

...has the following—
...the Athens papers that ...having voted the union of
...with Greece, deputies have ...to represent it in the Greek
...Among those deputies is M.
...Flourens, who has been natur-
...by the provisional government, and ...has been furnished with full powers to ...out the plan of annexation. At Syra-
...deputies were received with enthusi-
...but when they reached the Piræus
...police endeavoured to prevent them
...landing. The attempt would appear ...to have been unsuccessful, for the Greece
...forms us that eight members of the de...legation has arrived in Athens. It adds:
—This event has caused, as might have —been expected, a profound impression in —Greece. The Hellenic people have wel—comed the Cretan deputies with enthusi—asm—have saluted in them the representa—tives of a kindred people, of a people which —will no longer separate its destinies from —those of Greece; and this fraternal wel—come has ratified the mutual sentiments of —disunity. The Hellenic press is occupied —with the question whether the Cretan de—puties ought to be admitted to the national —Parliament, and whether a people —which has proclaimed its union with —Greece has a right to be represented in —the Legislative Chamber. Nearly all the —papers trust to the wisdom of Parliament —and the Cabinet, although there is unani-—mity on this point, viz: That the admis—sion of the Cretan deputies might com—plicate the situation, and be regarded by —Turkey as a casus belli.
The same journal states that the Turk—ish Minister at Athens has, in fact, for—warded a note to the Greek Government, —in which he threatens to ask for his pas-—ports if the Parliament should admit the —CreTan deputies. This has been supported —by all the Diplomatic Corps except the —Russian Minister who had "declined the —honour." The Greece calls upon the Hel—lenic Government to assume a "becoming —and noble attitude" before the intrigues —of diplomacy to interfere in the "inter—nal affairs" of the Kingdom; and it —maintains that it is for the Parliament —alone to decide the question of the admis—sion of the CreTan deputies.

TRIAL OF SURREAT.—In the Surratt case, at Washington, on Monday, the District Attorney presented the new indictment charging the prisoner with conspi-cacy, and stated the United States were ready to proceed. The indictment was read, and Surratt pleaded not guilty. The prosecutor's counsel said they were not disposed to proceed with a new indictment until the old one of murder was disposed of. The prisoner should be tried on that, and be discharged; that was his right.
The District Attorney claimed the right to select which of the indictments he would proceed with. The Court admitted this, but the court had made an order to try the indictment for murder, and it was his opinion the case should go on. It was adjourned until Surratt in goal. He had been tried and the jury stood eight for acquit-ment and four for conviction. The District Attorney gave as reasons for delay the absence of material witnesses, and he advised they were secreting themselves.
The Court did not think the reasons sufficient, and cited authorities. He concluded by directing that the prisoner be discharged under the indictment for murder.
Understood, however, that he may be arrested again at any time under the indictment. The District Attorney then proposed for trial on the charge of conspiracy, but the Counsel for the defence said they had nothing to do under the new indictment. The case was then continued until Monday next. The bail was fixed at $10,000. It is expected the amount will be forthcoming.

CELEBRATE BRONCHIALS.—On Monday evening, at a meeting of the United Servants Institution, London, Mr. John Elder, the firm of Randolph & Elder, the eminent Clyde engineers, read a paper in which he discussed his original theory of constructing circular iron ships with improved propellers. Having adverted to a comparison of the respective merits of the turret and broadside system as at present adopted in the navy, the lecturer was competent to judge, the former was preferable one, inasmuch as the vessels built on its principles were less vulnerable than broadside ships, and were capable of carrying heavier guns.
He proposed to develop that system more fully by making the turret carry itself—that is to say, by extending its diameter, and by arranging its bottom so that it would represent the small section of a large sphere. The principal difficulty appears to be in steering, the apparatus for which is somewhat complicated.

POOR TRAIN.—The Tribune says: The emotion of the crowd who lined George Francis Train at the Liverpool Exchange on Wednesday night was certainly not polite, but we cannot call it inexcusable.
Train has been acknowledged for years as the great American Mountebank, and he could be hissed down by every audience whom he attempts to address the world would be the better for it.

In consequence of the bad judgment of the judges appointed at the last Horse Show at Guelph I will not disgrace my horse by travelling against such a horse as he got the first prize in his class general rule now adopted, so that no good horses
