inhabitant had there been so much excitement in the county. That a murder should have been committed within a quarter of a mile of the Grange, on Olivia Vanley's wedding day was bad enough; but that the suspected man should be the mysterious Mr. Faradeane, of The Dell, raised popular curiosity and interest to fever-Then came the news that the bride had been stricken down with fever, and was lying dangerously ill at her father's house. Scarcely any other topic was discussed, and persons eagerly asked one another whether any new phase of what was already called "the Hawk-wood tragedy" had appeared. The only man who seemed to have retained his calmness in the midst of the excitement was the prisoner himself. While everybody else was eagerly debating the probability of his guilt or innocence, and endeavoring to ascribe the motive for his crime, if indeed he committed it, Harold Faradeane uttered no word which could tend towards a solution of the mystery. Some thought that it was impossible for him to be innocent; and when the coroner's jury had returned a verdict murder, people shook their heads and pursed their lips signifi-

Interests allied with the local club in previous years have held leases on the track, calling for its use for thirty days of racing, the contract price for that length of time to be paid whether the track was used or not. Recently it has not been used as, with a sufficiency of racing dates for the plant on this side of the river, it has been deemed inadvisable to race at the less convenient location.

Secretary Parmer has been repre senting Windsor in the A. T. A. meet-Faradeane-the prisoner-with ings, it having been the intention right along to put this track in the High land Park Club list. By holding it the local people prevent the Western Jockey Club from getting in and running an opposition meeting, with a gate and ring war. There has been talk that the club would use the track for a fall meeting, but this seems doubtful, as it is almost certain that the Highland Park Club will get everything that it wishes for its Detroit plant. It is probable that the Windsor lease will resolve itself into a protective measure, with dates, should any be assigned, later transferred to this side of the river.
