there is no chance to be cured."

Fashions and Fads.

Some of the smartest new suits have collar and cuffs of fur. Chinilla, squirrel and skunk are used with excellent effects. Frequently only the collar and revers are of fur, and these are so attached that they can be removed when required. Occasionally bands of fur are used on the skirt also.
 Lingerie is very important in the world of dress. Slips, petticoats, combinations and night dresses are made to match the dainty wardrobe of the well-dressed woman. Matinees of Japanese crepe are bought by every one. One of smoke color with a lining of blue chiffon is a model very much favored.
 Embroidery is very freely used. Lingerie dresses show combinations of embroidery flouncing, forming tunics or skirt draperies, is mounted on accord-pleated batiste or net foundation skirt. Allover embroidered batiste and cotton crepes form entire dresses.

 For evening coats, light-colored velvets, plushes, brocades, charmeuse and broadcloth are used. Most of these wraps have sleeves cut in, one with the body of the coat, or they are cut in with extremely large armholes. Some take the form of a cape. The idea in all cases is that they can be slipped on easily.
 The new frill arrangement, which bids fair to surpass the popularity of the side-frill styles, is the placing of the pleated frill down both sides of the front, the centre being a band of lace insertion or embroidery. The frills should be about three inches wide and extend down three-quarters of the waist front.
 Children's coats having the long straight line are most favored. They are made rather simply, many having adjustable collars and cuffs, which can be worn open or closed, as the weather demands. Serges, chevots, boucles, double-faced cloths, broadcloths, fancy mixtures, wool velours and ratines are the materials most used.
 Detachable coats of lace, which can be effectively worn over almost any kind of blouse or bodice, are being made in various shapes, some of them stopping short at the waist in bolero fashion, while others reach almost to the knees. They are held in at the waist by a draped band and bow of black satin ribbon.
 Blouses which match are no longer fashion's demand. In fact, word comes of the "latest cry" being taffeta. Frills furnish the pleated elbow sleeves and the taffeta collar in fichu shape is veiled with finest lace. The high draped giraffe of black satin is drawn through a silver buckle at the front.
 The evening dresses planned for the debutante this season combine simplicity with quaintness and are picturesque. One very pretty dress is made of cream voile de soie, hand-painted in blue and pink, the fichu or nino, bordered with a delicate garland of shaded pink roses, was caught together in front by a small twisted bow of soft pink satin.

 Some of the striking color combinations in gowns are tomato red with trimmings, sash, collar, buttons, and cuffs of black, king's blue charmeuse, with a giraffe of wide black satin and black malleine frills. Purple velvet with a large red velvet flower at the waist and touches of red around the neck. Flame-colored dress with taupe trimmings. A dress of turquoise blue with gold allover lace and black chiffon tunic embroidered in gold.

Out in First Round.

New York, Sept. 23.—Eddie McGorty, of Oshkosh, Wis., who claims to be the top notcher among middleweights, to-night made short work of Jack Harrison, champion of England, who holds the Longdale belt. After knocking out Dave Smith, the Australian champion, in the first round, three weeks ago, in the same ring to-night he knocked out the British champion in two minutes 55 seconds.
 The men weighed in at six p.m. at 160 pounds, and both were under weight at that hour, but at the ring-side McGorty weighed in at 165 and Harrison at 163. McGorty opened up with a right and left to the face, then staggered the Englishman with a left hook on the jaw. Keeping his man continually on the defensive, he sent right and left blows to the head and after smashing right to the face and a right upper cut under the chin, he knocked Harrison down for a count of nine. The Englishman got up groggy and McGorty chased him around the ring, landing three rights and three lefts in the head and with another left took put the Englishman down for a second time for a count of nine. As soon as Harrison was on his feet McGorty landed two straight lefts to the face and a right cross on the ear, knocked him with uppercuts, and then repeated with a left hook which sent the Englishman to the floor for the third and last time. He lay on his back in the middle of the ring while he was counted out, and had to be dragged to his corner. It was several minutes before his seconds were able to resuscitate him sufficiently to leave the ring.

'Cascarets' for a Sick, Sour Stomach.

Gently but thoroughly cleanse and regulate your Stomach, Liver and Bowels while you sleep.
 That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.
 Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—the little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.
