Big Demonstration
Saturday Night

By the East and West End Government Candidates.

Saturday night the Casino Theatre was packed to the doors with voters of the city, who are anxious to kill Cokerism and all that it stands for. The Hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and hundreds of voters failed to gain admittance. At 8 o'clock the meeting was opened with an address by Hon. Sir Michael Cashin, who spoke on the political situation, as it appeared on the 11th hour. Sir Michael dealt generally with the policy as outlined by his party, and the one outlined by the Coker combination. He exhorted his hearers to carefully consider the matter on polling day, and not be carried away by the false cries and fakery that had been used by the Opposition during the last few weeks. Without a policy they were endea-ouring to blindfold the people by cries "wolf," but he was sure that the intelligent electors of St. John's East and West, and the whole country would on polling day answer Coker and his candidates by voting up record majorities for the Government. Sir Michael was cheered to the echo when he arose to speak, and also as he scored each point. At the conclusion of his address, the building simply shook with cheering and hand-clapping. Hon. John R. Bennett, the leader of the Victory Trio of St. John's West, was the next speaker, and when he stepped forward there was an outburst of enthusiasm that lasted for several minutes. Hon. Mr. Bennett was brief in his remarks, and impressed upon the voters of St. John's East and West to roll up the straight ticket. Bennett, Mullaly and Martin, and Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox. Hon. Mr. Bennett was cheered every minute of his speech, and on concluding, the cheering could be heard for blocks around. Hon. Mr. Higgins, leader of the East End Liberal-Progressive team, being asked to address the gathering, was received with the wildest enthusiasm. Mr. Higgins also made a brief speech, which was punctuated with loud cheering and hand-clapping. He was followed by Mr. W. J. Walsh, of the Placentia team, who also was given a splendid reception. Mr. Walsh assured the voters that Placentia would return himself and colleagues by a sweeping majority, and asked St. John's to do likewise. Mr. Fox, of the East End team, in answer to a call from the gathering, also spoke briefly, his address being received with great enthusiasm. Sir Michael Cashin during the meeting read a number of messages from the different outposts, which proved absolutely that Cashin will come back. After the meeting a parade was held through the city, which was the largest ever seen here. Thousands took part, and for two hours walked through the town, the C.L.B., C.O.C. and T.A. Bands furnishing lively music. St. John's certainly did nobly Saturday night, and to-day will go over the top in its thousands, and vote six men for Cashin. Outport voters, made no mistake, St. John's West will return Bennett, Mullaly and Martin, and St. John's East, Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox.

FOLK WHO BUY SUITS BY THE HUNDREDS.

A lady film star has confessed to owning over 400 different costumes, many of which she has worn once only.

No lady of fashion would dream of possessing 100, let alone 400, dresses. She would not have time to wear half of them before the fashion had changed and they were out of date.

The only rivals to the film lady in respect of giant wardrobes are, it must be confessed, men. The most wonderful dressers of recent years were the late Lord Anglesey and the great Italian dramatist and flying man, Gabriele d'Annunzio.

Just before the war, d'Annunzio confessed to possessing seventy-two pairs of gloves, a hundred and fifty ties, forty-eight nightshirts, and seventy-two day shirts, twenty dozen handkerchiefs, about forty pairs of shoes, and between sixty and seventy suits of clothes.

Big as this list is, it is nothing compared to the wardrobe of Lord Anglesey, whose clothes, after his death, were auctioned in 900 different lots. Among them were thirty bath gowns and over forty dressing-gowns. There were a dozen smoking-suits, the jacket of one being made entirely of Persian lamb.

The waistcoats were numbered by the score, and were of silk, leather, wool, and costly furs.

As for boots and shoes, they were innumerable, and ranged from snow and skating boots and patent leather jack boots down to shoes of white crocodile leather. Incidentally, there were 200 overcoats.

But even Lord Anglesey's wardrobe failed in several respects to match that of the late Baron de Reuter. He left 100 dress suits and 150 pairs of spats.

For sheer value the clothes of George IV. hold a record. They were disposed of, after his death, for £15,000. Among these were all the coats which he had purchased during a period of very nearly half a century.

MONDAY, Nov. 3.

These sudden changes of temperature, these frosty nights and hard brisk days, these signs that winter is approaching, easily give point to our recommendation that it will be well for you to look over your hot water bottle and see if it shows such signs of wear that it may be necessary to consider getting a new one. If so, you can hardly do better than come in and see our stock, which is pretty extensive and varied, and from which you will have no difficulty in selecting a suitable and serviceable article, at a reasonable price. While we are on this subject we would say that we have also some combination Hot Water Bottles and Fountain Syringes, of great convenience for family use, which are also available for your inspection.

Coughs and Colds are very prevalent at present. Try Phorotone at STAFFORD'S, Theatre Hill.—oct6,11
