They found a lot of gravel piled on the board ready for mixing with cement. The specifications call for one barrel of cement to seven of gravel. In response to a question from the committee, Contractor Graham gaid the gravel on the board was ready for mixing. Upon measuring it the committee found 81/5 barrels of gravel, instead of 7 barrels. The committee had the gravel reduced to 7 barrels, and went on with the test. The result of all the tests so far, including yesterday, satisfied the committee that one barrel of cement should be used for every 50 feet of walk. The engineer's reports show that Contractor Graham has in some cases made one barrel cover 60 feet, and that on the 220,000 feet of walks laid by him already he has aver-QUALITY

Three Extra Battalions and a Battery to Make Good the Casualties.

Boer Losses in the Ladysmith Fight Estimated at 900 to 1,000 Killed and Wounded.

ANOTHER ARMY CORPS. London, Oct. 31.-It is learned by the Associated Press that the war office has ordered a second army corps to be in readiness to be called out. The military officials have not yet decided whether the consummation of the plan will be necessary, but they are determined to have everything in readiness, either for a demonstration in Europe of Great Britain's capabilities, or for sending even a larger force to the scene of action. Until the receipt of the news of the Ladysmith disaster, knowing what steps will be decided While minor reverses were not wholly unexpected, no Englishman ever dreamed that anything like the STAGGERING BLOW Gen. Joubert delivered to Gen. White's forces yesterday, threatening the British arms in South Africa. And apparently the full extent of the disaster is not yet acknowledged. Inquiry at the war office seems to indicate that the military dispatches contain other particulars which it is deemed inexpedient to publish immedia ately. The story as already known, SUFFICIENTLY BAD.

The loss in effective men must be appalling to the general, who is practically surrounded. Two of the finest British regiments and a mule battery deducted from the Ladysmith garrison, weakens it about one-fifth of its total strength, and alters the whole situation very materially in favor of the Boers, who once again have shown themselves stern fighters and military strategists of superior order.
The disaster cost the British from 1,500 to 2,000 men and six 7-pound screw

GLOUCESTERSHIRE'S LOSS. Throughout the length and breadth of Great Britain the news traveled fast that about 2,000 men had been killed or captured, for such is the estimate of the best authorities, based on Gen. White's dispatch. As the day wore on the crowd around the war office swelled to enormous proportions, and at Gloucester, the homes of many of those engaged, the wildest excitement prevailed. The special edition of the local newspapers were speedily exhausted; and the same thing occurred at Bristol and other towns in that county. The fighting of Reitfontein had made many a Gloucestershire wife a widow, and this second overwhelming loss, coming so soon after the previous engagement where the Glouces-dire dismay to the little county. MORAL EFFECT OF THE REVERSE Apart from the immediate loss in effectives, which will seriously cripple White's operations, the British defeat must have a most depressing effect on the balance of the Ladysmith forces, while it may be expected to have much weight with the Boers who are wavering as to which side to support, and will immensely raise the morale of the Boer forces and bring crowds of recruits to their standard. Gen. White manfully accepts all the discredit attaching to the disaster, which, apparently, was at least partially due to the stampeding of the mules with the guns.

FORTY-TWO OFFICERS PRISON-

ERS. From the list it will be seen that 42 officers were made prisoners, besides a newspaper correspondent, Mr. J. Hyde. "Awful British disaster," yelled news-boys today, and all London stayed its course and read the extras containing the official acknowledgment of the British reverse. The announcement appeared at the hour when shoppers crowded Regent and Oxford streets and Piccadilly. Women stopped their carriages in the streets and hailed the boys. Out of fashionable stores wo men ran for papers. They stood stockstill in the crowded streets scanning the pages of the extras, while some of them shed tears.

RUSH TO THE WAR OFFICE. Then there was a rush to the war office, which, by noon, was surrounded with private carriages and hansoms, while many came on foot, all waiting for the possible posting among the lists of dead of the names they held dear. By noon gloom and bitter sorrow prevalled throughout the British metropolis. At the government office one official said to a representative of the Associated Press: "It is inexplicable, and I am sorry that its moral effect is inestimable. We have lost heavily in many wars, and have had regiments almost wiped out; but to have regiments captured, and by the Boers—1t

The manliness of Gen. White's avowal that it was his fault has awakened the deepest sympathy. An official of the war office said: "It is more than likely due to the craze of our younger officers to distinguish themselves, obtain mention in the dispatches, and earn the Victoria Cross, than to the fault of that splendid Indian veteran, Gen. White, in spite of his pitiful avowal."
